'Copy to Nixon' data charged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., says he knows of one or more secret documents marked "copy to the President" which he believes indicate President Nixon knew about efforts by his staff to cover up the Watergate burglary.

Symington, acting chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, made a brief, cryptic remark about the existence of such a document in a television interview Sunday (CBS "Face the Nation"). He confirmed it in a later conversation with UPI but declined to elaborate in any way.

Symington's committee has been holding closed-door hearings on alleged White House staff efforts to involve the Central Intelligence Agency in covering up Watergate.

Symington, who had said May 18, he found it hard to "visualize" President Nixon knowing nothing about the coverup, was asked in the CBS interview whether later information changed this view. He replied by recalling that three top Nixon aides—H.R. Haldeman, John Ehrlichman and John W. Dean III—had all lost their jobs.

"Under those circumstances, plus the fact that some of the paper says 'copy to the President,' it's hard to believe that he knew nothing about the effort to cover up the Watergate burglary," Symington said.

Hard to believe

"I don't say that he did," he added. "I never did say that, and I wouldn't argue with him if he says he didn't. But I just say it's hard to believe that he didn't know anything about it."

When asked by UPI to elaborate, Symington said he was not at liberty to discuss it, adding, "I'll just have to let the remark stand."

Nixon said May 22: "I took no part in, nor was I aware of, any subsequent efforts that may have been made to cover up Watergate."

In other developments:

—Democratic National Chairman Robert S. Strauss charged Sunday that President Nixon is trying to "wrap himself" in a "national security" blanket to hide from scandal. Interviewed on NBC's "Meet the Press," Strauss said, "There's a big difference—and I think the public will understand the difference — between national security and Nixon security." Nixon has said hindsight told him that his own interest in national security was used by his staff as an excuse for covering up their Watergate involvement, and he stressed the need for secrecy in a recent talk to former POWs.

—The privately funded Fair Campaign Practices Committee said that in 20 years of studying political abuses it has never encountered anything as potentially damaging to "selfgoverning society" as Watergate. It said that even aside from Watergate, campaigns are getting dirtier.

Want answers

—Democratic party lawyers planned to go to court this week to ask that Haldeman and Ehrlichman be compelled to answer questions about the Watergate coverup in the Democrats' $6.4 million damage suit against the Republicans.

Symington has previously described closed-door testimony to his committee to the effect that Haldeman, Ehrlichman and Dean all were involved in various ways in trying to get CIA to cover up the Watergate scandal.

The committee is in possession of several sets of Watergate related documents. These include the so-called "Dean papers" describing a 1970 national security investigation plan. But these pre-date Watergate. The committee also has 11 memos on CIA contacts with the White House and a set of anonymous letters written to the CIA by later-convicted conspirator James M. McCord, warning CIA it was being used. It was not clear whether Symington referred to any of these or to still other documents.

Symington said his committee has recalled CIA's deputy director Vernon Walters, who has already given extensive testimony, "to explain some things that aren't quite clear."

Astronauts get into routine aboard Skylab

HOUSTON (UPI) — With Skylab cooling under the shade of an umbrella, three astronauts settled down in the space station today and began all-important medical testing for a record 28 days in orbit.

Charles "Pete" Conrad, Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz awakened on their fourth day in space shortly after 7 a.m. and their first chore was to draw blood samples from each other for later analysis.

"Hello there, our hands are full of bloody medical equipment, but we'll recover," said Weitz when the big space station swept over the Gulf of Mexico at 8:15 a.m. It was the first time Americans had taken blood samples in space.

Conrad, Kerwin and Weitz have turned the 100-ton, eight compartment assembly into a liveable house. They cooked breakfast in their wardroom for the first time this morning and plan to move into three private bedrooms tonight.

"I've just finished shaving, breakfast is cooking and I think with a little luck at all we'll get into a good routine," Conrad said.

Things were going so smoothly now that the space station has been repaired and cooled that flight directors scheduled an in-flight televised news conference for the pilots this afternoon.

"If it weren't for the fact we had such a spectacular view out of the wardroom window, I'd think we were back in Houston swimming," Conrad said referring to flight simulations the pilots conducted in a mockup Skylab.

"Right now, we're over Italy and the weather is spectacularly clear. We can see just about all of Italy from one end to the other, clear across the Mediterranean, going across ground I've never seen before."

Conrad, making his fourth flight in space, said kitchen work was taking a little longer than expected, "but I don't think that's to be unexpected. I think we're getting a little bit better hang on it as we get better organized."

He said he and his colleagues were wearing shoes with triangle plates to lock themselves in the gridwork of the floors and ceilings while they worked in weightlessness. He said some work was easy but they were having trouble keeping anchored in the bathroom —"We're ricocheting off the walls in there."

Soviet military pilot defects

BRAUNSCHWEIG, Germany (UPI)—A Soviet military pilot, who parachuted to safety before his SU7 fighter-bomber crashed inside the West German border, today asked for political asylum, the news agency DPA said.

DPA attributed its report of the Russian flight lieutenant's defection to the West German interior ministry in Bonn.

DPA said the 21-year-old pilot has been transferred to the camp for foreign political refugees at Zirndorf near Nuernberg. The pilot's identity has not been released.

The Russian's plane, a model that went into production in 1958, crashed into a field near here and 17 miles west of the East-West German border Sunday morning.

The pilot, who was later questioned by officers of the West German federal intellingence agency, escaped with minor bruises.

In 1967, another Soviet military pilot asked for political asylum in West Germany after he crash landed his MIG17 in a field in Dillingen county.

West German authorities later returned the plane to the Russians.

MEMORIAL DAY 1973

Mrs. Dorothy Prickett, representing the Auxiliary of the Charles P. Rowe American Legion Post 30 placed a bouquet of Flanders Poppies at the Veterans Monument at Garfield Park in Pomona during services there this morning. The poppies are from seeds which were brought to this country from France after World War I by Mrs. Tom Northey, a French war-bride. Mrs. Northey is a member of the Auxiliary. The American Legion conducted Memorial Day services at several locations in valley communities today.

Twisters strike dozen towns in 'Bama; 11 killed

By United Press International

Tornadoes, violent thunderstorms and rain brought death and heavy damage to the southern and central portions of the nation on the Memorial Day weekend with the south suffering the most.

Winds, flash floods and thunderstorms left 34 persons known dead and hundreds injured. Another six persons were believed drowned in flash floods in western North Carolina.

More than a dozen small communities in Alabama were hit by tornadoes, leaving 11 persons dead. In the small town of Brent in west central Alabama, 8 persons were killed in a twister that destroyed much of the town. Three other deaths were reported elsewhere.

Towns struck by the twister included Brent, Greensboro, Wilsonville, Childersburg, Tarrant, Pinson and Center Point.

At least 100 persons were injured in the Alabama twisters, and power was cut off to about 25,000 users in Birmingham.

Another twister steam-rolled through Jonesboro, Ark., Sunday, cutting a 10-mile swath from the South Side of the Mississippi Delta city and leaving three persons dead and more than 200 injured. Thousands of houses were destroyed or damaged in the twister.

Twisters also spun over Mississippi, leaving one person dead and about 30 others injured.

Five persons died when a tornado roared through Keefeton, Okla., Saturday and another person was killed in a tornado Saturday at Crestview, Fla.

Heavy rains

Heavy rains also touched off flash flooding.

A flood at Dalton, Ga., Sunday claimed the life of a 10-year-old boy.

Another nine persons died in weather-related accidents in Illinois, Missouri, and Kansas.

Flash flooding deluged two Southern Illinois counties Sunday, forcing families to evacuate their homes. Heavy rains were measured unofficially at up to eight or 10 inches in the Elco, Ill., area.

An Alexander County civil defense spokesman estimated damage in that Illinois county alone at $1 million and said 100 families were forced to evacuate.

"It's the worst flash flooding anybody in this area can recall," the spokesman said.

Flash flooding also plagued Union County, Illinois. A snowplow was called in to remove debris from county roadways.

Chino man, 18, dies of auto crash injuries

CHINO — An 18-year-old Chino man died early Sunday morning in Chino General Hospital nearly three hours after he suffered a skull fracture and internal injuries in a one-car accident near Euclid Avenue on Riverside Drive.

Dead is Frank Villalpando of 13172 12th St., Chino. His brother, Jeronimo Vollalpando, 24, of 4800 Fairway Blvd., Chino, suffered minor injuries in the accident.

According to Highway Patrol officers, the accident occurred at about 12:30 a.m. Sunday. Jeronimo Villalpanod was driving his car west on Riverside Drive at about 50 miles per hour with his brother seated in the front passenger's seat. Officers gave this version:

An approaching eastbound car had its bright lights on and Villalpando blinked his own lights at the other car. This apparently caused a failure in the car's lighting system as all its lights went out. Unable to see, Villalpando swerved right, the car slammed into a telephone pole and then rebounded across the roadway, coming to a stop in an open field on the south side of the road.

Both brothers were taken by ambulance to the hospital where Frank died about three hours later. Jeronimo was released after treatment.

Joint U.S.-Russ space flight in '75, says Soviet

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda said Saturday a joint American-Russian space flight will begin July 15, 1975.

Pravda quoted Arnold Fratkin, chief of the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), as saying the Soviet spaceship would leave first, followed 7½ hours later by the American Apollo craft.

The Soviets announced the names of their two-man crew Thursday. The three American crewmen were named in January.

Pravda and Fratkin said both countries have agreed on radio frequencies to be used for communication between the two spacecraft and special Russian-English vocabulary lists are now being compiled.

Plane crash kills six Southlanders

COTTAGE GROVE, ore. (UPI) — Six members of a prominent Southern California family were killed during the weekend when their twin engine Cessna 310 plunged to earth during a landing approach.

Owner-pilot John W. Mieras, 56, an attorney from Pasadena, was killed Saturday along with his wife, Eunice, 56; their daughter, Christina Gaglione, 22; her husband, Fabio, 25; Mieras' mother, Jennie, 84; and his brother, James E. Mieras, 47, of Fullerton.

Two men shot; father-in-law under arrest

POMONA — A family argument at 1040 S. Park Ave. wound up with two persons shot and a third arrested on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder late Sunday night.

The victims, Rudy Vargas, 31, and Larry E. Ozuna, 23, were reported in satisfactory condition this morning at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. Both had chest and stomach wounds. Ozuna was in the intensive care unit.

Ozuna, of Oceanside, and Vargas, 930 W. Third St., are sons-in-law of the man charged with shooting them. The suspect is Froto Lujana Gallardo, 44, of the S. Park Avenue address. A 17-year-old youth also was arrested at the scene by officers who charged that he interfered with their investigation.

Details of the shooting were not available early today but police said they were summoned to the address and found Ozuna lying in the street and Vargas just outside the house. The suspect surrendered without incident.

U. S. Navy ship in Japanese crash

TOKYO (UPI) — The 1,450-ton U. S. Navy destroyer escort USS Charles Berry and a Japanese cargo ship collided today in Kobe harbor.

A Navy spokesman said damage to both ships was minor and that apparently no one was hurt.

100-degree heat roasts valley

A desert air mass brought blistering weather to Pomona Valley Sunday. It's supposed to reach 100 degrees today and near 100 degrees Tuesday.

Sunday's hot weather and clear skies were an added bonus for Pomona Valley residents who celebrated the holiday at home. Campgrounds in nearby mountains were reported packed to capacity for the holiday weekend.

The Cal Poly weather station said the high temperature in Pomona Sunday reached 95 degrees. This morning's low was a warm 55 degrees.

The hottest May 27 on record was 96 degrees set in 1968.

Temperatures in Ontario soared to 100 degrees Sunday. Palm Springs reported a peak of 104 degrees Sunday.

The weatherman said the hot weather will continue today and Tuesday in Pomona but temperatures should cool down to the high 80s by Wednesday because of cooling sea breezes.

4-point earthquake strikes Argentina

MENDOZA, Argentina (UPI) — A slight earthquake rocked this city in western Argentina Sunday night but caused neither damages nor casualties.

The Mendoza seismological center said the quake measured four points on the Mercalli scale and was recorded at 9:50 p.m. EDT

4 persons held; huge smuggling ring broken up

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Authorities said today they have broken up "a major smuggling operation in California" with the arrests of a young couple and two men who allegedly ferried $1 million worth of marijuana into the United States by boat from Mexico.

The suspects, Donald Hickman, 29, his wife, Gloria, 28, of Modesto, Calif., Thomas Landerson 28, and Donald Prator, 27, both of Oakdale, Calif., were charged over the weekend with smuggling, conspiracy, unlawful importation and distribution of a controlled substance.

Customs agents seized a boat loaded with a ton of marijuana at Mission Bay as the contraband was being removed. Agents said the four suspects had sailed a similar boat to Ensenada, Mexico, and exchanged it there for the one that was loaded with the marijuana.

"I think we have arrested the key people in a major smuggling operation in California," said Paul V. Artin, senior resident customs agent.

"Our information is that this group has been in business for the last six or seven months."

The four suspects were due for arraignment before a U.S. magistrate on Tuesday.

Man arrested in threat on New Orleans mayor

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Police have jailed a teen-aged Wyoming serviceman reported to be absent without leave from Arizona who threatened to kill Mayor Moon Landrieu.

James A. Nichol, 19, of Worland, Wyo., was booked Sunday with carrying a concealed weapon and aggravated assault on a cab driver.

Officers reported Clarence Griffin, the cab driver, told them Nichol entered his cab and ordered, "Bring me to the mayor's house. I'm going to kill him." Nichol displayed a pistol and shot at but missed Griffin when the driver got out of the cab on the pretense he needed directions to Landrieu's residence.

The shot attracted a hotel security guard and other bystanders who subdued Nichol in the downtown section of the city far from the mayor's house.

Police did not disclose any reason for Nichol's action. They said he was AWOL from Ft. Huachupa, Ariz.

HEW accused --more chiefs than Indians

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., says the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has "grade creep" —even more, he says than the military.

In bureaucratic jargon, this means there are too many bosses and not enough people to do the work.

Aspin said the number of HEW officials earning $31,000 or more annually—putting them at grade 16 or above—has grown from 84 to 414 in the past 10 years.

During the same period, he said, the number of HEW employes at grades 13-25 has increased four-fold from about 3,300 to more than 13,000 and grown as a percentage of the total work force from 5.3 per cent to 12 per cent this year.

"What this means," Aspin said, "is that while the administration has been cutting its budget through cutting social service programs, the bureaucracy has grown fatter and fatter."

Moment of truth arrives in L.A. mayoral contest

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Mayor Sam Yorty, calling Los Angeles the nation's best run major city, tries Tuesday for an unprecedented fourth term as head of America's third largest city.

The polls indicate his rival, black City Councilman Thomas Bradley, is leading. But four years ago, Yorty and Bradley met on the same battleground and the incumbent won handily, despite polls that showed Bradley ahead.

Although both candidates are Democrats, the mayoral race is on a nonpartisan basis. Tuesday's runoff election follows an April primary in which Bradley outpolled 14 contenders, including Yorty, but failed to get a majority.

This year the two candidates met for the first time in three televised debates, two of them turning into name-calling free-for-alls in which little attention was given to city issues.

Yorty, who has run the city for 12 years and last year ran unsuccessfully for the Democratic presidential nomination, accused Bradley of accepting campaign contributions from persons who have ties with Las Vegas gambling. The councilman denied there was any wrongdoing.

Last week, Bradley forces charged that Yorty has operated a $1 million secret reelection fund and that $50,000 of it had been used to take out a life insurance policy for the mayor.

Yorty said funds for the policy came from legal gifts, but Charles T. Manatt, Southern California chairman of the Democratic Party, called Sunday for a "full public view" of the alleged secret fund.

Recent polls have shown that Bradley is a few percentage points ahead and is gaining in selected precincts but that there is a large number of voters still undecided.

Both candidates are heavily endorsed. Bradley, a former police lieutenant, has the backing of the majority of local labor groups, including the AFL-CIO affiliates.

Yorty, who is campaigning on the platform that Los Angeles is the best run major city and the "envy of the nation," has been endorsed in recent television spots by Hollywood personalities, including actor John Wayne and entertainer Danny Thomas.

Black Panther leader Huey Newton last week put the support of his group behind Bradley, but the councilman rejected it, saying he did not want it and didn't approve of the motives of the militant organization.

Egypt military ordered to prepare for Israel war

By United Press International

Egyptian authorities are issuing orders to military commands "on the basis that fighting (against Israel) will start shortly," the weekly Arab Report of Beirut's An Nahar newspaper said today.

"There are speculations that (Egypt's President Anwar) Sadat may take the opportunity of the forthcoming Nixon-Brezhnev meeting on 18 June to give the green light," the weekly said in its review of Egyptian war preparations.

In Tel Aviv, a military spokesman took the threat lightly but reasserted Israel's preparedness for war should Egypt decide to open fire.

"We are always ready for anything," the spokesman said. He pointed out that Egypt had undertaken similar preparations in the past, especially prior to diplomatic efforts to force Israel to withdraw from occupied Arab territory.

The Middle East is to be debated by the U.N. Security Council in early June at Egypt's request.

The An Nahar dispatch said: "Sadat hopes to make use of Libyan Mirage jet fighters, some of which are believed to be already stationed on Egyptian bases, and he will also receive Hawker-Hunter aircraft from Kuwait. Egyptian pilots have been trained on Hunters and Saudi Arabian Lightnings.

"....Every Egyptian official stressed that the battle is inevitable, although plans cannot be revealed," An Nahar said. "The An Nahar correspondent reports that orders are now being given to military commands on the basis that fighting will start shortly."

The report said "observers believe" that the Soviet Union "since about three months ago has shown a more accommodating attitude to Egypt on the supply of weapons."

2 chute jumpers killed in Arizona

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (UPI) — Two young men performing a free fall parachute jump with two other parachutists pulled their ripcords just one second too late and were killed when they hit the ground.

NASA studies 9 students in isolation experiment

DAVIS, Calif. (UPI) — Nine students who have spent more than three months in isolation under artificial lighting conditions are close to the end of an experiment to determine how time lag affects people.

Preliminary results show that a disrupter "may have a more important influence" than a leader in such an environment, said NASA scientist Joan Vernikos-Danellis.

The 105-day experiment at the University of California-Davis will end Tuesday.

The experiment, supported by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, should help predict how astronauts will perform in space stations and how jet travelers are affected by a change in time.

On Feb. 13, the nine volunteers entered three 11-by 17-foot rooms, all identical except for the lighting conditions. One group served as a control and the other two groups were experimented with.

During the experiment, researchers first lit all the rooms with continuous low levels of light. Then, they introduced cycles of darkness and light, eight hours different from the normal cycle.

They also lit one room continuously but dimly, and put the other on 16 hours of light with eight hours of darkness.

All nine students were wired to record their heartbeats and body temperatures so scientists could gauge their adjustments to the changing light cycles.

Connally denies he assisted ITT gain approval of merger

NEW YORK (UPI) — Presidential assistant John B. Connally denied Sunday that he helped International Telephone and Telegraph Co. gain federal approval of a controversial merger with the Hartford Fire Insurance Co.

The Hartford Courant reported that Connally intervened on ITT's behalf in April, 1971, when he was President Nixon's treasury secretary. At the time, the Justice Department was considering antitrust action to block the merger.

"I don't care what they said; I didn't intervene in anything," Connally told newsmen before addressing a dinner of the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations.

During his speech, Connally did not mention the Watergate scandal by name. But he said, "The genius of American democracy is its ability to right itself when things go wrong. We are seeing today not the destruction of our system, but a reaffirmation that our system works."

Ford plans to meet guerrillas' demands

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — A spokesman for Ford Motor Co. of Argentina said Sunday the company will begin this week carrying out its controversial decision to pay $1 million in charitable donations as demanded by urban guerrillas.

The spokesman said "a third party" would handle distribution of the medical and food supplies to hospitals and schools. The spokesman also said Ford considers the case "closed."

Ford headquarters in Dearborn, Mich., announced last Wednesday it would meet the demands after members of the leftwing People's Revolutionary Army (ERP) shot and wounded two Ford employes in Buenos Aires as they left work.

The guerrilla organization left notes saying the shooting was a kidnap attempt and more attacks against Ford workers would follow unless the company donated $1 million to Argentine schools and hospitals.

Ford's decision to comply caused dismay among some American businessmen in Buenos Aires. They said it could start a wave of similar threats by guerrillas against U.S. companies operating in the country.

Although Ford announced it would meet the guerrilla demands, celebrations surrounding the inauguration Friday of President Hector J. Campora forced postponement of payment until business resumed this week.

Campora's first official act in office was to grant amnesty for political prisoners — including members of the ERP.

ERP said in a communique Sunday it would continue to attack "multinational corporations and exploit capital" but would not attack the new government.

People regard Watergate coverage fair

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Almost twice as many Californians think that news coverage of the Watergate affair has been fair and unbiased as think the opposite, pollster Mervin D. Field said today.

Field released the results of his California Poll, a statewide survey made between May 7 and 17 in which a representative cross-section of 1,043 adults was interviewed.

Field said that 64 per cent of the public believed that if the news media had not contimued investigation of the Watergate affair, the matter would have remained covered up.

The poll also showed that 71 per cent of the public believed the news media would have worked just as hard to uncover wrongdoing no matter who was president.

Field said that Republicans indicated a less favorable impression of the news media in the Watergate affair than Democrats, with 42 per cent of Republicans considering the coverage unfair, while only 18 per cent of Democrats held that opinion.

Train explosion

Contents of bomb leak before blast

BENSON, Ariz. (UPI) — The contents of a bomb aboard a Southern Pacific Railroad train that exploded near here Thursday, leaked out onto the tracks five miles before the site of the explosion.

William G. Meeker, chief investigator for the National Transportation Safety Board, said Sunday night that residue found along the tracks was identified as Tritonal, the explosive substance from which the bombs were made.

The investigator said it had not been determined what caused the explosive substance to spill out onto the tracks. He did not rule out the possibility of sabotage but added, "we have certainly not found one thing to substantiate it."

Twelve cars of the 107-car Bluestreak Merchandizers, loaded with 2,000 50-pound bombs, exploded during a two-hour period near this desert community Thursday night.

"Approximately five miles in advance of the final stopping point of the train, there was an event that occurred in one of the cars of the train," Meeker said.

"We strongly suspect, in fact we believe, it to have been in one of the cars containing explosives and that results in debris deposits along the railroad right of way.

"Included in the debris were portions of the explosive contents of the bomb, identified as Tritonal," he said.

Meeker said it was that leak, five miles before the train exploded, that caused small fires along the tracks which were seen by two crewmen in the caboose and an area resident, Mrs. Thurston Comstock, of Dragoon.

Investigators have learned that after the crewmen in the caboose saw one of the cars on fire and began emergency stopping procedures, bombs apparently fell from one or more of the cars.

One of the bombs, although not detonating, "is believed to have reacted violently," damaging motor vehicles aboard one of the cars as the train traveled toward Benson, Meeker said.

"Other bombs that fell from the train remained intact," he said. "The crew, in the rear of the train, detrained, and the train continued down the track without any additional occurances until such time as it stopped.

"Subsequent to stopping, explosive forces were observed in the cars. There was detonation of bombs in a progressive manner until such time as all cars containing explosives were consumed."

Authorities, meanwhile, were checking the contents of a 13th bomb-laden car which had been loaded at the same time as those that exploded but was sidetracked at El Paso, Tex.

National bank chairman quits

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Financier C. Arnholt Smith has resigned as chairman of the board of United States National Bank, five months after he relinquished the presidency of the bank.

The announcement came only a day before Smith filed a letter of intent to sell his San Diego Padres baseball team to a Washington, D.C. group of businessmen for $12 million— the highest price in baseball history.

In a letter to shareholders, Smith said, "When a person has devoted 56 years of life to banking, the last 40 years as chief executive officer of this bank, I believe it is time to retire from active participation."

Smith said he would retain the title of chairman emeritus of United States National Bank, which this year attained $1 billion in resources.

Watergate giving Demos new hopes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A couple of weeks ago, Democrats dropped plans for a portable bar at a private luncheon in Washington.

Last week, at a scheduled Democratic fund raising dinner-dance, there was no dance floor.

No, puritanism is not taking hold at the Democratic party.

The vanishing bar and dance floor are signs of the reviving hopes of the Democratic party. They were eliminated to make room for an outpturing of party faithful and party contributors.

Watergate was the main reason for the big turnouts. The party faithful wanted to hear their leaders lay it on the line about Watergate. Party contributors were showing their confidence that Democrats were on the way back from one of the worst shellackings in presidential election history.

Money is starting to come to the Democratic party at a much greater rate than the trickle of recent years that did not nearly match the rate of flow to Republican campaign chests.

For the first time in years, the Democrats sce at least the way open to get out of hock. The national commitee's debt — once more than $9 million primarily because of debts from the 1968 presidential campaign — is now down to little more than $3 million. Democratic National Chairman Robert S. Strauss plans a six-hour September telethon fund-raiser to pare that down.

The last Democratic telethon netted $2 million to pay off some of the party's I-O-U's. Half the proceeds of the coming telethon will go to state Democratic parties to prepare for the 1974 congressional elections. The remaining half is pledged to pay off more of the debts to telephone companies, airlines and such.

Last week's party fund-raiser at the Washington Hilton Hotel raised more than $1 million, topping by a quarter of a million the amount grossed by the GOP at a similar event two weeks ago. And the Democrats did it by charging $500 a plate compared to a $1,000 tab imposed by the Republicans $1,000. The Republicans even gave away batches of free tickets to fill the hall for their featured speaker, President Nixon.

The Democrats are aware of public cynicism over the corrupting influence of money in politics because of Watergate. Watergate, according to Democratic fund-raiser Walter Shorenstein of California, will make politicians cautious of money "that's out to buy something."

Democratic leaders also are more than a little concerned of signs of a possible euphoria which could lead the party into an election-year psychology of coasting to victory on Watergate.

"We can't automatically run as the party of honesty against the party of dishonesty," featured speaker Sen. Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina cautioned at last week's Democratic rally.

In Congress, Democratic leaders have been trying to flag down some party enthusiasts who talk of attempting to impeach Nixon.

Political history gives the Democrats cause for pause over use of corruption as an election issue. Teapot Dome perhaps was the biggest scandal in government in modern times. It never touched Calvin Coolidge, who was vice president at the time.

Coolidge easily was elected on his own after succeeding President Warren G. Harding, who died in office. The Teapot Dome investigations were carried out during the Coolidge administration but revelations didn't hurt the Republican Party at all in the next presidential elections. They came up with a "Mr. Clean" — Herbert C. Hoover.

President still strong for oil, say GOP chiefs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Construction of a proposed transAlaskan oil pipeline, currently bogged down in Congress, still has President's Nixon's strong support, according to Prpublican congressional leaders.

"We need the oil. We need it now, The only way to get it is to build the Alaska pipeline," Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott quoted Nixon as saying Wednesday during a two-hour White House meeting.

Scott also told reporters that Nixon believes construction of the nearly 800-mile-long line from Alaska's North Slope to the ice-free port of Valdez, shtuld be coupled with U.S.Canadian negotiations for a second pipeline.

Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, who also attended the meeting, said there was plenty of oil under Alaska's North Slope to justify two lines.

Tree worship started saying

The expression "knock on wood" goes back to an early form of worship when primitive man worshiped nature and, in particular, trees. So primitive man rapped on trees in order to summon up spirits that would favor whatever he planned to do.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

There are 71 land-grant colleges and universities in the United States. They were established as a result of the first Morrill act of 1862, The World Almanac says. The name land grant is applied to them because the federal government gave public lands to the states for the support of the colleges.

Voters to decide makeup of the Assembly Tuesday

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The political makeup of the Assembly will be at stake Tuesday when voters decide the fate of 28 candidates competing for three vacant seats in Southern California special elections.

Democrat Frank Vicencia hopes he will become the first lobbyist in recent history to enter the ranks of California legislators in a runoff election to fill the 38th Assembly seat in southeast Los Angeles County.

Vicencia has mounted a massive campaign — perhaps the most expensive per capita in the state's history—to defeat Republican Bob McLennan and Peace and Freedom candidate George Dear.

With big contributions from dairy interests, the veteran milk industry lobbyist spent $13.12 for every one of the 7,095 persons who voted for him in the May 1 primary in what is considered the most expensive Assembly race on record. His total spending is expected to exceed $150,000.

But his big spending has become the target of his opponents, who charge he is literally buying the seat once held by the late Assemblyman Carley Porter.

The other two elections Tuesday are primaries, one in Los Angeles and the other in San Diego. If no candidate wins a majority, runoff elections will be held June 26.

Republican William A. Craven, a San Diego county supervisor, is expected to walk away with the GOP nomination in the 80th Assembly district, formerly held by Sen. John Stull, who was elected to the state Senate earlier this year.

The district is considered a 'safe" Republican seat, and some observers say Craven may even win the seat outright even though 14 others are running. William D. Bell, an Oceanside city councilman, is viewed as the leading Democrat.

Democrat Dick Floyd, a former aide to Sen. Ralph C. Dills, is a top contender for his party's nomination for the 67th Assembly seat, left vacant by the death of Assemblyman Larry E. Townsend.

Other top Democratic candidates include Donald L. Dear, a Gardena city councilman, and David K. Hayward, a former Redondo Beach councilman. The leading Republican, according to political observers, is Paul T. Bannai, a Gardena realtor. Democrats outnumber Republicans in the district by about a 2-to-1 margin.

Reapportionment has become a central issue in the race, with many candidates blasting the Assembly for wiping out the distirct in a new redistricting plan passed and sent to the Senate recently.

The final outcome of the three races will reshuffle the political lineup in the Assembly, which now stands at 48 Democrats, 27 Republicans and five vacancies.

The first in Hall of Fame

The first five players elected to the National Baseball Hall of Fame were Tyrus Cobb, Walter Johnson, George Herman (Babe) Ruth, Christopher Mathewson and John P. (Honus) Wagner.

Arnebergh facing first real battle

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — For the first time in 20 years as city attorney, 63-year-old incumbent Roger Arnebergh has a stiff battle on his hands.

Arnebergh faces attorney Burt Pines, 34, in Tuesday's runoff after a campaign which became so bitter at times that the two candidates agreed to a nine-point "fair campaign conduct code" with provisions against making false or unverifiable charges.

Arnebergh has pointed to his youthful challenger's inexperience and charged Pines accepted campaign contributions from pornographers and persons with criminal records, all of which Pines denied.

The challenger accused Arnebergh of growing complacent in his 20 years in office and said Arnebergh "fixed" a case for a friend accused of assaulting a highway patrolman. Pines also accused Arnebergh of conflict-of-interest in a 1964 Laurel Canyon property settlement. Arnebergh has denied all of the charges.

Pines, a USC graduate who served two years as an assistant U.S. attorney before entering private practice, was a political unknown before the primary, in which he received 40 per cent of the vote to Arnebergh's 47 per cent.

He has said during the campaign that the city attorney should become more visible outside his normal duties by proposing legislation and speaking out on issues beyond the scope of his office.

Arnebergh says Pines "would suddenly become the dictator and rule the world" if he had his way. The city attorney, according to the incumbent, is primarily the city's lawyer and doesn't need any further public exposure.

The campaign practices agreement signed last month required each candidate to submit advance copies of all mailings and advertisements to the other side as well as to avoid false statements. Both sides observed the advance notice provisions but disagreed on specifically what statements were false and unverifiable.

Voters in Tuesday's election will also have five city charter amendments to vote on, including a proposal to allow the city council to call special elections to fill vacancies in elective offices.

Claremont to call for bids on yard jobs

CLAREMONT — The City Council will call for bids on buildings and a fueling, lube and hoist system for the new city yards at a meeting Tuesday at 8 a.m. at the council chambers.

The council adjourned its meeting last Tuesday night to the one Tuesday morning.

Wednesday city officials will submit building plans for the city yards in the block on First Street between Cornell and Berkeley avenues to the county for a plan check, and hope to receive the plans back by June 15.

The city will open bids on the fuel, lube and hoist system June 22, and the council will award the contract at its June 26 meeting, with construction to start by July 15.

The city will open bids on the new city yard buildings July 5, with the council awarding the contract at its July 10 session. Construction of the buildings should start by July 30.

The city plans to build its new police facility on the site of the present city yards on Bonita Avenue, between Cornell and Berkeley avenues.

Ontario apt. arsonist sought

ONTARIO — Police are seeking a man who entered an apartment at 1739 J St Sunday morning and set a fire in a closet that caused an estimated $100 damage.

Police said the fire was reported about 12:53 a.m. by the apartment manager, Billie Hernandez. Hernandez said that his wife told him that a man had entered the apartment and started a fire in the kitchen closet. Hernandez told his wife to spray him with water so he could break into the apartment and douse the fire. Hernandez managed to douse the fire before firemen arrived.

TUESDAY, MAY 29

Your birthday today: Brings in the closing phases of preparation that directs you toward your life goals. You put aside needless burdens this year. Relationships are free and easy. Today's natives have wanderlust, constant interest in people from distant places.

AIRES (March 21-April 19): Adopt an easy schedule today — there are extras to fill all gaps. Budgets and reserve funds need conservative revisions.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Excitement is where you create it, tho this is not productive. Let friends do their own deeds in peace. You'll be glad tomorrow.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Goal changes take more than casual drift, are worth the effort. Home affairs require imagination.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): There's much to be gained by personal independence. Check out your household. Plan improvement. Work conditions ease a bit.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Routine should characterize practically all your current program. Be pleased with even slow progress

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You have basically calm working conditions, and in return you must do-it-yourself, while sharing results.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You're off dead center and merrily on your way. Test a new idea and revise it now if needed.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Select for quality, then for urgency; disencumber yourself of unneeded possessions. See life as a clear passage ahead.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Laziness and carelessness are your main temptations. It's easy to scramble things in an unthinking moment. Besides this, you may make progress.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Check out any reasonable-sounding offer. Perhaps acquaintances have ideas that balance with yours.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Home life thrives. Career-building creeps at slow pace. Associates try to talk you into an extensive scheme.

PISCES Feb. 19-March 20): Peace is a good goal — be in harmony with the environment. See that you are not the target of petty moments.

Padgett and Swann vows are exchanged

In a Sunday afternoon ceremony, Anita Rose Swann became the bride of George E. Padgett Jr.

The bride's cousin, the Rev. Louis Vitale, performed the double-ring ceremony.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Trapani of Chino was given in marriage by her father. Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Padgett of Corona are parents of the groom.

A dinner dance at the Jonathan Club in Los Angeles honored the newlyweds who are departing for a month's tour of Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Padgett will make their home in Corona.

The bride attended La Verne College and is now working on her master's degree at LVC. She is an English teacher at Boys Republic in Chino.

Mr. Padgett is a graduate of the University of California at Berkeley and will receive his master's degree in June from the University of Southern California. He is employed by General Dynamics.

He worked with chefs in New York and became a chef at a North Carolina Country Club and then went to Las Vegas where he was assistant chef at the Riviera Hotel. Later he was second chef at the Balboa Bay Club, chef for the Newport Stuft Shirt and at the El Mirador Hotel in Palm Springs. Since 1969 he has owned the Arbor Restaurant in Upland.

Rattles & straws

Oh to be in England!

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

I say, dash it all! The British have topped us again. Bad show.

Scandalwise we arrogant Yanks thought we had hit it rich when the Watergate 500 were caught filching from the poor box (Democratic headquarters), but all it left us with was a soap opera starring Hademans (Haldemen?), Michells, Liddys and Ehrlichmans.

When it comes to real, earth-shaking, headline-shouting government scandals, we aren't in it with England that staid and proper Mother Country, royal throne of kings, a demiparadise, demme! In a clear one-upmanship against America, the British came up with a scandal centered on something more important than a political party's campaign plans: sex.

The case brought the resignation of Lord Antony Claud Frederick Lambton, formerly Earl of Durham, Member of Parliament for Berwick-on-Tweed and Undersecretary for the Royal Air Force. Lord Lambton blushingly confided to Prime Minister Edward Heath that he (Lambton) had been sleeping with a call girl, or prostitute as call girls are called in the colonies. Rotten luck.

Lord Lambton said that the girl's husband, a leery cove as ever was, had photographed the orgies and tried unsuccessfully to sell the glossies to London newspapers. I expect he used the wrong shutter speed. Transom photography is tricky. I'd have tried f.8 at 1-25th of a second using Tri-X.

Be that as it may, the government chaps got all heated up. The Attorney General's office (the equivalent of our Attorney General's office) sent bobbies around to put the sleeve on his lordship under the Dangerous Drugs Act; Scotland Yard's "serious crimes" squad (coo!) delved into the mater, and a Labor member, rather aptly named James Wellbeloved, demanded government asurances that there had been no security leaks from l'Affaire Lambton.

"We want no Watergates here, no coverups," he warned the Conservatives.

And so the limies have stolen the spotlight again. Reminds one of 1963. In America, Mariner II had reached Venus, professional football opened a Hall of Fame, and President Kennedy dedicated the Whiskeytown Dam. Meanwhile the British came up with War Minister John Profumo's juicy carryings-on with call girl Christine Keeler, who was also playing footsie, to put it as delicately as possible, with a Soviet naval attache.

Lord Lambton's family is under a curse left over from the Crusades. An ancestor was empowered to slay a monster on condition that he kill the first living being he met after the monstrous fray. It turned out to be his own Daddy and he refused to kill him, so the family was accursed. The family mott is "Le Jour Viendra" or "The Day Will Com.e" It looks like it has at last.

U.S. okays hike in storage fees

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department has announced plans to begin paying higher fees, beginning July 1, to warehousemen who store government-owned grains.

Officials said the increases, including a boost of one-half cent per bushel in "receiving charges" for unloading grain into warehouses, were ordered because storage industry costs have increased since the last rate boost in 1971.

Firemen planning safety campaign

CLAREMONT — A fire safety survey will be conducted in June for those residents living in the area bounded by Foothill Boulevard on the north, First Street on the south, College Avenue on the east, and Indian Hill Boulevard on the west.

Local firemen will visit every home in the area to help residents recognize and eliminate fire hazards existing in and around their houses.

Letters have been mailed to 519 homes in the survey area to inform the residents that sometime between June 4 and 30 engine companies will make a house-to-house canvas.

If the resident is not home when firemen arrive, he will find fire-prevention information left at his door when he returns.

Residents can make appointments and the firemen will visit homes at the arranged time.

Asst. Chief Ken Lavoie said that firemen will be looking for indications of careless smoking, improper use of electrical facilities, flammable liquids, heating equipment rubbish and other combustibles, and fire exit drill plans.

Lavoie said that fires which have most frequently caused serious damage in Claremont are brush and grass fires, kitchen fires electrical fires, overstuffed furniture and bedding fires and fires on wood shingle roofs.

Lavoie noted that brush and grass fires are most often started by youngsters playing with matches and persons carelessly discarding cigarettes. "They're an age-old problem and the only answer is education and caution," he said.

Kitchen fires which cause the greatest danger to persons and damage to property are generally those caused by overheating of fats and oils in open pans on the kitchen range, Lavoie explained.

He said that wood shingle roofs are often set afire by sparks from fireplace chimneys. "Many persons assume there is a spark arrester in their chimney when the house is built," Lavoie said.

He explained that residents should make sure that their chimney is covered with a metal screen of no more than one-quarter-inch mesh.

Lavoie said that many old homes still have the old cotton-coated electrical wiring instead of the modern electrical conduit, and that the old wire becoming frayed may cause a fire.

Of the 131 structural fires in 1971-72, about three-fourths were houses Lavaoie said.

The inspection team will leave behind for the homeowner to put on his telephone a sticker listing the emergency numbers for fire and rescue and the police departments.

Roaring 90's theater posters on display

"Playbills of the 1890s," an exhibition of 24 large theater posters from the Library of Congress, will go on display Thursday at the Pomona Valley Center, the Eastland shopping center in West Covina, and 22 other Southern California shopping centers.

Each of the playbill reproductions has descriptive storyboard material which has been researched and written by Milton Kaplan, who has co-written such books as "Presidents on Parade," "Divided We Fought" and "The Ungentlemanly Art." He is an authority on American history.

Kaplan sought to present the attitudes and reactions to the plays during the times in which they were produced. Much of the story material contains critical reviews, written following the premieres of the plays.

The show includes such works as "Life of an Actress," "Minnie Palmer—Mile a Minute," "Hand of Destiny," "Tammy Tiger," "The Great Train Robbery," "Hoyts Black Sheep," "Shenandoah," "On the Bowery."

The doctor comments

Inducing vomiting is not a new idea

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB:—I have a friend who, after eating a moderate meal, goes to the bathroom and makes herself vomit. She tells me she feels good after this. I have tried this a few times. Would you please tell people what this would do to a person's health?

Dear Reader — I don't recommend the practice, but must acknowledge that this is not new. The ancient Romans used to do it regularly. They would eat one of their famous Roman banquets and between courses they removed themselves and emptied their stomachs, after which they would return and keep on eating.

It is one way of eliminating a number of calories that are absorbed into the body, and I suppose in that scene contributes to weight control. I am sure most people would find this practice relatively unpleasant.

Individuals who induce forceful vomiting will sometimes rupture a blood vessel in the lower part of the esophagus and have serious bleeding. After all, the act of vomiting is induced by vigorous muscular contractions of the digestive tract in a somewhat unnatural way.

The act might actually be a health benefit if a person needs to control the absorption of calories and prevent obesity. Otherwise, if the person needs the calories and the nutrients it would have the same effect as not eating enough.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I was interested in your article about abdominal exercise. I can't ("for the life of me") do sit-ups. I definitely need to strengthen my abdomen as it's very fat! Please advise what I should do.

I am 56, married with two sons, grown men, and a husband (also developing the tummy). Can you help us?

Dear Reader— Some people have such weak abdominal muscles that they can't do a simple sit-up or do a straight leg lift, raising both feet off the floor. It's hard to believe, but it is true. For individuals with this problem I suggest that they lie flat on the floor and lift one leg, keeping the knee straight, return the foot to the floor, then lift the other leg. By alternating this way you can lift one leg at a time repeatedly. Eventually you can gain enough strength to lift both heels simultaneously off the floor. When you reach that point you can do more regular leg lifts and gradually strengthen the lower abdominal muscles.

If you can't do a complete sit-up, sit up as far as you can even if this means just lifting the head up and down. After you have done that, then help yourself lift all the way up by using your elbows to cheat if you need to. After doing this long enough you will get enough strength to be able to do a genuine sit-up. Also you can do voluntary abdominal contractions by sucking your abdominal muscles in and out and tensing your abdominal muscles until you can start developing some strength that way.

Finally, I must tell you that while these things will help you improve abdominal tone, they will not get rid of the abdominal fat. The only good way to get rid of the abdominal fat is to decrease the fat storage. That means eliminating calories and improving over-all physical activity.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of the Progress-Bulletin, P. O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N. Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on losing weight, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Losing Weight" booklet.

Jim: "Experts aren't supposed to make mistakes, but they do and some are beauties. For instance: South's two clubs was artificial and forcing. North's two no-trump response showed a balanced 8-10 points with something in all suits. South might well have jumped right to six no-trump, but he had visions of a grand slam and started bidding suits. North cooperated by showing his ace of hearts and East stuck in a lead directing double."

Oswald: "West opened a heart against the diamond slam and with both the king of hearts and king of spades placed badly for him South was down one."

Jim: "I'll say this for South. He didn't complain about bad luck. He was an expert with humility and he apologized to his partner for not putting him in six no-trump where North would have been declarer and there would be no way to beat the slam."

Women talk more, researcher claims

NEW YORK (UPI)—If you say women are gabbier than men, you're not just talking through your hat, according to a researcher who has been counting their words.

The average business man speakers 11,580 words a day, but his wife speaks 12,620, Dr. Karel Munick of Prague, who is writing a book on the subject, told the National Enquirer. A waitress spoke 12,900 words a day, a policeman 10,660, a soldier 7,800, a priest 3,420 and a monk 860 words.

Fergie peps L.A., challenges Bench

Steadiest Dodger takes RBI lead with 37

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — For years it has been almost automatic that Cincinnati's Johnny Bench would be the National League's All-Star catcher.

Bench has been known as the league's premier receiver.

But the Los Angeles Dodgers have a genuine contender for the honors in big Joe Ferguson, who resembles Bench in body structure. However, Ferguson isn't even listed on the official All-Star ballots currently being distributed at Dodger Stadium.

Ferguson blasted a long home run, his 11th of the season and second in two games, into the left field pavilion Sunday afternoon to give the Los Angeles Dodgers a 2-1 victory over the New York Mets.

The blast gives Ferguson 37 runs batted in for the season to move one ahead of Bench for the National League lead.

Ferguson's homer, tight defense and Don Sutton's pitching were enough to give the Dodgers three wins in the four games against the Mets to move L.A. into third place in the National League West standings 1½ games behind first-place San Francisco.

The Dodgers will try to maintain their momentum tonight when ex-Dodger coach Danny Ozark brings his Philadelphia Phillies into town to open a three-game series.

As a team, the Dodgers are hitting .305 for the month of May but manager Walt Alston claims Ferguson's bat has been the steadiest.

"We've had hot hitters and cold hitters," Alston said, "but Ferguson has been the steady difference in the team this year."

While most hitters regard Dodger Stadium as a small airport, Ferguson says he doesn't mind the park's size.

"In the other parks, I hit down on the ball because of the Astroturf but I try to get the ball in the air here. I've hit two or three homers here that wouldn't have gone out last year before they moved the fences in. This is an ideal park for me."

Ferguson belted his solo shot in the fifth inning off of Mets', starter Jerry Koosman to give Sutton a 2-0 lead. Pinchhitter Ken Boswell made it 2-1 in the eighth but Sutton was able to get through the rest of the New York line-up to record his sixth win in nine decisions.

Sutton helped his own cause when his sacrifice fly scored Ron Cey in the second inning. Cey hit a one-out double and advanced to third when Koosman walked Willie Crawford and Bill Russell to load the bases.

In the only negative note of the day for the Dodgers, L.A. left 14 men on base.

But the Dodgers are winning anyway to jump past Cincinnati in the standings as Ferguson also leaped past Bench.

DODGER NOTES— Andy Messersmith (4-4) will face Fresno State product Dick Ruthven (1-3) tonight. Tommy John (3-2) goes against Ken Brett (3-1) Tuesday night while Cy Young Award winner Steve Carlton (5-6) faces Claude Osteen (4-3) Wednesday . . .

Sunday's paid attendance of 31,108 on a hot Sunday afternoon gave the Dodgers a four-game total of 140,947, the largest since a Giants' series in 1969. L.A. is now up to 563,271 for the season but still 150,000 behind the 1972 pace . . .

The Dodgers turned in two more double plays to raise their major league-leading total to 61. L.A. also turned in another error-free performance . . .

During May, the Dodgers have increased their batting average 33 points and have averaged 11 hits per game.

Rain causes delay of Indy 500 today

INDIANAPOLIS, Indiana UPI) — Rain delayed the start of the Indinapolis 500 mile auto race today despite the fact the drivers already were on the track and all set to go.

A light sprinkle began an hour before the scheduled 9 a.m. PDT starting time and because the track quickly became wet, officials delayed the start until the track could be dried.

In the event the race was washed out, it would be rescheduled for Tuesday.

Some 300,000 fans were expected for the 57th racing classic regardless of the morning weather. But, as in 1967, they might be obliged to sit daylong in an off and on drizzle without seeing more than a few laps turned with prize money at stake.

It rained and there were tornado warnings Saturday and Sunday and the forecast for the race day was as grim—showers likely especially in the afternoon, winds between 15 and 30 miles per hour making racing hazardous, a favorable temperature in the 60's and a 50 per cent probability of precipitation.

There was a chance the track would be dry at the scheduled starting time of 9 a.m. PDT and should the race get underway, once the leader has traveled more than 250 miles or 101 laps the race could be declared official. Should the track be wet at the scheduled starting time, there will be no racing, but officials could wait as late as 3 p.m. PDT and still figure to get in enough laps to make the event official.

If rain prevents racing today, the event will be held Tuesday on the same pattern as 1967 when the field ran 18 laps, was rained out and then completed the spectacle with A. J. Foyt winning for the third time, the only driver to finish 500 miles as a last lap accident resulted in the red flag for every other car.

Barring mishaps which could slow the pace to a required 80 m.p.h. for numerous laps, the race was expected to produce a speed much faster than the record 162.962 with which Mark Donohue won in 1972. The field of 33 cars qualified at an average speed of 192.329 m.p.h. compared to last year's average of 183.655.

In addition Johnny Rutherford, the fastest qualifier, set a single lap record of 199.071 and four laps at 198.413. The fastest lap in the race a year ago was 187.539 by Donohue, a speed which as many as half the field should exceed in the first few laps today.

For the first time since 1923 there will be five former winners in the field, Donohue, three-time winner Foyt, two-time winner Al Unser, Bobby Unser and Mario Andretti.

Milton Richman

Sports parade

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — They would've made a natural combination, the oldest one and the youngest in this high speed 500 field.

They had been close for a long time, and had anyone seen them sitting up there in the stands, wrapped in total concentration, the two might easily have brought to mind The Old Man and The Boy.

The late Art Pollard had many virtues, and thoroughness was one of them. If he was going to help his young friend Salt Walther, show him a thing or two about driving in the 500, he wasn't merely going to go through the motions, he was going to do it right.

"He sat with me in every one of the turns here at this track," remembers Salt Walther, a mod, curly-haired 25-year old who is driving his father's car, the Dayton-Walther Special in today's 500. "This was a year ago. Art and I made a deal. He was going to drive the car and me the boat."

Salt Walther is talking about the hydroplanes he has piloted many years with considerable success, but all those plans became unraveled when Pollard, who was 45 then, broke a leg after he already had qualified and couldn't compete in last year's 500.

Changed suddenly

Young Walther's plans also changed suddenly last year. He never had raced in the 500 before but, as back-up driver, he hopped into a car he had never handled before and qualified it. True, he qualified only 33rd, which is the last spot in the field, but so what? He was in the race, wasn't he? Not for long though. He never even completed the first lap before mechanical trouble forced him and his car out.

It wasn't the end of the year. There would be other years, there would be other races. Salt Walther, a big, friendly, outgoing kid who looks more like a high school fullback than a racecar driver, had plenty of time.

Art Pollard, it turns out, did not.

He had known Salt's father, George N. Walther Jr. for many years and had grown fond of his boy. That's why he made it a point to sit with him last year in every one of Indy's four turns, carefully pointing out to the kid where he should have his left wheel going in and out of them.

Now it was time for this year's 500, with Pollard and Salt Walther both trying to qualify on the first day, May 12.

Coast clear

"I had just pulled out," said Walther. "I was checking my mirrors making sure I wasn't in anybody's way and that the coast was clear. I took off in third gear, looked behind me and saw this car sliding. I wasn't sure who it was, but the minute I got in, they told me 'Art's had an accident.' I remember they said it's a bad one."

Shortly thereafter Salt learned Art Pollard had been killed.

"I don't feel I can go out there any more and qualify this car," he told his father, who is president of the world's largest manufacturer of cast-wheels for trucks and who has been entering cars in the 500 the past 18 years.

The elder Walther didn't push his son.

"It's up to you," he said to him. "You do what you want. I know how you feel about Art. We all feel the same way, but you see the rest of the cars running, don't you? If something happens to you, everybody will keep running too."

Salt Walther decided to try to qualify and did, with a speed of 190.739 miles per hour, a half hour after Art Pollard was killed.

"The first lap I backed off to a 189," he says. "I should have been quicker but I slowed down when I came down to where Art hit the wall. The second time, I ignored it."

Among those here for the race is O. J. Simpson, the Buffalo Bills brilliant runner, who was the NFL's stickout player this past season. Someone asked Simpson how much tougher it was competing here in the 500 than in the NFL, and he put the whole thing in perfect perspective.

"In our league," said O. J., "you make a little mistake and there's always another play. You make a little mistake here and it's your last."

READY TO GO AGAIN

Claremont High's Jeff Barker, who has hurled the Wolfpack to three playoff victories, is healthy and raring to go again Wednesday afternoon against No. 1 seeded El Segundo.

Barker healthy for semis

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

CLAREMONT — It seems almost impossible for a high school pitcher to pitch back-to-back games with only two or three days' rest, especially if he throws as hard as Claremont High's Jeff Barker.

But Barker has done better than pitching just back-to-back games. He has pitched all of Claremont's last 21 innings, and did it under extreme pressure.

In those 21 innings, the San Antonio League's Player of the Year has only allowed two runs (one earned), nine hits, and has fanned 38 batters to propel the Wolfpack into the semifinals of the CIF 3-A baseball playoffs.

Some of the Claremont fans were concerned about Barker's arm, and whether it could last throughout the playoffs. Wolfpack coach Steve Lambert indicated before the playoffs started this year that he would start Barker as often as he could—provided it didn't hurt his pitching ace's arm.

So it looked as though the bulk of the load rested on Barker's shoulder and arm, and so far he has come

"I haven't had any problems with my arm or shoulder yet," assured the Claremont hurler. "I guess it's because I keep pitching and don't take any time off."

Barker was primarily a fastball pitcher for most of the season, but lately he's been working with a little variety.

"I've been also throwing a hard curve," he commented. "And my change has helped a lot."

Earlier in the season, Jeff almost abandoned the change up because some of the batters were timing the pitch. The three playoff games have proven that Barker has done something about that pitch.

"I'm controlling it a little better now," he explained. "I used to just try to get it across the plate."

The thing which has really highlighted Barker's performances in the playoff games is the number of strike outs he has accumulated.

During the regular season, Jeff didn't really build up a reputation as being a strike out ace. But lately he has been literally blowing down his opponents.

Claremont head coach Steve Lambert figured the reason was that, "Jeff throws harder under pressure."

Jeff doesn't really know why all of a sudden he has the power striking out half the batters he faces, but he does admit, "Maybe it's because I try a little harder against the tougher teams."

His trying harder has made him a serious candidate for 3-A Baseball Player of the Year.

The records show just how well Barker has done this year. Jeff went unbeaten in league with an 8-0 record, and going into the semifinals against El Segundo Wednesday, he has compiled a 15-1 seasonal mound mark.

In league play, he had a 1.02 earned run average, and it should now be below 1.00 including the non league and playoff games.

With 21 playoff innings already under his belt, Barker checks in this week healthy and ready to go another 21.

But all he really needs in 14 innings to win the CIF championship and only seven more to enter Dodger Stadium for the CIF finals on June 6.

"I'd really like to pitch at Dodger Stadium," exclaimed the Claremont hero.

'Pack travels in semifinals

For the first time in this year's CIF baseball playoffs, Claremont High will be on the road to meet No. 1 seeded El Segundo.

The Wolfpack, after hosting the first three rounds of the playoffs at Claremont-Mudd, is scheduled to battle the 3-A's top-ranked team at Recreation Park in El Segundo at 3 p.m. Wednesday afternoon in semifinal play.

San Diego Padres bought by Washington businessmen

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The National League San Diego Padres have been sold to a Washington, D.C. group of businessmen headed by Joseph Danzansky for the highest price in baseball history, owner C. Arnholt Smith revealed Sunday.

He said a letter of intent to sell the club for $12 million, some $2 million more than was paid recently for the American League New York Yankees, had been signed. The move would come at the end of the current season.

Indications the Padres would be sold had been strong since Washington lost the Senators to Texas two years. Attendance has been below the break-even point since the expansion club was formed in 1969. The Padres have finished in the Western Division cellar every year.

The sale appeared imminent late last year but just before Christmas the club announced it would remain in San Diego.

"There is only one Santa Klaus in baseball," minority owner E.J. "Buzzy" Bavasi said at the time. "And his name is C. A. Smith."

Bavasi owns 32 per cent of the Padres while Smith and his daughter, Mrs. Carol Shannon, own the remainder.

"If this is a reality," Bavasi said Sunday, "if the franchise moves to Washington, it's not an indictment of the city. I can't blame the town or the people.

"I blame the National League which forced us to pay $10 million for an expansion franchise. We'd be in good shape if we'd paid the American League expansion price (estimated at $6 million). We have shown that we can break even at an attendance of 700,000."

Attendance this year has been 249,284 for 26 dates. It was expected to dwindle to almost nothing with the seemingly untimely announcement of the sale.

Asked why he would sign a letter of intent with four months remaining, Smith said, "because the opportunity came along now. The people in Washington need time to get their deal together."

The sale does not become final until the league approves the move and the money is received.

"I'd be the happiest man in San Diego if the team were to remain here," Smith said. "But it seems unlikely. How can someone else make it work if we couldn't?"

The Padres have a 20-year lease on San Diego Stadium and it was not determined how that would be handled.

Mayor Pete Wilson was unavailable for comment and his executive assistant, Bob White, said, "I know nothing about it, nothing at all."

The players did not find out about the move until after they suffered a doubleheader loss to the Philadelphia Phillies Sunday.

Wohlhuter breaks 880 record

By RON ANGLE

LOS ANGELES — The Von's Classic track and field meet here Sunday lived up to its advance billing as a sparce crowd of 7,462 saw Rick Wohlhuter set a world record in the 880 yard run of 1:44.6.

Wolhuter's mark was just one of five Coliseum records posted in what must be considered the best meet of the year.

The University of Chicago Track Club ace bettered the 1:44.9 time set by Jim Ryun in 1966.

The running events finally grabbed the spotlight away from the field event performers which have been dominating recent meets.

World record holder Emiel Puttemans (8:13.2) of Belgium eased off in his two mile specialty to win in 8:26.6 after setting a torrid early pace. He went past the mile at 4:08.5 and won by 70 yards.

The mile run saw Marty Liquori return to his form of 1971 but still finish third. The victory went to Ken Popejoy of Michigan State in 3:58.4.

Bowling Green's Dave Wottle, the Olympic 800 champ, struggled past a clump of runners to nearly catch Popejoy, finishing a step back in 3:58.6.

Wottle's kick, which produced a 54.5 last lap, pushed him past Liquori just before the tape. Liquori's time was a tenth back, 3:58.7.

Bob Wheeler of Duke was fourth in 3:59.3.

Wohlhuter's world record was not unexpected. Two weeks ago, he ran 1:44.8 in a relay leg while anchoring his club to a world record of 7:10.4 in the two mile relay.

He was considered a top contender for an Olympic medal at Munich after running a 1:45.0 for second in the U.S. Olympic Trials behind Wottle's world record 800 meters) of 1:44.3.

But in his first heat at the Games, Wohlhuter stumbled and fell, failing to qualify.

Club West's Mark Winzenried set up the record with a blazing first lap of 52 seconds flat. At the 440, it was Winzenried, Danie Malan of South Africa and Wohlhuter.

At 550 yards Malan took the lead but could not break contact with the pack. Wohlhuter then eased around Malan on the curve for a stride lead which he maintained to the tape.

Malan was timed at 1:45.1 for second with Winzenried third in 1:48.0.

The 24-year-old former Notre Dame runner came into the meet after running a 1:48.6 relay split the previous night at the California Relays in Modesto.

"I anticipated this race after the relay split (1:44.8) earlier. The only thing that went through my mind during the race was to stay up with the pace. The others did most of the work, I just stayed in contention," he said afterward.

Other coliseum records came in the high and intermediate hurdles, the women's 880 and the shotput.

Rod Milburn of Southern University continued his almost predictable pattern of victories, erasing the former record by a tenth in 13.3 seconds.

In the 440 yard intermediate hurdles, Wes Williams showed that he intends to be the top American this year with a record 49.8 seconds, shaving the Coliseum standard of Ron Whitney by three tenths.

Williams held off frantic rushes by Jim Bolding (50.0) and Ralph Mann (50.1).

Fourteen - year - old Mary Decker, the diminutive teenage from the Blue Angels Track Club, ran the second fastest 880 ever by an American woman, 2:03.6.

Decker, and Wendy Koenig of Colorado Gold, battled throughout the final lap side by side with Decker pulling away slightly just before the tape. The 17-year-old Koenig was timed in 2:03.8 for second.

Al Feurbach started the meet off with a Coliseum record putt of 70-4¾ for his fourth 70 foot plus toss of the weekend. With a 70-1¾ mark here on his third throw, Feurbach added to his marks of 70-10 and 70-1 Saturday at Modesto.

Steve Williams, embarrassed at the California Relays where he leaned for the tape early and lost to Herb Washington, redeemed himself here winning the 100 meters in 10.3. Washington was runner-up in 10.3.

Williams then overtook USC's Don Quarrie in the 220 to win by a tenth in 20.7. He appeared unextended in both races.

Pomona 30 enjoys San Diego Journey

Pomona Post 30 found its trip to National City of further profit Sunday by winning a pair of games to increase its two-day win total to four.

The Gems started the day off by edging Linda Vista Post 741 7-5, in ten innings. Conde Rael picked up the victory, going seven innings in relief of a sore-armed Greg Ballard.

Post 30 broke a 4-4 tie in the tenth with a three run rally touched off when Will Lewallen and Keith Thomas reached base on errors. Les Christensen singled Lewallen home, and Thomas scored on Troy Baird's ground out. After Jack Devers walked, Cleve Porter singled in the third and final run.

Ballard went three-for-three despite his arm problems with a pair of RBI, and Rael doubled in one run in the ninth.

Post 30 became the home team for the nightcap with Chula Vista, and got a two-hit shutout out of Mark Lambert, 3-0.

The Game scored in the first when Jeff Corkhill reached base on an error, and proceeded home on a single by Ballard.

Pomona was issued seven walks during the game, scoring its last two runs on free passes.

While Post 30 was winning in National City, La Verne Post 330 was losing at home to City of Industry, 9-6.

Mark Willman shook Industry up, though, in the bottom of the third with a grand slam home run to score Steve Bernard, Rich Ortega, and Carl Davis.

Al Acosta doubled in the fourth inning for La Verne and scored on an error. Acosta later scored again in the sixth on Gregg Thompson's double.

Ortega went three-for-five.

La Verne meets the Pomona Kings this afternoon at Ralph Welch Park.

Walnut Macks lose to Glendora, 17-16

When Upland dropped out of local Connie Mack competition last Tuesday, Terry Murphy's Walnut C.M. squad was faced with a vacancy in its schedule for Sunday.

Walnut is wishing it could have had a shot at Upland after getting a look at the replacement.

Glendora, instead, hosted Walnut and wound up outlast- to make it last ten innings, though.

Dave Berry, finishing up for a threadbare pitching staff, was charged with the loss when Glendora scored once in the bottom of the tenth, as Steve Hall singled, and Jim Coslry drove him home with a double.

Marty Shepherd collected four hits for Walnut in seven trips to the plate, for three RBI. Randy Swatwood went three-for-three with two RBI. Bob Veselic hit safely twice in four trips for one RBI.

Bobby Salas also collected two hits in his three times at bat.

Claremont's Connie Mack program is suffering from Claremont High's rise in the CIF playoffs, and the deficiency was showing as Charter Oak dropped Claremont, 13-2 Sunday.

Fortunately for Claremont, the rules state that whenever a team is wanting for players due to a CIF commitment, the games its plays do not count.

Mike Holland hit a two run home run for Charter Oak in the first inning. Holland wound up the afternoon going two-for-five with three RBI.

Scott O'Connell contributed a triple for Charter Oak in the second inning.

Dave Aguilera doubled in the seventh for Claremont.

Mark Robertson went two-for-four in a losing cause.

Trojans take Loyola series

LOS ANGELES UPI) — Southern California, the threetime defending NCAA baseball champion, moves into the District 8 finals against Cal State Los Angeles Friday in the last qualifying for the College World Series.

The Pacific-8 champion Trojans edged Loyola in two quick games during the weekend on Daryl Arenstein's five RBIs and three-run homer Saturday in a 98 contest and Russ McQueen's seven-hitter and Arenstein's first inning sacrifice fly Sunday in a 2-1 game.

USC's successive wins eliminated WCAC titlists Loyola in the best-of-three series.

UC Irvine beats Northridge in 14

IRVINE, Calif. UPI) — Dave Lyons drove in two runs with a bases-loaded single in the 14th inning to give UC-Irvine an 8-6 victory over Cal State-Northridge Sunday to win the NCAA Far West college division regional title.

Gary Wheelock, who went all the way in Irvine's elimination of Puget Sound Saturday, came on in the eighth inning and blanked Cal State on four hits the rest of the way to pick up the victory.

Irvine, 40-12, scored after losing pitcher Ed Miller had retired 13 men in a row.

With one out, Jack Cleveland singled, Terry Stupy doubled for his third hit of the game, and an intentional walk was given to Jeff Malinoff. After a pop-out, Lyons hit a single to right to score Cleveland and Stupy.

Life Cycle clips Cougar in Hollypark feature

INGLEWOOD, Calif. UPI) — Life Cycle, a Florida-bred 4-year-old purchased for $1,400 two years ago, collected $75,000 on the investment Sunday as he raced to a mild surprise victory in the $125,000 Hollywood Invitational turf handicap at Hollywood Park.

Cougar II, thoroughbred racing's newest millionaire with a win in his last start, failed to win the Invitational for the third straight year after winning the race in 1970.

Cougar II was topweighted at 130 pounds and finished third, barely headed off for second by Wing Out.

Life Cycle, making only his second start in the West, finished a little more than a length in front of Wing Out and paid $9.20, $4.80 and $2.60. Wing Out returned $5.80 and $3.20, while Cougar II paid $2.20.

The Invitational was the middle feature of the Memorial weekend racing program at Hollywood Park, which ends today with the $100,000 Californian in which Quack heads a field of six at 1 1-16th miles.

Diamond Bar takes first in Big League

Diamond Bar charged into first place in the Pomona Valley Big League Sunday afternoon by sweeping both ends of a doubleheader with Pomona Northwest-Southwest. D.B. took the opener on its home field, 9-6, and then exploded in the nightcap for a 13-1 victory.

Two other teams recorded twinbill sweeps in the league Sunday.

San Dimas climbed into second place, beating Pomona American 9-2 and 8-3, at Simons Jr. High. Pomona National, meanwhile, evened its season record at .500 with 10-5 and 6-0 wins over Ted Greene at Pomona High.

Diamond Bar's Tracy Cowger, a Ganesha High product, continued to wield a hot bat. Cowger sparked a six run rally in the fifth inning of the first game with Pomona NW-SW that erased a 5-3 deficit with a three run home run that cleared the fence at the 330 mark.

Cowger wound up going to-for-four in the first game and went five-for-seven for the entire afternoon, scoring four times.

Dean Sickels also had an enjoyable day, getting four hits in his seven times at bat.

Fred Perez was two-for-three for NW-SW in the first game, with a double.

San Dimas got its biggest lift from Ray Martinez.

Martinez pitched a five-hit complete game victory in the opener with Pomona American, and struck around for the second game to help Dave Maloof's cause with a two-run triple in the seventh.

Martinez struck out six.

Rick Aris got San Dimas rolling in the first game by blasting a three-run home run in a first inning that eventually gave San Dimas a 6-0 lead. Rich Espinoza went two-for four and doubled during the first inning rally.

In the second game, Norm Butler aided San Dimas by going two-for-four. Maloof struck out for en route to his five hit win.

Pomona National's rise to .500 was pushed considerably by Keith Glover's second game shutout performance, and the first game batting stats of Scotty Peich and Jim Dembowski.

Glover's 6-0 win continued a string which hasn't seen him give up an earned run since donning a Pomona National uniform. He struck out five Sunday.

Peich went three-for-four in the opener and scored twice. Dembowski went two-for-three with one RBI.

In the U.S. Open

Jack eyes no. 14

ATLANTA (UPI) — That record 14th "major" golf title Jack Nicklaus has been pursuing for the past year could be only three weeks away.

That's when Nicklaus plays in the U.S. Open, and the way his game is going at present he'll be a solid favorite to repeat his 1972 victory and break his tie for the most "major" titles with the late Bobby Jones.

Nicklaus has won three U.S. Opens, four Masters, two PGAs, two British Opens and two U.S. Amateurs.

He has also won 39 other U. S. tournaments in 11½ years on the pro golf tour, including the Atlanta Golf Classic Sunday.

"My game has never been better," the 33-year-old Nicklaus said after his 16-under-par 272 beat fellow Ohio State alumnus Tom Weiskopf by two strokes.

"I feel I'm ahead of this time last year," he continued. "My main concern now is that I don't peak too soon. I like to sharpen my game going into a big tournament, not weeks ahead."

Nicklaus, who earned $30,000 Sunday to push his 1973 earnings to more than $176,000 and back to the top of the PGA money list, ahead of absent Bruce Crampton, was really sharp the first three days here.

Rounds of 67-66-66 had him just one stroke higher than the 54-hole low for this year's tour —and a fat six strokes ahead of Weiskopf.

He continued that pace through the first six holes Sunday as he built a 10-stroke lead, but then his fabled touch deserted him.

Weiskopf, who had insisted earlier that Nicklaus "can be beaten," picked up seven strokes in an eight-hole stretch but Nicklaus steadied and held on to pick up his fourth 1973 victory in just 10 starts.

Nicklaus kidded himself about his near collapse. "I made the mistake of reading the newspapers which said I had won this tournament after the first two rounds," he said. "I didn't figure I'd have to fight Tom like this, but Tom makes you fight."

Then, becoming more serious, Nicklaus said, "I started out trying to shoot as low a score as possible. But when I bogeyed three out of four holes, I figured I'd better play to win."

"My only objective was to win the golf tournament," Nicklaus continued. "When I got 10 shots ahead after six holes, I figured it was all over. But, when it got down to two, I became cautious."

Nicklaus is skipping the next tournament, at Charlotte, N.C., but will play at Philadelphia next week.

"I normally don't like to play the week before the Open," he said. "But the playing conditions at Philadelphia are so similar to Oakmont, I believe I can best get my game ready for the Open there."

Weiskopf, hurt by a double bogey at the fourth hole Sunday, finished with a 69 and a 14-under 274 to earn $17,100. Al Geiberger was third at 72-279 and J.C. Snead fourth at 68-280.

Doug Sanders also had a 68 Sunday and tied, at 281, for fifth with Hubert Green. Gary Player, playing in his first U.S. tournament of 1973 after underoing an operation back home in South Africa, was at 286 with Billy Casper.

Crampton, now $8,500 behind Nicklaus, Lee Trevino and Lanny Wadkins, who remain 3-4 on the list, and Arnold Palmer did not play at Atlanta.

It was probably just as well since Nicklaus, tough enough anytime, was too hot to handle this past week —even for Weiskopf who made a good try.

"I really think I played as well as Jack," said Weiskopf. "I just made more mistakes."

K.C. hero brings home run a game

By United Press International

Former Kansas City Manager Bob Lemon says John Mayberry is "one of the most teachable hitters I've ever seen" but American League pitchers wonder how much there's left for the Royals' slugging first baseman to learn.

Mayberry, whose 6-foot, 3-inch, 220-pound physique and fluid batting swing remind old-timers of Johnny Mize, is batting .304 and has driven in a league-leading total of 47 runs in 46 games. No AL slugger has driven in runs at a pace of one-per-game during a full season since 1949 when Ted Williams and Vern Stephens knocked in 159 each for the Boston Red Sox.

Mayberry drove in five runs with two singles and two doubles Sunday in leading the Royals to a 13-3 victory over the Red Sox in the first game of a doubleheader. He went 1-for-2 for a 5-for-6 day at the plate as the Royals bowed, 7-2, in the second game.

The Texas Rangers snapped an eight-game losing streak with a 5-2 victory over the New York Yankees in the only other AL game. Oakland at Detroit, California at Milwaukee, Baltimore at Minnesota and Cleveland at Chicago were rained out.

Mayberry, acquired from the Houston Astros after hitting .182 for them in 1971, became a star last season when he batted .298 with 25 homers and 100 runs batted in for the Royals. The Royals think the 23-year-old native of Detroit may be one of the AL's best hitters for the next 10 years.

"I have never seen a slugger of his age who had such a keen sense of the strike zone," says Lemon. "That and his willingness to learn are the two big reasons why he'll keep improving."

Mayberry had a run-scoring single in the third and two-run doubles in the fifth and sixth innings to pace the Royals in the opener. Ed Kirkpatrick capped a five-run third inning with a three-run homer and Gail Hopkins hit a two-run homer as the Royals pounded out 15 hits and dealt Luis Tiant his fifth loss.

John Curtis pitched a seven-hitter for his second win of the season in the second game. The Red Sox put together two three-run innings —Carl Yastrzemski's two-run single featuring the first and doubles by Rico Petrocelli and John Kennedy highlighting the second —to hand Steve Busby his seventh loss against three wins.

Jim Spencer and Dave Nelson hit two-run doubles in the fourth inning as Sonny Siebert won his second game for the Rangers with the relief help of Joe Gogolewski.

Jenkins holds Reds to three hits

By United Press International

Ferguson and Ferguson could turn into a supercharged battery if they ever got connected with the same unit.

Ferguson Jenkins, a pitcher with the Chicago Cubs, long has been one of baseball's premier pitchers and on Sunday he won his fifth game by allowing Cincinnati only three hits in a 6-0 Cubs victory.

On the other side of the plate there is Joe Ferguson, a Los Angeles catcher who has had lot more difficulty in sticking in the big leagues. After spending most of the last three years in the minors, however, he appears to be putting it together and on Sunday he not only hit a fifth-inning home run that gave the Dodgers a 2-1 triumph over the New York Mets, but he also took over the RBI lead in the National League with 37.

Ferguson, the hitting member of the battery, thinks that a mere five feet has made all the difference for his current success. That's the distance the fences were moved in at Dodger Stadium this year.

"This is an ideal ballpark for me now," said the 26-year-old native Californian. "I've hit two or three home runs this year that wouldn't have gone out last year. At Dodger Stadium I try to hit the ball in the air now, although that doesn't mean this is a bandbox by any means. But in other parks I hit down on the ball because most of them have Astroturf."

The Giants kept pace by beating the Montreal Expos, 63, and in other games Sunday the St. Louis Cardinals edged the Atlanta Braves, 5-4, the Houston Astros beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6-2, and the Philadelphia Phillies swept a doubleheader from the San Diego Padres, 4-3 and 6-4.

The Cubs, in stretching their East lead to five games over New York, scored three runs in each of the seventh and ninth innings to support the strong pitching of Jenkins and register their fourth consecutive victory. Don Kessinger drove in three of the runs with a single and a triple.

Dave Rader drove in two runs with a single and an inside-the-park homer and Ron Bryant delivered two more runs with a single as San Francisco beat Montreal. Ron Bryant, now 7-3, went the distance for the Giants.

Lou Brock singled home Mike Tyson in the fifth inning with the deciding run in the Cards' triumph over Atlanta. Hank Aaron hit a two-run homer for the Braves in the first inning, the 686th of his career, and also moved into a tie with Babe Ruth for second place on the all-time extra base hit with 1,356. Stan Musial leads with 1,377.

Lee May drove in three runs for Houston with a homer, double and single and Dave Roberts limited the Pirates to five hits to stretch his record to 5-2.

Del Unser homered in the fifth inning to provide Philadelphia with its winning run in the first game and he delivered a three-run double in the fourth inning of the nightcap as the Phils swept San Diego.

Baker wins World 600 in hometown

CHARLOTTE, N.C. UPI) — It makes Buddy Baker nervous to drive before a hometown crowds—it puts the pressure on.

And to have David Pearson's Number 21 Mercury so close all he could see in the mirror was the number gave him a threat he didn't need.

But Baker stayed in front for most of the final 120 laps to win the World 600 Sunday for the second year in a row. Baker averaged 134.890 mph over the 1.5-mile banked oval, winning $25,200 in his first major victory of the season.

Pearson, pushing Baker's Dodge bumper-to-bumper down the straights and into the sweeping corners, pulled out front at the 380-lap mark when both made pit stops for gas and tires. Baker, however, got tires on the right and left while Pearson got tires only on the right and the extra traction enabled the Charlotte native to slowly pull up and pass.

Then "it was a brand new race."

After passing Pearson, who has won five of eight times out this year, "everytime I looked into the mirror there was the Number 21 —sitting dead in the mirror," Baker said.

Baker was forced into the pits while Pearson held the edge in the 243rd lap after spinning out in turn four with a cut right rear tire. His right front was also blown during the spin but the Harry Hyde pit crew had him back out quickly.

Finishing third in a Chevrolet was Cale Yarborough. Behind Yarborough in a Ford was Bobby Isaac followed by Benny Parsons in a Chevrolet.

Early leader Richard Petty finished a disappointing 13th after being forced into the pits to repair his fenders. Petty slapped the wall on the fourth turn shortly after the 400-mile mark and crumpled the right fender of his Dodge.

Baker's victory here, the first of the year for him, came in NASCAR's longest and most grueling contest.

Only half the entries were able to finish.

Baker led 219 laps of the race, which was run under caution flags for 48 laps, while Petty held the front spot for 135 laps to Pearson's 29. Petty grabbed the quick lead, nosing out Baker who won the pole before the race had gone 10 laps.

The six caution flags, however, kept Baker from breaking his own track record set during his victory last year.

Foothill Chorale to present concert

UPLAND — The Foothill Symphony Chorale, directed by Robert McBain, will present its final concert of the season in the Upland High School auditorium at 8 p.m. Sunday.

The concert will feature the chorale's Chamber Singers and the Redlands Brass Choir. It will install a Rodgers organ for this concert.

The concert will include new sacred anthems of the church and will feature a section of famous love songs. This will include Roger Wagner's "Black is the Color" which was performed at the 1973 inauguration ceremonies in Washington.

Mary Rawcliffe will be soloist.

The Foothill Symphony Chorale is supported in part by the City of Upland and many merchants in the area. Combined they have given hundreds of dollars.

The Chorale's performance of "Elijah" last year brought over 1,000 people. Recently the Chamber Singers presented a performance sponsored by the City of Sierra Madre. It has been broadcast several times over cable television.

McBain is presently doing independent study for his graduate degree under Dr. Howard Swan at Cal State Fullerton. He is also a contracted chorister for the Music Center and the Hollywood Bowl under Roger Wagner.

Because of the City of Upland's support and the many merchants tickets, tickets are available at a family rate of $6. Student, senior citizen and group rates are available. Tickets may be obtained from Dugan's Music, Ed Brown's Music, Ontario Music and Valentine Music.

Water tubes used to prevent floods

FRANKFURT (UPI) — Instead of sandbags, engineers in future will use plastic tubes 100 feet long and filled with water to prevent river flooding.

Engineers of the Degussa and Hoechst firms said the tubes can be used repeatedly, and can be filled in less than 15 minutes at the point they are needed simply by pumping them full of water from the river they are mean to dam. Sandbags would be needed only to seal the joints between the water tubes.

HEADING FOR THE FORUM—The Temptations, popular rhythm-rock-pop singing group, will perform at the Forum in Inglewood at 8 p.m. June 15. The quintet had its first hit record, "The Way You Do the Things You Do," in 1962. Later its "All Directions" and "Masterpiece" were gold records for million copy sales. It received a Grammy Award last year for its "Papa Was a Rollin' Stone."

Life and times of Peter Sellers

Comic movie star vows eternal love (again)

By ROBERT MUSEL
UPI Senior Editor

LONDON (UPI) — When actor Peter Sellers and Britt Eklund were divorced, he blamed it partly on her youth—17 years younger than he was.

Then he married his present wife, Miranda Quarry, who is 22 years his junior.

Now he says he loves Liza Minnelli, who is 27 while he turns 48 in September.

Why the age difference no longer seems to matter to Sellers is one of those things he will not explain.

The morning after Sellers married Miss Eklund in 1964, a cartoonist showed the Swedish beauty looking across the breakfast table at a faceless man.

Sellers' friends passed it around as a comment on the fact he has identified himself with so many different kinds of roles that he is no longer quite sure of his real self.

What he was everybody knows—a great-great grandson of the famous bare knuckle fighter, Daniel Mendoza, and a man who started his show business career as a burlesque comic, parlayed a flair for voices into fame and fortune on radio and became a film star.

Then in 1951 he married Anne Hayes, an Australian actress who bore him two children before she fell in love with an architect remodelling their penthouse. The Sellers were divorced in 1964.

Alone and lonely after the divorce, Sellers was told by a clairvoyant that he would marry a girl with the initials "B.E." He saw Britt Eklund's picture in a magazine and three weeks later they were married.

Britt bore him a daughter and Sellers and his lovely wife became members of the Princess Margaret set.

The expessions "we will not marry," "we will not breakup," "I will never marry again" are standard Sellers comments before, during and after marriage.

After his divorce from Britt in 1968 he began escorting Miranda, who is the stepdaughter of Lord Mancroft. In 1969, he stirred up a storm by admitting he smokes marijuana, but in a controlled way. In 1970, he and Miranda broke up but a few days later turned up at a registry office and were married while the bride held two pekinese dogs, Thomasina and Tabatha, during the ceremony.

His last "I'll never marry again" came only two weeks before the romance with Miss Minnelli became known. She was in London earlier in the year vowing eternal love—and marriage — with young Desi Arnaz, Jr., son of Lucille Ball.

Judy Garland's daughter said it might not have seemed like it, but her romance with Arnaz, six years younger, had been "deteriorating." Sellers said that when he said he would never marry again, he did not mean positively.

"I am going to marry her," Sellers said. "We fell in love when we first saw each other. In the meantime we would just like to get on with being together."

A divorce from Miranda must, of course, precede any marriage to Liza.

"It's just fabulous to be in love with a genius," she said. "He's my pin-up and I've been a fan of his for years. We both believe in humor, life and the good times."

Miss Minnelli also said since four was her lucky number, she did not mind being the fourth Mrs. Sellers.

CAPITOL VISITORS

C of C team finds little hope of keeping valley intact in remapping plan

SACRAMENTO — Pomona Valley advocates of a state reapportionment plan that would preserve the integrity of community boundaries would find few signs of encouragement from a visit to the state Capitol.

Fourteen civic and business leaders from the valley spent a day in Sacramento to study the workings of state government and were shown a reapportionment plan approved by the Assembly 63-12 that would carve Pomona into three districts.

One of the Assembly districts, a new one, would stretch from Bakersfield to Chino and include a small portion of northeast Pomona.

Valley representatives didn't like the plan and said so at separate meetings held with Assemblymen William H. Lancaster, R-49th Dist., of Covina, and Joseph B. Montoya, D-50th Dist., of La Puente.

Lancaster, who would gain in Republican registration from the plan, opposed it. while Montoya strongly defended it. His new district's voter registration would be about 60 per cent Democratic.

District proposal

The proposed 49th District would stretch from part of Whittier to the west, move east through La Habra Heights, Rowland Heights, Hacienda Heights, Diamond Bar and south Pomona, then continue north in a narrow strip along the San Bernardino-Los Angeles County line.

The district would run through north Pomona, Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas, Covina and West Covina.

The inner portions of Pomona would belong to the 50th District.

City Administrator Ora E. Lampman viewed the plan as being gerrymandered to protect incumbents and received a sympathetic ear from Lancaster, who noted that the decision on redistricting ultimately rested with the state Supreme Court.

Both the Assembly and Senate are trying to come up with plans that will satisfy the court.

Lancaster said he did not know what would happen to the Assembly plan. He raised the possibility of the Assembly and Senate settling on a compromise version.

Through a resolution passed in February, the Pomona City Council took the position that reapportionment should be handled by the high court instead of by the state legislature.

"The State Legislature has completely disregarded the interest of the citizens of the state in establishing legislative districts in favor of purely political considerations, thereby making reapportionment not beneficial to the citizens of California," the resolution stated.

Defends plan

But Montoya defended the Assembly plan as creating districts that would pair legislators with constituents of like political views.

He said state gerrymandering was no different than practices carried out by county and city officials, adding that the Assembly plan did more to protect political boundaries than past proposals.

Lancaster briefed the group of visitors on legislation affecting the Pomona Valley area and on other issues.

He spoke optimistically about the governor signing a special bill that would transfer state-owned property at Pacific State Hospital for use by Pomona as a fire station site, spoke about efforts to provide the hospital with air-conditioning and get approval for a new science building at Cal Poly.

Lancaster also briefed the visitors on the condemnation of the stately Capitol building as not meeting earthquake standards and said that the state legislature and not yet decided what to do about this.

The Pomona Valley delegation also met with officials from the California Chamber of Commerce, including George Sawyer, general program manager, and Dave Schmidt, director of the economic development and research department. Schmidt formerly worked for the Pomona chamber.

State chamber officials briefed the visitors on a number of major issues, including the energy crisis and pollution.

Lancaster and Montoya also attended a Pomona chamber luncheon where Mike Goodson, special assistant to Gov. Ronald Reagan, was the principal speaker.

The valley group included Delbert Pfiefer, Harold Barnett, Fred Mack Jr., Bob Lewis, Stephen Morgan, Brent Hunter, Bernie Ousley, Lampman, Phil Shepherd, Bill Jaep, Grenville Whyte, Ted Rust and David Ormiston.

Lancaster complimented the Pomona chamber for its annual Day in Sacramento program to permit residents to become acquainted with the workings of state government.

Lancaster said he hoped a similar program could be worked out for youths.

Student in job program trapped by federal cutback

Until graduating in March, I was a participant in a federally funded program, Project SPAN, which operates at Cal Poly.

To attend this six-month training program, it was necessary to move to the Pomona area from my home in Alameda County.

As part of the training connected with this program, I worked every afternoon at an office of the Los Angeles County Probation Department. For this work (counseling adolescent offenders), I was supposed to receive $120 per month under a work-study program sponsored and administered jointly by Cal Poly and SPAN. During the final 2½ months of this period, I received no pay for my work at the probation department. The SPAN program director explained that delay in collecting my wages was caused by an administrative funding foul-up and that the money would soon be available. On this assurance I continued working.

It is now over two weeks since I have finished the SPAN program and the money has not been paid. I had counted on this salary—an amount of $300—as a means of returning to Oakland. Instead I have been forced to apply for welfare and have unwillingly become a drain upon the county. Can you assist me in collecting my due wages and thus avoid this? —J.B., Pomona.

Dr. James Bell, vice president of Cal Poly for administration and student affairs, answered Action Line's questions about your letter and sent a copy of a memo he received from T. R. Nissen, SPAN project director.

Nissen wrote that your class for the first quarter of training received Educational Opportunity Grant money.

"Due to a termination of EOG money, I requested Washinton to transfer from my stipend account to the work student account," he wrote in part. "The trainees were told that the money would only be given if Washington allowed this financial move. Washington did not allow this move. They only agreed to increasing the stipend which was in lieu of a work study program as of April 2, 1973."

He said you and the rest of the trainees were continually made aware of the program's financial situation. You were given an opportunity to obtain employment to supplement your income but chose to apply for welfare, he added. "Most of our trainees did go out and get some form of work. A loan was set up through the California Department of Corrections to cover those trainees in financial need."

Currently, Nissen said, "our stipends are $625 for the first quarter of training and $750 for the second quarter of training and this increase in stipend was given by Washington to pay for the 15 to 20 hours per week in an internship program."

Regarding the letter from P. L. S. in Pomona as to how parts of the body can be donated after death, there is an organization called The Living Bank.

The Living Bank, is a nationwide, nonprofit organization which has been in operation for about five years. It acts as a clearing house for those wishing to donate their organs after death.

Its address is The Living Bank, P.O. Box 6725, Houston, Tex. 77005. It will send, free of charge, information about the organization, donation forms and a uniform donor card, which is carried on the person at all times. In the event of the donor's death, authorities are notified through the bank's central office. —D. N., Claremont.

We are grateful to you for giving this information to Action Line readers. Another reader telephoned regarding a willed body program at Loma Linda University. We learned, however, that the program at Loma Linda has been closed since 1967 and inquiries about donating parts of the body are referred to The Living Bank.

Guard fires at car lot burglars

ONTARIO — A security guard at Citrus Motors, 835 W. Holt Blvd. fired four shots at two burglars fleeing the car lot in a stolen van Sunday night.

The two burglars were seen by security guard Robert Kallas about 11:03 p.m. after they broke into the car lot office. Kallas told police he and his partner, Robert A. Harris, yelled at the two men to halt. Instead, the two men jumped into a yellow van and drove out of the garage adjoining the office and tried to run down Kallas.

Kallas said he drew his service pistol and fired four shots at the fleeing vehicle. The two guards got into their car and tried to pursue the stolen vehicle but soon lost it.

Police said about 11:30 p.m. a woman called from 729 W. Nevada St. to report that a number of men were trying to hold two other men, suspected of stealing a van truck, outside her home. The woman told police that the suspected stolen van had bullet holes in it.

On arrival at the Nevada Street address police found the van had been abandoned and two men had escaped. Police said that the two men had broken away from neighborhood residents, running different directions.

Police, examining the stolen van, said they found a bullet had punctured the truck's gasoline tank and another bullet had lodged in the locking device on the right rear door. Seventeen new tires and a tool box were found in the back of the van.

Police this morning said they were still trying to locate the two suspected burglars, both described as male Caucasians.

West End deputies report kidnap of two girls, rape

ALTA LOMA — A long-haired man kidnaped two West End girls at knifepoint early Sunday morning and forced them to drive to an isolated area near here where he raped one when the other ran for help.

West End sheriff's deputies said this morning that the two girls, one 16 and the other 17, were parked in the parking lot of a restaurant at Euclid Avenue and G Street in Ontario about 12:38 a.m. when the man approached their car. The man displayed a serrated butcher knife and ordered the girls to drive him to an isolated area near Haven Avenue and Base Line Road, deputies said.

The man attacked the 17-year-old girl but the 16-year-old girl managed to escape and run to a home where she called sheriff's deputies.

Deputies said the man is described as a Caucasian, 5 feet 9 to 5 feet 10, with long blond shoulder length hair parted in the middle. The girls said the man was wearing a button-down short sleeve print shirt and dark corduroy pants. He has a broken nose and was barefooted, deputies said.

The girls said the man used "hippie" talk.

Hasty flight from robbery traps three in wrecked car

LA PUENTE — Three suspects were arrested in their wrecked car Sunday, only a few minutes after a robbery of the 7-11 Market at 16210 Main St. A fourth was seized two hours later at a hospital.

The holdup was shortly after 4:30 a.m. Clerk Danny Mills, 22, was knocked down and kicked by one of four young men who then took cash from the register and a six-pack of beer.

In their haste to get away, the robbers' car went out of control and hit a palm tree nearby at Stimson Avenue and Main Street, sheriff's deputies said. Three of the suspects were seized there by arriving deputies.

At 6:30 a.m., deputies arrested the fourth man at Doctor's Hospital where he was attempting to get aid for injuries believed suffered in the accident. All were booked on suspicion of robbery.

The suspects are Jose Nieto, 21, and his brother, George, 18, both of La Puente, and two juvenile youths. Most of the money taken in the holdup was recovered, deputies said. All four were treated for minor injuries before being jailed.

Pomona briefs

Wentz suggests goals for schools

POMONA — A school can be rated by three criteria—a pleasant atmosphere in which every child feels valued and successful, an interested and enthusiastic faculty, and a responsive program designed to respond to each child's individual needs.

So said Pomona Supt. Robert E. Wentz when he spoke at the dedication services for the opening of a new school in Mishawaka, Ind., last week. Wentz was the former superintendent of the district in which the new school is located.

His suggested criteria, he noted in his address, are those established by Mrs. Charles Silberman, wife of the educator-author of "Crisis in the Classroom." He said he heartily concurs with the three goals.

Educators are on the threshhold of "an exciting new experience" because they are just now "scratching the surface" of the open-space, individualized education concept, he told his former Indiana colleagues.

A view from the hilltop

There are towns which have been built in valleys with large hills towering over them. On warm, sunny days such heights are made for contemplation.

As the solitary viewer traces the town and its geographic features, a feeling of great peace can descend.

From this distance, man's habitations and his works seem well-ordered.

The rectangles of the blocks of houses are like pigeonholes ready for the storage of life's meanings.

The rivers and the streets seem to fit the contours of the land and if they do not it would appear simple to make this slight rearrangement or that bit of altering to gain complete symmetry.

On these heights it is hard to reconcile the existence of wars. It is only when you are back in the narrower confines of the city's streets, marching with the masses of humanity, that wars become a reality again.

At times, history seems little but a recital of wars past. There are philosophers who argue, in fact, that war is as "normal" as peace.

Memorial Day, of course, is a day set aside to bow a moment over the war dead of the past. It has grown to encompass all those who made the supreme sacrifice. Our national emblem flies over their graves and they are decorated with blooms. A rifle volley rips out and the lonely voice of a bugle sounds "Taps."

They are remembered, we tell the war dead. And again we renew our promise that they will not have died in vain and that we are doing our puny best to prevent others from sharing their fate.

We look about us and see much of the world in turmoil, despite all the efforts of the past three decades to replace international strife with a just world order. Despite continuing challenges and occasional setbacks, world leadership remains in our hands. But leadership has its price, and we can be sure that, having surmounted present challenges, yet others await us over the horizon.

On that hilltop, conflict seemed remote. Down here, we know it is all too real and immediate. The challenge is continuing, and our response must be strength — of spirit and moral fiber as well as in arms. In this fashion, must we keep faith with ourselves and those Americans we honor.

Deafness leads all handicaps

Defective hearing is the nation's leading handicapping disability. Neither poor vision, heart disease, arthritis or any other impairment affects as many people.

A nationwide effort is now under way to reach those millions who have a hearing loss but who, for a variety of reasons, including procrastination, unawareness, vanity or simply not knowing what to do, have not sought the proper attention that could correct or reduce their disability.

The magnitude of the problem is startling.

According to James P. Ince, executive secretary of the Hearing Aid Industry Conference, some 19 million persons in the United States, including about 3.5 million school-age children, have substantial hearing defects.

More than 90 per cent of these disabling hearing losses could be significantly improved by medicine, surgery or amplification, says Ince.

An estimated 7 to 9 per cent of the U.S. population, mostly over age 60, needs hearing aids. Yet the sad fact is that only about 2.5 million persons today wear them.

Even among the hard of hearing who know of their impairment, many don't think anything can or should be done about it. Many have never been to a physician about their hearing, usually because the disability comes on gradually and without pain.

Persons with hearing problems are urged to consult a medical doctor, preferably an otologist or otolaryngologist. Depending on the type of problem, the doctor will either advise medical treatment or surgery or recommend a reliable hearing aid dealer.

Aid, comfort

One POW was convinced that he should meet a delegation of U.S. peace activists in North Vietnam by being forced to stand on a chair with his broken arm tied to a ceiling beam, and having the chair kicked out from under him repeatedly.

Said another, "Our morale was definitely lowered by Americans visiting North Vietnam. It is my opinion the only people they let in that country were Communists or Communist sympathizers."

Still another was hit repeatedly when he refused to agree to tell a Women's Strike for Peace group that U.S. bombs were being aimed at civilian targets.

A fourth repeated that such visiting delegations "definitely had a demoralizing effect on us."

The fifth reported that while groups were visiting Hanoi "many of us were heavily threatened, some of us were tortured as a result of their statements."

All this from testimony before the House Internal Security Committee.

Familiar names were named. Fonda, Clark, et al. Aid and comfort to the enemy, but precious little to fellow Americans. "Liars" was the word used for them.

The dapper duffer from Salinas

WASHINGTON — Representative Burt Talcott, the dapper duffer from California's salad bowl, was offended by our story that he had wangled prizes from lobbyists for a congressional golf match. "I think I have been maliciously maligned," he wailed.

He told his home town paper, the Salinas Californian, indignantly that he "did not solicit a single gift or prize or award, nor did I ask anyone else to." As for his own winnings, he said, all he could recall bringing home from the golf tourney were three Arnold Palmer golf balls and a Sears-Roebuck cap.

Talcott is a proper Republican who looks upon himself as the conscience of Congress. He is given to lecturing his colleagues on their improprieties. "The greatness of this body is inexorably eroded and degraded," he once scolded, "by violations of decorum . . . and practices offensive to our constituents."

But golf is Talcott's weakness and his denial of gift-gathering may be his Watergate. We invite him to check his own files. He should find an Aug. 10, 1972, memo he wrote to fellow congressmen.

As chairman of the golf tournament, he urged: "If you have constituents who would like to advertise a product by offering an appropriate 'tee prize' or award, please let the committee know soon."

He also encouraged his prize committee to bring pressure upon lobbyists to cough up suitable golfing awards. If he will look through his files carefully, he should find this enthusiastic note from Rep. Wiley Mayne, R-Iowa:

"Following our meeting on Tuesday," wrote Mayne, "I talked with Cartha 'Deke' DeLoach, who is now an executive with Pepsi Cola, owners of Wilson Sporting Goods. He very graciously offered to give us five golf bags and an unspecified number of Wilson golf balls. . . ." At the bottom of the letter, Mayne scrawled: "P.S. Perhaps you may wish to head off other sources of golf bags."

Talcott's correspondence also includes an exchange with Rep. Bill Dickinson, R-Ala., who came up with some gifts. "Dear Bill," wrote the grateful Talcott, "This will acknowledge receipt today from your office of eleven windbreakers from the Russell Company . . . .Please convey our thanks to the manufacturer."

If Talcott's memory still needs prodding, he may find a memo in his files from independent telephone lobbyist Tom Howarth reporting on gift solicitations. The lobbyist happily informed Talcott that prizes had been promised by Aerojet-General, the American Cattleman's Association and North American Rockwell.

Nor was the solon from Salinas altogether frank about his share of the plunder. After we confronted him with the facts, he conceded that he had brought home somewhat more than three golf balls and a Sears-Roebuck cap. His takings also included an expensive lounging chair, fancy shoes, tee cleaners, a flashlight, candy bars and associated other goodies.

Oh yes, those fancy windbreakers, which the Russell Company contributed, were never awarded as prizes. Instead, they were brought quietly back to his office where they were distributed to his staff members.

Nixon-like, Talcott accepted the responsibility but blamed his staff. The staff had passed out the windbreakers, he said, without his authority.

Talcott's statements challenging our accuracy, meanwhile, might be called "inoperative."

Footnote: Talcott claimed that we listened to only one disgruntled employe. This is also untrue. Talcott's office turnover is legendary and even his present staff is riven with discord.

PAUL HARVEY

Windmill yet to be discovered

If you resent historians sticking pins in your heroes, so do I.

Some chap has been selling books recently with what purports to be an expose of what really happened on Paul Revere's ride. The suggestion is that he was drunk and late and most of the men he alerted were away from their own beds visiting girlfriends. It seems a cowardly device when none of those guys is around to defend himself.

But where inventions have been attributed to the wrong parents they are illegitimate and researchers may be misled. Robert Fulton did not, in fact, invent the steamboat. It was not Christopher Columbus who proved the earth to be round. It was not Ben Franklin who discovered electricity and Henry Ford was not the first to practice mass production.

A chap named John Fitch completed several passenger-carrying steamboat runs on the Delaware River 19 years before Fulton.

I re-recite and correct these fictions only to justify my own conclusion that "the windmill has not yet been discovered."

The ancestry of the windmill which pumped the water that nourished the American West can be traced backward from the Holland Dutch to millwrights of the seventh century, perhaps beyond.

Yet, I insist it hasn't really been "discovered" yet.

First the steam engine came along to outproduce the windmill. Then electricity, particularly rural electrification, in the 1930s.

But now that engines pollute and electricity is becoming prohibitively costly, one American company, Heller-Aller, sold 650 windmills last year. But again, the windmill has not yet been discovered.

An imaginative engineer named Peter Harper of England recently received a grant from the United Nations for development of an alternative power source. He envisions giant versions of the old fan-bladed windmill—huge but graceful—capable of using the wind when it's blowing to charge huge storage batteries for use when it's not blowing; thus to power whole industries, whole communities with no pollution.

Will Peter Harper be remembered by historians as the man who "invented" the windmill?

Or will Canadians Raj Rangi and Peter South get the credit? Members of Canada's National Research Council, Rangi and South have access to wind-tunnel research facilities and they have there developed a windmill without a big fan—a high-speed turbine machine which rotates on a vertical axis. Mechanical energy thus produced may be used for irrigation or other water pumping. Or it may be converted into electrical power.

Being vertical, whichever way the wind blows this thing revolves "without turning about." And the blade tip exceeds the wind speed by six times thus their 15-foot diameter turbine prototype can convert a 15-mile wind to 1.2 horsepower or .9 kilowatt.

Out of the world's present need for cleaner, less expensive power, will come ideas for harnessing tides, for harnessing the sun and the wind.

Each is an ancient idea which awaits the somebody with the vision to discover it.

All-Year School

Very soon your hard-earned tax dollars are going to be used to buy a very large pig in a poke. This unseen commodity will be described as the greatest educational innovation in the last 100 years. It will brighten up your children, make full use of the facilities and save you money (in the long run). Beware of the parenthesis!

As a teacher in the Chino District, I became suddenly aware of the All-Year School when it was six months away from implementation. Questions began to rapidly form in my mind as it became very clear that in a year's time the whole district would be involved in All-Year School. How long had the planning (obviously in secret) been going on? Who was involved in the planning? What curriculum changes were made and who made them? What kind of preliminary surveys were taken to determine the need?

Why weren't the needs assessments published for public approval? Why weren't the taxpayers polled to see if they were in favor of a complete change in the educational system they pay for? Whey weren't all of the teachers of the district involved in the planning or even told that planning was in progress? And, most important, why rush into total district involvement with a half-developed program, untrained teachers, undeveloped curriculum for an unknown reason which will cost hundreds of thousands of dollars more (in the first five years).

It doesn't make sense for a school board to cry poverty for many years and curtail instructions by cutting down on textbooks, supplies, bussing, teachers, and capital outlay and then suddenly embark on a very costly educational venture that has a good chance of failing both educationally and financially—all of this without polling the taxpayer who foots the bills. Who will be asked, through tax overrides and bond elections, to bail out our schools if this fails?

Possibly the All-Year School will work and possibly it is a boon to education! If so, it then deserves to be well planned over a period of at least three year. The teachers deserve to be told what the over-all objectives in this system entail and their ideas and skills should be utilized in the planning.

The public should be asked if they want this type of system. As we are about to open our pilot-program schools, most of the people of Chino are not sure "just what an all-year school is," they should because their money is paying for it. —Loren Shryer.

Gossip for today

Thanks to science and research, it now begins to look as though the millennium, that hoped-for period of joy, serenity, prosperity and justice which was foretold in Revelations, is about to arrive. I refer to such great discoveries as penicillin and Dr. Salk's outstanding medical accomplishment which virtually eradicated the dread scorge of poliomyelitis. And now comes an announcement of another great scientific break-through which should make life truly ecstatic for millions of sufferers throughout the world.

A dentist at the University of Southern California states that it is now possible for people to have teeth, which are made of vitreous carbon, implanted in their jawbones. Thus they will be able to do away forever with dentures and upper plate wobble.

INSIDE REPORT

Watergate muck perils Kissinger

By ROWLAND EVANS
AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — When the FBI last week revealed the existence of 17 or more telephone taps to uncover national security leaks, Dr. Henry Kissinger's aides suspected one of those taps was on Kissinger's own phone—reflecting the morbid suspicions between Kissinger's National Security Council (NSC) staff and the Haldeman-Ehrlichman palace guard.

In fact, Kissinger's White House telephone was spared an FBI tap, at least in that particular phase of the running investigations by the FBI and other federal investigators of the NSC staff, ordered by the suspicious Ehrlichman-Haldeman "Berlin wall."

Whether Kissinger's telephone was spared in all other probes of the NSC is still not absolutely certain. In mid-1971 domestic policy chief John Ehrlichman was ordered by President Nixon to take control from the FBI of a complete new probe of leaked military and foreign policy secrets regarded by both Mr. Nixon and Kissinger as dangerous to national security. At that point, Ehrlichman launched a second secret investigation of Kissinger's NSC—without asking Kissinger's approval.

Ehrlichman's second probe, moreover, was completed and filed without Kissinger being informed what, if anything, turned up.

Staff under surveillance

In addition, there are unproved indications that members of Kissinger's staff were under occasional secret surveillance from non-civilians in the Pentagon security apparatus.

In the public mind, these security probes of Kissinger's staff — and perhaps Kissinger himself—have falsely linked Kissinger to the Watergate scandal. In his latest statement issued Tuesday night, President Nixon sought to break this linkage.

One clear reason for this presidential statement: growing speculation that Kissinger, Mr. Nixon's prize exhibit throughout his White House tenure, might simply resign as public opinion unfairly dragged him ever closer to the Watergate disgrace.

The relationship between the Kissinger operation, on the one hand, and the Berlin wall of Ehrlichman and chief of staff H. R. (Bob) Haldeman on the other was always strained, distant and suspicious. As we have reported, Haldeman denied Kissinger aides normal White House perquisites, such as access to the White House mess and transportation.

Beyond that, Kissinger and his staff were regarded as virtual enemies by the crewcut bully boys manning the Haldeman-Ehrlichman offices.

Powerful ties outside

The reasons are obvious. Kissinger was the only top White House aide with powerful ties outside the White House, both to Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York and to Eastern establishment intellectuals. The direct reason for the repeated security probes was Kissinger's deliberate selection of some Kennedy-Johnson holdovers for the NSC staff, including liberal intellectuals who had difficulty getting maximum security clearances long before Mr. Nixon became President.

Added to this was Kissinger's love of the spotlight—and the spotlight's love of him—and the fact that he, not Haldeman or Ehrlichman, shared Time's 1972 man of the year award with Mr. Nixon.

Thus, besides a genuine desire to cork security leaks, Kissinger acquiesced in wire taps on his own staff because he felt highly vulnerable to repeated Ehrlichman-Haldeman slurs that his staff was responsible for the leaks. Neverthless, these security probes grew so onerous in 1971 that intimates say he considered quitting.

Loses intellectual support

His dilemma now is far greater. Having lost the support of the liberal intellectuals who attack him today with indecent relish, he has no intention of trying to exonerate himself by a public proclamation of innocence. That, say Kissinger intimates, would indicate a sense of guilt he does not feel.

Kissinger could and did defend his suspect liberal aides, particularly Morton Halperin, whose nine-month stint as a top Kissinger aide ended in September 1969. But he may have too much pride to publicly defend himself.

The irony is painful. Kissinger, collaborator with the President in most of what is fruitful and valuable in the Nixon administration, is being smeared with the muck of Watergate, an affair with which he had no connection. If he should now reach the point where he loses his effectiveness, or decides to quit, Watergate will have devoured its first innocent victim.

New bus service links Upland, S.B.

SAN BERNARDINO — The San Bernardino interim transit bus system has been extended to Upland and Yucaipa.

Three trips will be made daily to both cities, stopping at 11th street and San Bernardino Road in Upland at 8 a.m., noon and 4 p.m., and Yucaipa at 9:45 a.m., 1:45 and 5:45 p.m.

The cost between Upland and San Bernardino will be 85 cents, and Upland and Yucaipa, $1.25. Passengers will be able to make connections with Southern California Rapid Transit District (RTD) buses in Upland for transportation to the Los Angeles area.

The San Bernardino transit system began April 9 between Fontana and Redlands after RTD discontinued its route east of Archibald Avenue. The county Board of Supervisors had denied an RTD request for subsidy from the county's revenue on gasoline sales taxes.

The new service is an expansion of the San Bernardino Municipal Transit System, which provides hourly service to Fontana, Rialto, San Bernardino, Loma Linda and Redlands.

The first bus leaves San Bernardino at 5:30 a.m., with the last bus returning at 7:30 p.m.

The county is funding the program from its gasoline sales tax revenues, assisted by cities being served.

During a 90 day trial system, studies are being conducted and various alternatives are being considered for establishment of a permanent service.

Upland dramatists to stage Chekhov plays

UPLAND — The Upland High School drama department's spring production will be a group of four one-act comedies by Anton Chekhov.

The four plays to be presented are "The Anniversary," "The Marriage Proposal," "The Harmful Effects of Smoking" and "The Boor." The performances will start at 7:30 p.m. each evening, Wednesday through Saturday in the Upland High School Auditorium.

This production marks the end of 2½ years of dormancy for the Upland drama department, according to this year's dirtctor, Hardin Brothers.

"If this production is successful, we will schedule a full season of four major productions next year," he said.

The Chekhov plays are the second production this year of Upland's performance group, which calls itself the Upland Repertory Theatre. However, the first production, a series of modern American one-act plays, was presented to classes only.

"Our group has viewed this year as a time to rebuild a tradition of drama at Upland.

"We believe we are building enough interest in drama here to produce the type and number of plays each year that the student body and community want. Our major problem now is to let people know that once again good drama exists at Upland."

For further information, persons may contact Brothers at 982-1391, ext. 252, during school hours.

Earnings improve for Kaiser Steel Corp.

FONTANA — The Kaiser Steel Corp. has reported first quarter earnings of $2,629,000 on sales of $134,123,000.

This amounts to earnings of 34 cents per common share after provision for payment of preferred dividends.

During the same 1972 quarter, in which a 44-day strike occurred at the Fontana mill, the corporation lost $9,933,000 on sales of $71,811,000 or $1.50 per common share after provision for payment of preferred dividends.

"Improved demand for domestic steel, and a marked pickup in export markets in recent months, together with excellent cost performance throughout the corporation accounted for the first quater earnings improvement," said Jack J. Carlson, president and chief executive officer.

"Shipments to the U.S. market were at an excellent level throughout the quarter and many of our individual product facilities are quoting lead times which run well into the second and third quarters."

Carlson said that imported steel continued to flow into the seven western states at a record rate during the early weeks of the quarter, but it is hoped it will slacken under pressure from the recent devaluation of the dollar and improving demand elsewhere.

Uplanders chosen as state senator's aide

ONTARIO — Mary A. Bradley of Upland assumed duties as field secretary to Sen. William E. Coombs, R-20th Dist., today in his field office at 515 N. Euclid Ave.

Mrs. Bradley joined Coombs' staff April 1, and has been in his main district office in Rialto this past week familiarizing herself with staff procedures.

She is a deputy registrar in San Bernardino County and known for her volunteeer work in Red Cross, Heart Fund, American Cancer Society and the PTA. She also has been active in the Federation of Republican Women.

Her husband is James A. Bradley, western regional marketing manager for a Los Angeles electrical products firm.

They have a son at Chaffey College, a daughter at Upland High School and another child at Upland Elementary.

Mrs. Bradley will be in the Euclid Avenue office Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. to assist constituents in the West End. The office telephone number is 984-1781.

Assembly panel plans school-goals hearing

ONTARIO — The subcommittee of the Assembly's Joint Committee on Educational Goals and Evaluation will hold a public hearing Thursday at 3:30 p.m. in the Merton E. Hill Auditorium on the Chaffey High School campus.

Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-24th Dist., Santa Clara County, is chairman of that committee.

Vasconcellos said the purpose of the hearing is to assess the progress of the goal-setting effort in public schools in California and to receive testimony on the proposed data collection procedure developed by the Citizens' Steering Comittee.

This will be one of eight such hearings held in the state.

It is not the best car of its kind in the world.
It is the only car of its kind in the world.
$16,594*

NOW ISSUING from the Mercedes-Benz works is the 450SLC Coupe, a remarkable car even by Mercedes-Benz standards.

It is not a shrunken luxury car. It is not a stretched sports car. It is a four-passenger "personal" car designed for the serious driver.

Too big and comfortable to be a sports car, too agile and responsive not to be—the 450SLC is tuned to the perfection of a Stradivarius.
—Autoweek Magazine

Pleasures like the smell of real leather and the click of push buttons abound, of course. But they are mere icing on the cake. This car's prime appeal is to the man who loves fine machines and the art of driving.

3,765 precisely balanced pounds

The 450SLC weighs almost 2 tons. How can it be spirited through the mountains like a sports car?

"The 450SLC's secret is a simple one," states Autoweek, "but the result of endless hours of labor." In brief, relentlessly thorough engineering.

You ride on a fully independent suspension, aided by front and rear anti-sway bars and gas-filled shock absorbers.

Yet impressive as they are, these raw technical facts cannot entirely explain the genius of the 450SLC. That Autoweek writer looks deeper for the answer.

Driving this car, he claims, "gives you the feeling that the engineers tried every possible combination of 100 spring rates, 100 anti-roll bars and 1000 bump and rebound valve settings in the shock absorbers—then rebuilt the car and tried them all again, 100 times with different engine mounts."

A reassuring feeling indeed.

4.5 litre V-8

The 450SLC draws its power from an overhead-camshaft V-8 engine of 4.5 litres displacement. This ranks as one of the largest engines yet fitted to a production Mercedes-Benz.

You control a 3-speed automatic transmission built to shift as fast as a manual gearbox, but smoother. Leave the padded, floor-mounted lever in Drive position and forget shifting entirely—or click through the gears, manual style. The choice is yours.

Caliper-type disc brake at every wheel

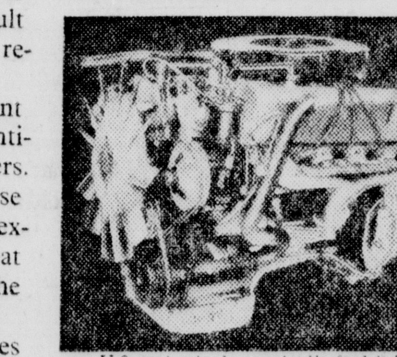
The engineers felt the disc/drum brake arrangement used on most "personal" cars unworthy of the 450SLC. You stop with a system of 4-wheel disc brakes linked to a power assist.

Note that the front discs are ventilated for cooling.

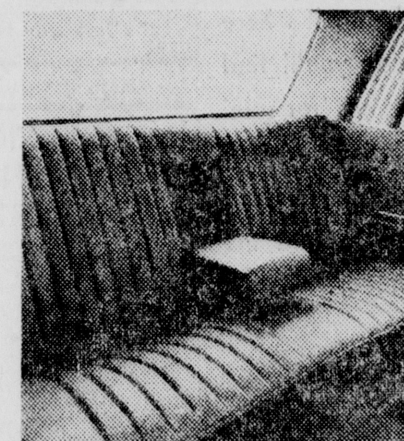
Built into each wheel is a ring of turbo blades, designed to scoop a steady stream of air into the brake discs as the car speeds along.

Snakes through traffic

Your 450SLC will thrive in tight urban traffic as it does on the open road; it's an agile car. You ride on a generous 111-inch wheelbase but whip through a full turning circle in 37.9 feet. (Turning circle of the Cadillac Eldorado: 46.8 feet.)



V-8 engine is electronically fuel-injected



Rear seats are roomy—and that is real leather

An eminent motoring commentator reacted this way to the 450SLC's driving environment.

"I have had the opportunity to examine and sit in the Apollo 12 and 14 space capsules. They give me the same feeling."

You will find the instrument panel well padded, logically planned, and devoid of gimmicks.

The seats may make you wonder why all cars can't be this comfortable. One invisible plus: hand-tied coil springs. One visible plus: hand-fitted leather upholstery.

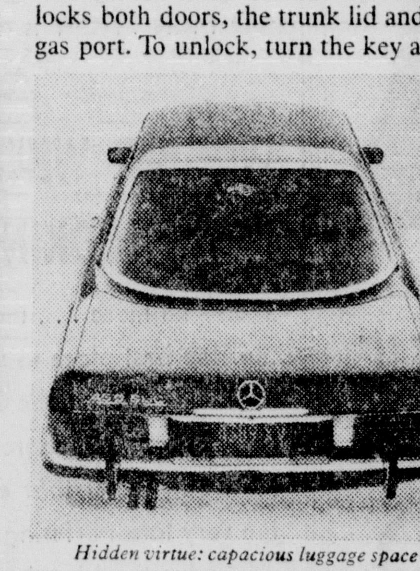
Even the built-in air-conditioning system is extraordinary. Hidden ducts run into the interiors of the doors, to cool or heat them as you wish.

You can make this car secure with one turn of the key in the driver's-side door. This simple movement activates a vacuum-operated system that silently locks both doors, the trunk lid and the gas port. To unlock, turn the key again.



Hidden virtue: capacious luggage space

Logical cockpit design: function, not gimmicks

Other standard amenities include electric windows, tinted glass, power steering, and an AM/FM stereo receiver.

Be sure to explore the rear seat area of the 450SLC. If you have been exasperated before by so-called "4-seaters" that were not, you will be reassured; there is space there for adults

Function over ornament

Run a finger along the windshield pillar trim: you will feel a vane of stainless steel. Like a mini-gutter, it is there to deflect rain, slush and mud that would normally stream over your side windows in foul-weather driving.

Those ribbed taillight lenses come from the wind tunnel, not the styling studio. Their curious corrugated surface is intended to repel the buildup of mud and slush—keeping the taillights visible to the traffic behind.

Flip open the glove box and you will find a removable flashlight, charged by the car's own electrical system. Handy for map reading, etc.

Your 450SLC is delivered with such a full complement of equipment that the options list is brief and simple. An electric sliding sunroof, forged-alloy wheels and limited-slip differential are three of the few extra-cost items offered.

Arrange for a test drive

The 450SLC Coupe is patiently assembled and finished in the manner you would expect of a $16,000 Mercedes-Benz. Its workmanship alone makes it a joy to own.

But demand is already strong, and supply not unlimited. You would be wise to order at an early date to ensure that you get exactly the equipment and the color you prefer.

Call your authorized Mercedes-Benz dealer, whose name and address appear below. He can arrange a thorough test drive and answer all further questions. A final suggestion: be sure and ask about European delivery of your 450SLC. You stand to save by picking the car up at the Mercedes-Benz factory in Stuttgart, West Germany.

ACTION.

What's your reason for not buying a home NOW?

TROUBLED OVER HIGH INTEREST RATES

It is true interest rates have risen, but they do seem to have stabilized in the past several months. And while the rates may seem high, they are not climbing as rapidly as are labor and material costs. An increase or a decrease of ½ percent in interest rates only amounts to 30c per month per $1000 on a 25 year loan. Is it really wise to deny yourself the security, pleasure and pride of home ownership on the vague hope of interest rates going down, thus saving you only $3 or $4 a month? The value of your home will increase at a much faster rate than can be gained by any lowering of interest rates. NOW is a good time to buy!

WONDER WHERE TO BEGIN LOOKING?

Worry no more . . . most folks have found that the best place to shop for that new or lived-in home is in the Classified Real Estate columns of the Progress-Bulletin. It's here (and only here) that each day you'll find the very latest offerings of homes 'for sale' . . . advertised by the area's leading real estate firms and builders. Check the want ads today—and every day—to find the home that satisfies all your needs.

MEMORIAL DAY

We Pay Tribute To Those Who Gave Their Lives . . .

Today we pause to remember . . . with gratitude and respect . . . the men throughout this nation's history who answered the call to arms and lost their lives in freedom and dignity. Today we count our blessings, we also consider their cost. Nobody ever said it better than Abraham Lincoln: ". . . from these honored dead we take increased devotion . . . to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion." Today let's pledge ourselves to a just and lasting peace.

'Copy to Nixon' data charged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., says he knows of one or more secret documents marked "copy to the President" which he believes indicate President Nixon knew about efforts by his staff to cover up the Watergate burglary.

Symington, acting chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, made a brief, cryptic remark about the existence of such a document in a television interview Sunday (CBS "Face the Nation"). He confirmed it in a later conversation with UPI but declined to elaborate in any way.

Symington's committee has been holding closed-door hearings on alleged White House staff efforts to involve the Central Intelligence Agency in covering up Watergate.

Symington, who had said May 18, he found it hard to "visualize" President Nixon knowing nothing about the coverup, was asked in the CBS interview whether later information changed this view. He replied by recalling that three top Nixon aides—H.R. Haldeman, John Ehrlichman and John W. Dean III—had all lost their jobs.

"Under those circumstances, plus the fact that some of the paper says 'copy to the President,' it's hard to believe that he knew nothing about the effort to cover up the Watergate burglary," Symington said.

Hard to believe

"I don't say that he did," he added. "I never did say that, and I wouldn't argue with him if he says he didn't. But I just say it's hard to believe that he didn't know anything about it."

When asked by UPI to elaborate, Symington said he was not at liberty to discuss it, adding, "I'll just have to let the remark stand."

Nixon said May 22: "I took no part in, nor was I aware of, any subsequent efforts that may have been made to cover up Watergate."

In other developments:

—Democratic National Chairman Robert S. Strauss charged Sunday that President Nixon is trying to "wrap himself" in a "national security" blanket to hide from scandal. Interviewed on NBC's "Meet the Press," Strauss said, "There's a big difference—and I think the public will understand the difference — between national security and Nixon security." Nixon has said hindsight told him that his own interest in national security was used by his staff as an excuse for covering up their Watergate involvement, and he stressed the need for secrecy in a recent talk to former POWs.

—The privately funded Fair Campaign Practices Committee said that in 20 years of studying political abuses it has never encountered anything as potentially damaging to "selfgoverning society" as Watergate. It said that even aside from Watergate, campaigns are getting dirtier.

Want answers

—Democratic party lawyers planned to go to court this week to ask that Haldeman and Ehrlichman be compelled to answer questions about the Watergate coverup in the Democrats' $6.4 million damage suit against the Republicans.

Symington has previously described closed-door testimony to his committee to the effect that Haldeman, Ehrlichman and Dean all were involved in various ways in trying to get CIA to cover up the Watergate scandal.

The committee is in possession of several sets of Watergate related documents. These include the so-called "Dean papers" describing a 1970 national security investigation plan. But these pre-date Watergate. The committee also has 11 memos on CIA contacts with the White House and a set of anonymous letters written to the CIA by later-convicted conspirator James M. McCord, warning CIA it was being used. It was not clear whether Symington referred to any of these or to still other documents.

Symington said his committee has recalled CIA's deputy director Vernon Walters, who has already given extensive testimony, "to explain some things that aren't quite clear."

Astronauts get into routine aboard Skylab

HOUSTON (UPI) — With Skylab cooling under the shade of an umbrella, three astronauts settled down in the space station today and began all-important medical testing for a record 28 days in orbit.

Charles "Pete" Conrad, Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz awakened on their fourth day in space shortly after 7 a.m. and their first chore was to draw blood samples from each other for later analysis.

"Hello there, our hands are full of bloody medical equipment, but we'll recover," said Weitz when the big space station swept over the Gulf of Mexico at 8:15 a.m. It was the first time Americans had taken blood samples in space.

Conrad, Kerwin and Weitz have turned the 100-ton, eight compartment assembly into a liveable house. They cooked breakfast in their wardroom for the first time this morning and plan to move into three private bedrooms tonight.

"I've just finished shaving, breakfast is cooking and I think with a little luck at all we'll get into a good routine," Conrad said.

Things were going so smoothly now that the space station has been repaired and cooled that flight directors scheduled an in-flight televised news conference for the pilots this afternoon.

"If it weren't for the fact we had such a spectacular view out of the wardroom window, I'd think we were back in Houston swimming," Conrad said referring to flight simulations the pilots conducted in a mockup Skylab.

"Right now, we're over Italy and the weather is spectacularly clear. We can see just about all of Italy from one end to the other, clear across the Mediterranean, going across ground I've never seen before."

Conrad, making his fourth flight in space, said kitchen work was taking a little longer than expected, "but I don't think that's to be unexpected. I think we're getting a little bit better hang on it as we get better organized."

He said he and his colleagues were wearing shoes with triangle plates to lock themselves in the gridwork of the floors and ceilings while they worked in weightlessness. He said some work was easy but they were having trouble keeping anchored in the bathroom —"We're ricocheting off the walls in there."

Soviet military pilot defects

BRAUNSCHWEIG, Germany (UPI)—A Soviet military pilot, who parachuted to safety before his SU7 fighter-bomber crashed inside the West German border, today asked for political asylum, the news agency DPA said.

DPA attributed its report of the Russian flight lieutenant's defection to the West German interior ministry in Bonn.

DPA said the 21-year-old pilot has been transferred to the camp for foreign political refugees at Zirndorf near Nuernberg. The pilot's identity has not been released.

The Russian's plane, a model that went into production in 1958, crashed into a field near here and 17 miles west of the East-West German border Sunday morning.

The pilot, who was later questioned by officers of the West German federal intellingence agency, escaped with minor bruises.

In 1967, another Soviet military pilot asked for political asylum in West Germany after he crash landed his MIG17 in a field in Dillingen county.

West German authorities later returned the plane to the Russians.

Fire burns inn

BURBANK (UPI) — Fire officials are investigating a blaze which burned for more than an hour at the Yankee Pedlar Inn Sunday, causing $65,000 damage.

Authorities said the fire broke out shortly after closing time.

MEMORIAL DAY 1973

Mrs. Dorothy Prickett, representing the Auxiliary of the Charles P. Rowe American Legion Post 30 placed a bouquet of Flanders Poppies at the Veterans Monument at Garfield Park in Pomona during services there this morning. The poppies are from seeds which were brought to this country from France after World War I by Mrs. Tom Northey, a French war-bride. Mrs. Northey is a member of the Auxiliary. The American Legion conducted Memorial Day services at several locations in valley communities today.

Twisters strike dozen towns in 'Bama; 11 killed

By United Press International

Tornadoes, violent thunderstorms and rain brought death and heavy damage to the southern and central portions of the nation on the Memorial Day weekend with the south suffering the most.

Winds, flash floods and thunderstorms left 34 persons known dead and hundreds injured. Another six persons were believed drowned in flash floods in western North Carolina.

More than a dozen small communities in Alabama were hit by tornadoes, leaving 11 persons dead. In the small town of Brent in west central Alabama, 8 persons were killed in a twister that destroyed much of the town. Three other deaths were reported elsewhere.

Towns struck by the twister included Brent, Greensboro, Wilsonville, Childersburg, Tarrant, Pinson and Center Point.

At least 100 persons were injured in the Alabama twisters, and power was cut off to about 25,000 users in Birmingham.

Another twister steam-rolled through Jonesboro, Ark., Sunday, cutting a 10-mile swath from the South Side of the Mississippi Delta city and leaving three persons dead and more than 200 injured. Thousands of houses were destroyed or damaged in the twister.

Twisters also spun over Mississippi, leaving one person dead and about 30 others injured.

Five persons died when a tornado roared through Keefeton, Okla., Saturday and another person was killed in a tornado Saturday at Crestview, Fla.

Heavy rains

Heavy rains also touched off flash flooding.

A flood at Dalton, Ga., Sunday claimed the life of a 10-year-old boy.

Another nine persons died in weather-related accidents in Illinois, Missouri, and Kansas.

Flash flooding deluged two Southern Illinois counties Sunday, forcing families to evacuate their homes. Heavy rains were measured unofficially at up to eight or 10 inches in the Elco, Ill., area.

An Alexander County civil defense spokesman estimated damage in that Illinois county alone at $1 million and said 100 families were forced to evacuate.

"It's the worst flash flooding anybody in this area can recall," the spokesman said.

Flash flooding also plagued Union County, Illinois. A snowplow was called in to remove debris from county roadways.

Chino man, 18, dies of auto crash injuries

CHINO — An 18-year-old Chino man died early Sunday morning in Chino General Hospital nearly three hours after he suffered a skull fracture and internal injuries in a one-car accident near Euclid Avenue on Riverside Drive.

Dead is Frank Villalpando of 13172 12th St., Chino. His brother, Jeronimo Vollalpando, 24, of 4800 Fairway Blvd., Chino, suffered minor injuries in the accident.

According to Highway Patrol officers, the accident occurred at about 12:30 a.m. Sunday. Jeronimo Villalpanod was driving his car west on Riverside Drive at about 50 miles per hour with his brother seated in the front passenger's seat. Officers gave this version:

An approaching eastbound car had its bright lights on and Villalpando blinked his own lights at the other car. This apparently caused a failure in the car's lighting system as all its lights went out. Unable to see, Villalpando swerved right, the car slammed into a telephone pole and then rebounded across the roadway, coming to a stop in an open field on the south side of the road.

Both brothers were taken by ambulance to the hospital where Frank died about three hours later. Jeronimo was released after treatment.

Joint U.S.-Russ space flight in '75, says Soviet

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda said Saturday a joint American-Russian space flight will begin July 15, 1975.

Pravda quoted Arnold Fratkin, chief of the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), as saying the Soviet spaceship would leave first, followed 7½ hours later by the American Apollo craft.

The Soviets announced the names of their two-man crew Thursday. The three American crewmen were named in January.

Pravda and Fratkin said both countries have agreed on radio frequencies to be used for communication between the two spacecraft and special Russian-English vocabulary lists are now being compiled.

Plane crash kills six Southlanders

COTTAGE GROVE, ore. (UPI) — Six members of a prominent Southern California family were killed during the weekend when their twin engine Cessna 310 plunged to earth during a landing approach.

Owner-pilot John W. Mieras, 56, an attorney from Pasadena, was killed Saturday along with his wife, Eunice, 56; their daughter, Christina Gaglione, 22; her husband, Fabio, 25; Mieras' mother, Jennie, 84; and his brother, James E. Mieras, 47, of Fullerton.

Two men shot; father-in-law under arrest

POMONA — A family argument at 1040 S. Park Ave. wound up with two persons shot and a third arrested on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder late Sunday night.

The victims, Rudy Vargas, 31, and Larry E. Ozuna, 23, were reported in satisfactory condition this morning at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. Both had chest and stomach wounds. Ozuna was in the intensive care unit.

Ozuna, of Oceanside, and Vargas, 930 W. Third St., are sons-in-law of the man charged with shooting them. The suspect is Froto Lujana Gallardo, 44, of the S. Park Avenue address. A 17-year-old youth also was arrested at the scene by officers who charged that he interfered with their investigation.

Details of the shooting were not available early today but police said they were summoned to the address and found Ozuna lying in the street and Vargas just outside the house. The suspect surrendered without incident.

U. S. Navy ship in Japanese crash

TOKYO (UPI) — The 1,450-ton U. S. Navy destroyer escort USS Charles Berry and a Japanese cargo ship collided today in Kobe harbor.

A Navy spokesman said damage to both ships was minor and that apparently no one was hurt.

100-degree heat roasts valley

A desert air mass brought blistering weather to Pomona Valley Sunday. It's supposed to reach 100 degrees today and near 100 degrees Tuesday.

Sunday's hot weather and clear skies were an added bonus for Pomona Valley residents who celebrated the holiday at home. Campgrounds in nearby mountains were reported packed to capacity for the holiday weekend.

The Cal Poly weather station said the high temperature in Pomona Sunday reached 95 degrees. This morning's low was a warm 55 degrees.

The hottest May 27 on record was 96 degrees set in 1968.

Temperatures in Ontario soared to 100 degrees Sunday. Palm Springs reported a peak of 104 degrees Sunday.

The weatherman said the hot weather will continue today and Tuesday in Pomona but temperatures should cool down to the high 80s by Wednesday because of cooling sea breezes.

4-point earthquake strikes Argentina

MENDOZA, Argentina (UPI) — A slight earthquake rocked this city in western Argentina Sunday night but caused neither damages nor casualties.

The Mendoza seismological center said the quake measured four points on the Mercalli scale and was recorded at 9:50 p.m. EDT

4 persons held; huge smuggling ring broken up

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Authorities said today they have broken up "a major smuggling operation in California" with the arrests of a young couple and two men who allegedly ferried $1 million worth of marijuana into the United States by boat from Mexico.

The suspects, Donald Hickman, 29, his wife, Gloria, 28, of Modesto, Calif., Thomas Landerson 28, and Donald Prator, 27, both of Oakdale, Calif., were charged over the weekend with smuggling, conspiracy, unlawful importation and distribution of a controlled substance.

Customs agents seized a boat loaded with a ton of marijuana at Mission Bay as the contraband was being removed. Agents said the four suspects had sailed a similar boat to Ensenada, Mexico, and exchanged it there for the one that was loaded with the marijuana.

"I think we have arrested the key people in a major smuggling operation in California," said Paul V. Artin, senior resident customs agent.

"Our information is that this group has been in business for the last six or seven months."

The four suspects were due for arraignment before a U.S. magistrate on Tuesday.

Man arrested in threat on New Orleans mayor

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Police have jailed a teen-aged Wyoming serviceman reported to be absent without leave from Arizona who threatened to kill Mayor Moon Landrieu.

James A. Nichol, 19, of Worland, Wyo., was booked Sunday with carrying a concealed weapon and aggravated assault on a cab driver.

Officers reported Clarence Griffin, the cab driver, told them Nichol entered his cab and ordered, "Bring me to the mayor's house. I'm going to kill him." Nichol displayed a pistol and shot at but missed Griffin when the driver got out of the cab on the pretense he needed directions to Landrieu's residence.

The shot attracted a hotel security guard and other bystanders who subdued Nichol in the downtown section of the city far from the mayor's house.

Police did not disclose any reason for Nichol's action. They said he was AWOL from Ft. Huachupa, Ariz.

HEW accused --more chiefs than Indians

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., says the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has "grade creep" —even more, he says than the military.

In bureaucratic jargon, this means there are too many bosses and not enough people to do the work.

Aspin said the number of HEW officials earning $31,000 or more annually—putting them at grade 16 or above—has grown from 84 to 414 in the past 10 years.

During the same period, he said, the number of HEW employes at grades 13-25 has increased four-fold from about 3,300 to more than 13,000 and grown as a percentage of the total work force from 5.3 per cent to 12 per cent this year.

"What this means," Aspin said, "is that while the administration has been cutting its budget through cutting social service programs, the bureaucracy has grown fatter and fatter."

Moment of truth arrives in L.A. mayoral contest

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Mayor Sam Yorty, calling Los Angeles the nation's best run major city, tries Tuesday for an unprecedented fourth term as head of America's third largest city.

The polls indicate his rival, black City Councilman Thomas Bradley, is leading. But four years ago, Yorty and Bradley met on the same battleground and the incumbent won handily, despite polls that showed Bradley ahead.

Although both candidates are Democrats, the mayoral race is on a nonpartisan basis. Tuesday's runoff election follows an April primary in which Bradley outpolled 14 contenders, including Yorty, but failed to get a majority.

This year the two candidates met for the first time in three televised debates, two of them turning into name-calling free-for-alls in which little attention was given to city issues.

Yorty, who has run the city for 12 years and last year ran unsuccessfully for the Democratic presidential nomination, accused Bradley of accepting campaign contributions from persons who have ties with Las Vegas gambling. The councilman denied there was any wrongdoing.

Last week, Bradley forces charged that Yorty has operated a $1 million secret reelection fund and that $50,000 of it had been used to take out a life insurance policy for the mayor.

Yorty said funds for the policy came from legal gifts, but Charles T. Manatt, Southern California chairman of the Democratic Party, called Sunday for a "full public view" of the alleged secret fund.

Recent polls have shown that Bradley is a few percentage points ahead and is gaining in selected precincts but that there is a large number of voters still undecided.

Both candidates are heavily endorsed. Bradley, a former police lieutenant, has the backing of the majority of local labor groups, including the AFL-CIO affiliates.

Yorty, who is campaigning on the platform that Los Angeles is the best run major city and the "envy of the nation," has been endorsed in recent television spots by Hollywood personalities, including actor John Wayne and entertainer Danny Thomas.

Black Panther leader Huey Newton last week put the support of his group behind Bradley, but the councilman rejected it, saying he did not want it and didn't approve of the motives of the militant organization.

2 chute jumpers killed in Arizona

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (UPI) — Two young men performing a free fall parachute jump with two other parachutists pulled their ripcords just one second too late and were killed when they hit the ground.

Ford plans to meet guerrillas' demands

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — A spokesman for Ford Motor Co. of Argentina said Sunday the company will begin this week carrying out its controversial decision to pay $1 million in charitable donations as demanded by urban guerrillas.

The spokesman said "a third party" would handle distribution of the medical and food supplies to hospitals and schools. The spokesman also said Ford considers the case "closed."

Ford headquarters in Dearborn, Mich., announced last Wednesday it would meet the demands after members of the leftwing People's Revolutionary Army (ERP) shot and wounded two Ford employes in Buenos Aires as they left work.

The guerrilla organization left notes saying the shooting was a kidnap attempt and more attacks against Ford workers would follow unless the company donated $1 million to Argentine schools and hospitals.

Ford's decision to comply caused dismay among some American businessmen in Buenos Aires. They said it could start a wave of similar threats by guerrillas against U.S. companies operating in the country.

Although Ford announced it would meet the guerrilla demands, celebrations surrounding the inauguration Friday of President Hector J. Campora forced postponement of payment until business resumed this week.

Campora's first official act in office was to grant amnesty for political prisoners — including members of the ERP.

ERP said in a communique Sunday it would continue to attack "multinational corporations and exploit capital" but would not attack the new government.

People regard Watergate coverage fair

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Almost twice as many Californians think that news coverage of the Watergate affair has been fair and unbiased as think the opposite, pollster Mervin D. Field said today.

Field released the results of his California Poll, a statewide survey made between May 7 and 17 in which a representative cross-section of 1,043 adults was interviewed.

Field said that 64 per cent of the public believed that if the news media had not contimued investigation of the Watergate affair, the matter would have remained covered up.

The poll also showed that 71 per cent of the public believed the news media would have worked just as hard to uncover wrongdoing no matter who was president.

Field said that Republicans indicated a less favorable impression of the news media in the Watergate affair than Democrats, with 42 per cent of Republicans considering the coverage unfair, while only 18 per cent of Democrats held that opinion.

Egypt military ordered to prepare for Israel war

By United Press International

Egyptian authorities are issuing orders to military commands "on the basis that fighting (against Israel) will start shortly," the weekly Arab Report of Beirut's An Nahar newspaper said today.

"There are speculations that (Egypt's President Anwar) Sadat may take the opportunity of the forthcoming Nixon-Brezhnev meeting on 18 June to give the green light," the weekly said in its review of Egyptian war preparations.

In Tel Aviv, a military spokesman took the threat lightly but reasserted Israel's preparedness for war should Egypt decide to open fire.

"We are always ready for anything," the spokesman said. He pointed out that Egypt had undertaken similar preparations in the past, especially prior to diplomatic efforts to force Israel to withdraw from occupied Arab territory.

The Middle East is to be debated by the U.N. Security Council in early June at Egypt's request.

The An Nahar dispatch said: "Sadat hopes to make use of Libyan Mirage jet fighters, some of which are believed to be already stationed on Egyptian bases, and he will also receive Hawker-Hunter aircraft from Kuwait. Egyptian pilots have been trained on Hunters and Saudi Arabian Lightnings.

"....Every Egyptian official stressed that the battle is inevitable, although plans cannot be revealed," An Nahar said. "The An Nahar correspondent reports that orders are now being given to military commands on the basis that fighting will start shortly."

The report said "observers believe" that the Soviet Union "since about three months ago has shown a more accommodating attitude to Egypt on the supply of weapons."

NASA studies 9 students in isolation experiment

DAVIS, Calif. (UPI) — Nine students who have spent more than three months in isolation under artificial lighting conditions are close to the end of an experiment to determine how time lag affects people.

Preliminary results show that a disrupter "may have a more important influence" than a leader in such an environment, said NASA scientist Joan Vernikos-Danellis.

The 105-day experiment at the University of California-Davis will end Tuesday.

The experiment, supported by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, should help predict how astronauts will perform in space stations and how jet travelers are affected by a change in time.

On Feb. 13, the nine volunteers entered three 11-by 17-foot rooms, all identical except for the lighting conditions. One group served as a control and the other two groups were experimented with.

During the experiment, researchers first lit all the rooms with continuous low levels of light. Then, they introduced cycles of darkness and light, eight hours different from the normal cycle.

They also lit one room continuously but dimly, and put the other on 16 hours of light with eight hours of darkness.

All nine students were wired to record their heartbeats and body temperatures so scientists could gauge their adjustments to the changing light cycles.

Connally denies he assisted ITT gain approval of merger

NEW YORK (UPI) — Presidential assistant John B. Connally denied Sunday that he helped International Telephone and Telegraph Co. gain federal approval of a controversial merger with the Hartford Fire Insurance Co.

The Hartford Courant reported that Connally intervened on ITT's behalf in April, 1971, when he was President Nixon's treasury secretary. At the time, the Justice Department was considering antitrust action to block the merger.

"I don't care what they said; I didn't intervene in anything," Connally told newsmen before addressing a dinner of the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations.

During his speech, Connally did not mention the Watergate scandal by name. But he said, "The genius of American democracy is its ability to right itself when things go wrong. We are seeing today not the destruction of our system, but a reaffirmation that our system works."

Train explosion

Contents of bomb leak before blast

BENSON, Ariz. (UPI) — The contents of a bomb aboard a Southern Pacific Railroad train that exploded near here Thursday, leaked out onto the tracks five miles before the site of the explosion.

William G. Meeker, chief investigator for the National Transportation Safety Board, said Sunday night that residue found along the tracks was identified as Tritonal, the explosive substance from which the bombs were made.

The investigator said it had not been determined what caused the explosive substance to spill out onto the tracks. He did not rule out the possibility of sabotage but added, "we have certainly not found one thing to substantiate it."

Twelve cars of the 107-car Bluestreak Merchandizers, loaded with 2,000 50-pound bombs, exploded during a two-hour period near this desert community Thursday night.

"Approximately five miles in advance of the final stopping point of the train, there was an event that occurred in one of the cars of the train," Meeker said.

"We strongly suspect, in fact we believe, it to have been in one of the cars containing explosives and that results in debris deposits along the railroad right of way.

"Included in the debris were portions of the explosive contents of the bomb, identified as Tritonal," he said.

Meeker said it was that leak, five miles before the train exploded, that caused small fires along the tracks which were seen by two crewmen in the caboose and an area resident, Mrs. Thurston Comstock, of Dragoon.

Investigators have learned that after the crewmen in the caboose saw one of the cars on fire and began emergency stopping procedures, bombs apparently fell from one or more of the cars.

One of the bombs, although not detonating, "is believed to have reacted violently," damaging motor vehicles aboard one of the cars as the train traveled toward Benson, Meeker said.

"Other bombs that fell from the train remained intact," he said. "The crew, in the rear of the train, detrained, and the train continued down the track without any additional occurances until such time as it stopped.

"Subsequent to stopping, explosive forces were observed in the cars. There was detonation of bombs in a progressive manner until such time as all cars containing explosives were consumed."

Authorities, meanwhile, were checking the contents of a 13th bomb-laden car which had been loaded at the same time as those that exploded but was sidetracked at El Paso, Tex.

National bank chairman quits

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Financier C. Arnholt Smith has resigned as chairman of the board of United States National Bank, five months after he relinquished the presidency of the bank.

The announcement came only a day before Smith filed a letter of intent to sell his San Diego Padres baseball team to a Washington, D.C. group of businessmen for $12 million— the highest price in baseball history.

In a letter to shareholders, Smith said, "When a person has devoted 56 years of life to banking, the last 40 years as chief executive officer of this bank, I believe it is time to retire from active participation."

Smith said he would retain the title of chairman emeritus of United States National Bank, which this year attained $1 billion in resources.

Watergate giving Demos new hopes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A couple of weeks ago, Democrats dropped plans for a portable bar at a private luncheon in Washington.

Last week, at a scheduled Democratic fund raising dinner-dance, there was no dance floor.

No, puritanism is not taking hold at the Democratic party.

The vanishing bar and dance floor are signs of the reviving hopes of the Democratic party. They were eliminated to make room for an outpturing of party faithful and party contributors.

Watergate was the main reason for the big turnouts. The party faithful wanted to hear their leaders lay it on the line about Watergate. Party contributors were showing their confidence that Democrats were on the way back from one of the worst shellackings in presidential election history.

Money is starting to come to the Democratic party at a much greater rate than the trickle of recent years that did not nearly match the rate of flow to Republican campaign chests.

For the first time in years, the Democrats sce at least the way open to get out of hock. The national commitee's debt — once more than $9 million primarily because of debts from the 1968 presidential campaign — is now down to little more than $3 million. Democratic National Chairman Robert S. Strauss plans a six-hour September telethon fund-raiser to pare that down.

The last Democratic telethon netted $2 million to pay off some of the party's I-O-U's. Half the proceeds of the coming telethon will go to state Democratic parties to prepare for the 1974 congressional elections. The remaining half is pledged to pay off more of the debts to telephone companies, airlines and such.

Last week's party fund-raiser at the Washington Hilton Hotel raised more than $1 million, topping by a quarter of a million the amount grossed by the GOP at a similar event two weeks ago. And the Democrats did it by charging $500 a plate compared to a $1,000 tab imposed by the Republicans $1,000. The Republicans even gave away batches of free tickets to fill the hall for their featured speaker, President Nixon.

The Democrats are aware of public cynicism over the corrupting influence of money in politics because of Watergate. Watergate, according to Democratic fund-raiser Walter Shorenstein of California, will make politicians cautious of money "that's out to buy something."

Democratic leaders also are more than a little concerned of signs of a possible euphoria which could lead the party into an election-year psychology of coasting to victory on Watergate.

"We can't automatically run as the party of honesty against the party of dishonesty," featured speaker Sen. Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina cautioned at last week's Democratic rally.

In Congress, Democratic leaders have been trying to flag down some party enthusiasts who talk of attempting to impeach Nixon.

Political history gives the Democrats cause for pause over use of corruption as an election issue. Teapot Dome perhaps was the biggest scandal in government in modern times. It never touched Calvin Coolidge, who was vice president at the time.

Coolidge easily was elected on his own after succeeding President Warren G. Harding, who died in office. The Teapot Dome investigations were carried out during the Coolidge administration but revelations didn't hurt the Republican Party at all in the next presidential elections. They came up with a "Mr. Clean" — Herbert C. Hoover.

President still strong for oil, say GOP chiefs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Construction of a proposed transAlaskan oil pipeline, currently bogged down in Congress, still has President's Nixon's strong support, according to Prpublican congressional leaders.

"We need the oil. We need it now, The only way to get it is to build the Alaska pipeline," Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott quoted Nixon as saying Wednesday during a two-hour White House meeting.

Scott also told reporters that Nixon believes construction of the nearly 800-mile-long line from Alaska's North Slope to the ice-free port of Valdez, shtuld be coupled with U.S.Canadian negotiations for a second pipeline.

Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, who also attended the meeting, said there was plenty of oil under Alaska's North Slope to justify two lines.

Tree worship started saying

The expression "knock on wood" goes back to an early form of worship when primitive man worshiped nature and, in particular, trees. So primitive man rapped on trees in order to summon up spirits that would favor whatever he planned to do.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

There are 71 land-grant colleges and universities in the United States. They were established as a result of the first Morrill act of 1862, The World Almanac says. The name land grant is applied to them because the federal government gave public lands to the states for the support of the colleges.

Voters to decide makeup of the Assembly Tuesday

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The political makeup of the Assembly will be at stake Tuesday when voters decide the fate of 28 candidates competing for three vacant seats in Southern California special elections.

Democrat Frank Vicencia hopes he will become the first lobbyist in recent history to enter the ranks of California legislators in a runoff election to fill the 38th Assembly seat in southeast Los Angeles County.

Vicencia has mounted a massive campaign — perhaps the most expensive per capita in the state's history—to defeat Republican Bob McLennan and Peace and Freedom candidate George Dear.

With big contributions from dairy interests, the veteran milk industry lobbyist spent $13.12 for every one of the 7,095 persons who voted for him in the May 1 primary in what is considered the most expensive Assembly race on record. His total spending is expected to exceed $150,000.

But his big spending has become the target of his opponents, who charge he is literally buying the seat once held by the late Assemblyman Carley Porter.

The other two elections Tuesday are primaries, one in Los Angeles and the other in San Diego. If no candidate wins a majority, runoff elections will be held June 26.

Republican William A. Craven, a San Diego county supervisor, is expected to walk away with the GOP nomination in the 80th Assembly district, formerly held by Sen. John Stull, who was elected to the state Senate earlier this year.

The district is considered a 'safe" Republican seat, and some observers say Craven may even win the seat outright even though 14 others are running. William D. Bell, an Oceanside city councilman, is viewed as the leading Democrat.

Democrat Dick Floyd, a former aide to Sen. Ralph C. Dills, is a top contender for his party's nomination for the 67th Assembly seat, left vacant by the death of Assemblyman Larry E. Townsend.

Other top Democratic candidates include Donald L. Dear, a Gardena city councilman, and David K. Hayward, a former Redondo Beach councilman. The leading Republican, according to political observers, is Paul T. Bannai, a Gardena realtor. Democrats outnumber Republicans in the district by about a 2-to-1 margin.

Reapportionment has become a central issue in the race, with many candidates blasting the Assembly for wiping out the distirct in a new redistricting plan passed and sent to the Senate recently.

The final outcome of the three races will reshuffle the political lineup in the Assembly, which now stands at 48 Democrats, 27 Republicans and five vacancies.

The first in Hall of Fame

The first five players elected to the National Baseball Hall of Fame were Tyrus Cobb, Walter Johnson, George Herman (Babe) Ruth, Christopher Mathewson and John P. (Honus) Wagner.

Arnebergh facing first real battle

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — For the first time in 20 years as city attorney, 63-year-old incumbent Roger Arnebergh has a stiff battle on his hands.

Arnebergh faces attorney Burt Pines, 34, in Tuesday's runoff after a campaign which became so bitter at times that the two candidates agreed to a nine-point "fair campaign conduct code" with provisions against making false or unverifiable charges.

Arnebergh has pointed to his youthful challenger's inexperience and charged Pines accepted campaign contributions from pornographers and persons with criminal records, all of which Pines denied.

The challenger accused Arnebergh of growing complacent in his 20 years in office and said Arnebergh "fixed" a case for a friend accused of assaulting a highway patrolman. Pines also accused Arnebergh of conflict-of-interest in a 1964 Laurel Canyon property settlement. Arnebergh has denied all of the charges.

Pines, a USC graduate who served two years as an assistant U.S. attorney before entering private practice, was a political unknown before the primary, in which he received 40 per cent of the vote to Arnebergh's 47 per cent.

He has said during the campaign that the city attorney should become more visible outside his normal duties by proposing legislation and speaking out on issues beyond the scope of his office.

Arnebergh says Pines "would suddenly become the dictator and rule the world" if he had his way. The city attorney, according to the incumbent, is primarily the city's lawyer and doesn't need any further public exposure.

The campaign practices agreement signed last month required each candidate to submit advance copies of all mailings and advertisements to the other side as well as to avoid false statements. Both sides observed the advance notice provisions but disagreed on specifically what statements were false and unverifiable.

Voters in Tuesday's election will also have five city charter amendments to vote on, including a proposal to allow the city council to call special elections to fill vacancies in elective offices.

TUESDAY, MAY 29

Your birthday today: Brings in the closing phases of preparation that directs you toward your life goals. You put aside needless burdens this year. Relationships are free and easy. Today's natives have wanderlust, constant interest in people from distant places.

AIRES (March 21-April 19): Adopt an easy schedule today — there are extras to fill all gaps. Budgets and reserve funds need conservative revisions.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Excitement is where you create it, tho this is not productive. Let friends do their own deeds in peace. You'll be glad tomorrow.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Goal changes take more than casual drift, are worth the effort. Home affairs require imagination.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): There's much to be gained by personal independence. Check out your household. Plan improvement. Work conditions ease a bit.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Routine should characterize practically all your current program. Be pleased with even slow progress

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You have basically calm working conditions, and in return you must do-it-yourself, while sharing results.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You're off dead center and merrily on your way. Test a new idea and revise it now if needed.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Select for quality, then for urgency; disencumber yourself of unneeded possessions. See life as a clear passage ahead.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Laziness and carelessness are your main temptations. It's easy to scramble things in an unthinking moment. Besides this, you may make progress.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Check out any reasonable-sounding offer. Perhaps acquaintances have ideas that balance with yours.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Home life thrives. Career-building creeps at slow pace. Associates try to talk you into an extensive scheme.

PISCES Feb. 19-March 20): Peace is a good goal — be in harmony with the environment. See that you are not the target of petty moments.

Rattles & straws

Oh to be in England!

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

I say, dash it all! The British have topped us again. Bad show.

Scandalwise we arrogant Yanks thought we had hit it rich when the Watergate 500 were caught filching from the poor box (Democratic headquarters), but all it left us with was a soap opera starring Hademans (Haldemen?), Michells, Liddys and Ehrlichmans.

When it comes to real, earth-shaking, headline-shouting government scandals, we aren't in it with England that staid and proper Mother Country, royal throne of kings, a demiparadise, demme! In a clear one-upmanship against America, the British came up with a scandal centered on something more important than a political party's campaign plans: sex.

The case brought the resignation of Lord Antony Claud Frederick Lambton, formerly Earl of Durham, Member of Parliament for Berwick-on-Tweed and Undersecretary for the Royal Air Force. Lord Lambton blushingly confided to Prime Minister Edward Heath that he (Lambton) had been sleeping with a call girl, or prostitute as call girls are called in the colonies. Rotten luck.

Lord Lambton said that the girl's husband, a leery cove as ever was, had photographed the orgies and tried unsuccessfully to sell the glossies to London newspapers. I expect he used the wrong shutter speed. Transom photography is tricky. I'd have tried f.8 at 1-25th of a second using Tri-X.

Be that as it may, the government chaps got all heated up. The Attorney General's office (the equivalent of our Attorney General's office) sent bobbies around to put the sleeve on his lordship under the Dangerous Drugs Act; Scotland Yard's "serious crimes" squad (coo!) delved into the mater, and a Labor member, rather aptly named James Wellbeloved, demanded government asurances that there had been no security leaks from l'Affaire Lambton.

"We want no Watergates here, no coverups," he warned the Conservatives.

And so the limies have stolen the spotlight again. Reminds one of 1963. In America, Mariner II had reached Venus, professional football opened a Hall of Fame, and President Kennedy dedicated the Whiskeytown Dam. Meanwhile the British came up with War Minister John Profumo's juicy carryings-on with call girl Christine Keeler, who was also playing footsie, to put it as delicately as possible, with a Soviet naval attache.

Lord Lambton's family is under a curse left over from the Crusades. An ancestor was empowered to slay a monster on condition that he kill the first living being he met after the monstrous fray. It turned out to be his own Daddy and he refused to kill him, so the family was accursed. The family mott is "Le Jour Viendra" or "The Day Will Com.e" It looks like it has at last.

U.S. okays hike in storage fees

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department has announced plans to begin paying higher fees, beginning July 1, to warehousemen who store government-owned grains.

Officials said the increases, including a boost of one-half cent per bushel in "receiving charges" for unloading grain into warehouses, were ordered because storage industry costs have increased since the last rate boost in 1971.

Firemen planning safety campaign

CLAREMONT — A fire safety survey will be conducted in June for those residents living in the area bounded by Foothill Boulevard on the north, First Street on the south, College Avenue on the east, and Indian Hill Boulevard on the west.

Local firemen will visit every home in the area to help residents recognize and eliminate fire hazards existing in and around their houses.

Letters have been mailed to 519 homes in the survey area to inform the residents that sometime between June 4 and 30 engine companies will make a house-to-house canvas.

If the resident is not home when firemen arrive, he will find fire-prevention information left at his door when he returns.

Residents can make appointments and the firemen will visit homes at the arranged time.

Asst. Chief Ken Lavoie said that firemen will be looking for indications of careless smoking, improper use of electrical facilities, flammable liquids, heating equipment rubbish and other combustibles, and fire exit drill plans.

Lavoie said that fires which have most frequently caused serious damage in Claremont are brush and grass fires, kitchen fires electrical fires, overstuffed furniture and bedding fires and fires on wood shingle roofs.

Lavoie noted that brush and grass fires are most often started by youngsters playing with matches and persons carelessly discarding cigarettes. "They're an age-old problem and the only answer is education and caution," he said.

Kitchen fires which cause the greatest danger to persons and damage to property are generally those caused by overheating of fats and oils in open pans on the kitchen range, Lavoie explained.

He said that wood shingle roofs are often set afire by sparks from fireplace chimneys. "Many persons assume there is a spark arrester in their chimney when the house is built," Lavoie said.

He explained that residents should make sure that their chimney is covered with a metal screen of no more than one-quarter-inch mesh.

Lavoie said that many old homes still have the old cotton-coated electrical wiring instead of the modern electrical conduit, and that the old wire becoming frayed may cause a fire.

Of the 131 structural fires in 1971-72, about three-fourths were houses Lavaoie said.

The inspection team will leave behind for the homeowner to put on his telephone a sticker listing the emergency numbers for fire and rescue and the police departments.

Roaring 90's theater posters on display

"Playbills of the 1890s," an exhibition of 24 large theater posters from the Library of Congress, will go on display Thursday at the Pomona Valley Center, the Eastland shopping center in West Covina, and 22 other Southern California shopping centers.

Each of the playbill reproductions has descriptive storyboard material which has been researched and written by Milton Kaplan, who has co-written such books as "Presidents on Parade," "Divided We Fought" and "The Ungentlemanly Art." He is an authority on American history.

Kaplan sought to present the attitudes and reactions to the plays during the times in which they were produced. Much of the story material contains critical reviews, written following the premieres of the plays.

The show includes such works as "Life of an Actress," "Minnie Palmer—Mile a Minute," "Hand of Destiny," "Tammy Tiger," "The Great Train Robbery," "Hoyts Black Sheep," "Shenandoah," "On the Bowery."

The doctor comments

Inducing vomiting is not a new idea

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB:—I have a friend who, after eating a moderate meal, goes to the bathroom and makes herself vomit. She tells me she feels good after this. I have tried this a few times. Would you please tell people what this would do to a person's health?

Dear Reader — I don't recommend the practice, but must acknowledge that this is not new. The ancient Romans used to do it regularly. They would eat one of their famous Roman banquets and between courses they removed themselves and emptied their stomachs, after which they would return and keep on eating.

It is one way of eliminating a number of calories that are absorbed into the body, and I suppose in that scene contributes to weight control. I am sure most people would find this practice relatively unpleasant.

Individuals who induce forceful vomiting will sometimes rupture a blood vessel in the lower part of the esophagus and have serious bleeding. After all, the act of vomiting is induced by vigorous muscular contractions of the digestive tract in a somewhat unnatural way.

The act might actually be a health benefit if a person needs to control the absorption of calories and prevent obesity. Otherwise, if the person needs the calories and the nutrients it would have the same effect as not eating enough.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I was interested in your article about abdominal exercise. I can't ("for the life of me") do sit-ups. I definitely need to strengthen my abdomen as it's very fat! Please advise what I should do.

I am 56, married with two sons, grown men, and a husband (also developing the tummy). Can you help us?

Dear Reader— Some people have such weak abdominal muscles that they can't do a simple sit-up or do a straight leg lift, raising both feet off the floor. It's hard to believe, but it is true. For individuals with this problem I suggest that they lie flat on the floor and lift one leg, keeping the knee straight, return the foot to the floor, then lift the other leg. By alternating this way you can lift one leg at a time repeatedly. Eventually you can gain enough strength to lift both heels simultaneously off the floor. When you reach that point you can do more regular leg lifts and gradually strengthen the lower abdominal muscles.

If you can't do a complete sit-up, sit up as far as you can even if this means just lifting the head up and down. After you have done that, then help yourself lift all the way up by using your elbows to cheat if you need to. After doing this long enough you will get enough strength to be able to do a genuine sit-up. Also you can do voluntary abdominal contractions by sucking your abdominal muscles in and out and tensing your abdominal muscles until you can start developing some strength that way.

Finally, I must tell you that while these things will help you improve abdominal tone, they will not get rid of the abdominal fat. The only good way to get rid of the abdominal fat is to decrease the fat storage. That means eliminating calories and improving over-all physical activity.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of the Progress-Bulletin, P. O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N. Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on losing weight, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Losing Weight" booklet.

Jim: "Experts aren't supposed to make mistakes, but they do and some are beauties. For instance: South's two clubs was artificial and forcing. North's two no-trump response showed a balanced 8-10 points with something in all suits. South might well have jumped right to six no-trump, but he had visions of a grand slam and started bidding suits. North cooperated by showing his ace of hearts and East stuck in a lead directing double."

Oswald: "West opened a heart against the diamond slam and with both the king of hearts and king of spades placed badly for him South was down one."

Jim: "I'll say this for South. He didn't complain about bad luck. He was an expert with humility and he apologized to his partner for not putting him in six no-trump where North would have been declarer and there would be no way to beat the slam."

Women talk more, researcher claims

NEW YORK (UPI)—If you say women are gabbier than men, you're not just talking through your hat, according to a researcher who has been counting their words.

The average business man speakers 11,580 words a day, but his wife speaks 12,620, Dr. Karel Munick of Prague, who is writing a book on the subject, told the National Enquirer. A waitress spoke 12,900 words a day, a policeman 10,660, a soldier 7,800, a priest 3,420 and a monk 860 words.

Fergie peps L.A., challenges Bench

Steadiest Dodger takes RBI lead with 37

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — For years it has been almost automatic that Cincinnati's Johnny Bench would be the National League's All-Star catcher.

Bench has been known as the league's premier receiver.

But the Los Angeles Dodgers have a genuine contender for the honors in big Joe Ferguson, who resembles Bench in body structure. However, Ferguson isn't even listed on the official All-Star ballots currently being distributed at Dodger Stadium.

Ferguson blasted a long home run, his 11th of the season and second in two games, into the left field pavilion Sunday afternoon to give the Los Angeles Dodgers a 2-1 victory over the New York Mets.

The blast gives Ferguson 37 runs batted in for the season to move one ahead of Bench for the National League lead.

Ferguson's homer, tight defense and Don Sutton's pitching were enough to give the Dodgers three wins in the four games against the Mets to move L.A. into third place in the National League West standings 1½ games behind first-place San Francisco.

The Dodgers will try to maintain their momentum tonight when ex-Dodger coach Danny Ozark brings his Philadelphia Phillies into town to open a three-game series.

As a team, the Dodgers are hitting .305 for the month of May but manager Walt Alston claims Ferguson's bat has been the steadiest.

"We've had hot hitters and cold hitters," Alston said, "but Ferguson has been the steady difference in the team this year."

While most hitters regard Dodger Stadium as a small airport, Ferguson says he doesn't mind the park's size.

"In the other parks, I hit down on the ball because of the Astroturf but I try to get the ball in the air here. I've hit two or three homers here that wouldn't have gone out last year before they moved the fences in. This is an ideal park for me."

Ferguson belted his solo shot in the fifth inning off of Mets', starter Jerry Koosman to give Sutton a 2-0 lead. Pinchhitter Ken Boswell made it 2-1 in the eighth but Sutton was able to get through the rest of the New York line-up to record his sixth win in nine decisions.

Sutton helped his own cause when his sacrifice fly scored Ron Cey in the second inning. Cey hit a one-out double and advanced to third when Koosman walked Willie Crawford and Bill Russell to load the bases.

In the only negative note of the day for the Dodgers, L.A. left 14 men on base.

But the Dodgers are winning anyway to jump past Cincinnati in the standings as Ferguson also leaped past Bench.

DODGER NOTES— Andy Messersmith (4-4) will face Fresno State product Dick Ruthven (1-3) tonight. Tommy John (3-2) goes against Ken Brett (3-1) Tuesday night while Cy Young Award winner Steve Carlton (5-6) faces Claude Osteen (4-3) Wednesday . . .

Sunday's paid attendance of 31,108 on a hot Sunday afternoon gave the Dodgers a four-game total of 140,947, the largest since a Giants' series in 1969. L.A. is now up to 563,271 for the season but still 150,000 behind the 1972 pace . . .

The Dodgers turned in two more double plays to raise their major league-leading total to 61. L.A. also turned in another error-free performance . . .

During May, the Dodgers have increased their batting average 33 points and have averaged 11 hits per game.

Rain causes delay of Indy 500 today

INDIANAPOLIS, Indiana UPI) — Rain delayed the start of the Indianapolis 500 mile auto race today despite the fact the drivers already were on the track and all set to go.

A light sprinkle began an hour before the scheduled 9 a.m. PDT starting time and because the track quickly became wet, officials delayed the start until the track could be dried.

In the event the race was washed out, it would be rescheduled for Tuesday.

Some 300,000 fans were expected for the 57th racing classic regardless of the morning weather. But, as in 1967, they might be obliged to sit daylong in an off and on drizzle without seeing more than a few laps turned with prize money at stake.

It rained and there were tornado warnings Saturday and Sunday and the forecast for the race day was as grim—showers likely especially in the afternoon, winds between 15 and 30 miles per hour making racing hazardous, a favorable temperature in the 60's and a 50 per cent probability of precipitation.

There was a chance the track would be dry at the scheduled starting time of 9 a.m. PDT and should the race get underway, once the leader has traveled more than 250 miles or 101 laps the race could be declared official. Should the track be wet at the scheduled starting time, there will be no racing, but officials could wait as late as 3 p.m. PDT and still figure to get in enough laps to make the event official.

If rain prevents racing today, the event will be held Tuesday on the same pattern as 1967 when the field ran 18 laps, was rained out and then completed the spectacle with A. J. Foyt winning for the third time, the only driver to finish 500 miles as a last lap accident resulted in the red flag for every other car.

Barring mishaps which could slow the pace to a required 80 m.p.h. for numerous laps, the race was expected to produce a speed much faster than the record 162.962 with which Mark Donohue won in 1972. The field of 33 cars qualified at an average speed of 192.329 m.p.h. compared to last year's average of 183.655.

In addition Johnny Rutherford, the fastest qualifier, set a single lap record of 199.071 and four laps at 198.413. The fastest lap in the race a year ago was 187.539 by Donohue, a speed which as many as half the field should exceed in the first few laps today.

For the first time since 1923 there will be five former winners in the field, Donohue, three-time winner Foyt, two-time winner Al Unser, Bobby Unser and Mario Andretti.

READY TO GO AGAIN

Claremont High's Jeff Barker, who has hurled the Wolfpack to three playoff victories, is healthy and raring to go again Wednesday afternoon against No. 1 seeded El Segundo.

Barker healthy for semis

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

CLAREMONT — It seems almost impossible for a high school pitcher to pitch back-to-back games with only two or three days' rest, especially if he throws as hard as Claremont High's Jeff Barker.

But Barker has done better than pitching just back-to-back games. He has pitched all of Claremont's last 21 innings, and did it under extreme pressure.

In those 21 innings, the San Antonio League's Player of the Year has only allowed two runs (one earned), nine hits, and has fanned 38 batters to propel the Wolfpack into the semifinals of the CIF 3-A baseball playoffs.

Some of the Claremont fans were concerned about Barker's arm, and whether it could last throughout the playoffs. Wolfpack coach Steve Lambert indicated before the playoffs started this year that he would start Barker as often as he could—provided it didn't hurt his pitching ace's arm.

So it looked as though the bulk of the load rested on Barker's shoulder and arm, and so far he has come

"I haven't had any problems with my arm or shoulder yet," assured the Claremont hurler. "I guess it's because I keep pitching and don't take any time off."

Barker was primarily a fastball pitcher for most of the season, but lately he's been working with a little variety.

"I've been also throwing a hard curve," he commented. "And my change has helped a lot."

Earlier in the season, Jeff almost abandoned the change up because some of the batters were timing the pitch. The three playoff games have proven that Barker has done something about that pitch.

"I'm controlling it a little better now," he explained. "I used to just try to get it across the plate."

The thing which has really highlighted Barker's performances in the playoff games is the number of strike outs he has accumulated.

During the regular season, Jeff didn't really build up a reputation as being a strike out ace. But lately he has been literally blowing down his opponents.

Claremont head coach Steve Lambert figured the reason was that, "Jeff throws harder under pressure."

Jeff doesn't really know why all of a sudden he has the power striking out half the batters he faces, but he does admit, "Maybe it's because I try a little harder against the tougher teams."

His trying harder has made him a serious candidate for 3-A Baseball Player of the Year.

The records show just how well Barker has done this year. Jeff went unbeaten in league with an 8-0 record, and going into the semifinals against El Segundo Wednesday, he has compiled a 15-1 seasonal mound mark.

In league play, he had a 1.02 earned run average, and it should now be below 1.00 including the non league and playoff games.

With 21 playoff innings already under his belt, Barker checks in this week healthy and ready to go another 21.

But all he really needs in 14 innings to win the CIF championship and only seven more to enter Dodger Stadium for the CIF finals on June 6.

"I'd really like to pitch at Dodger Stadium," exclaimed the Claremont hero.

'Pack travels in semifinals

For the first time in this year's CIF baseball playoffs, Claremont High will be on the road to meet No. 1 seeded El Segundo.

The Wolfpack, after hosting the first three rounds of the playoffs at Claremont-Mudd, is scheduled to battle the 3-A's top-ranked team at Recreation Park in El Segundo at 3 p.m. Wednesday afternoon in semifinal play.

Sports parade

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — They would've made a natural combination, the oldest one and the youngest in this high speed 500 field.

They had been close for a long time, and had anyone seen them sitting up there in the stands, wrapped in total concentration, the two might easily have brought to mind The Old Man and The Boy.

The late Art Pollard had many virtues, and thoroughness was one of them. If he was going to help his young friend Salt Walther, show him a thing or two about driving in the 500, he wasn't merely going to go through the motions, he was going to do it right.

"He sat with me in every one of the turns here at this track," remembers Salt Walther, a mod, curly-haired 25-year old who is driving his father's car, the Dayton-Walther Special in today's 500. "This was a year ago. Art and I made a deal. He was going to drive the car and me the boat."

Salt Walther is talking about the hydroplanes he has piloted many years with considerable success, but all those plans became unraveled when Pollard, who was 45 then, broke a leg after he already had qualified and couldn't compete in last year's 500.

Changed suddenly

Young Walther's plans also changed suddenly last year. He never had raced in the 500 before but, as back-up driver, he hopped into a car he had never handled before and qualified it. True, he qualified only 33rd, which is the last spot in the field, but so what? He was in the race, wasn't he? Not for long though. He never even completed the first lap before mechanical trouble forced him and his car out.

It wasn't the end of the year. There would be other years, there would be other races. Salt Walther, a big, friendly, outgoing kid who looks more like a high school fullback than a racecar driver, had plenty of time.

Art Pollard, it turns out, did not.

He had known Salt's father, George N. Walther Jr. for many years and had grown fond of his boy. That's why he made it a point to sit with him last year in every one of Indy's four turns, carefully pointing out to the kid where he should have his left wheel going in and out of them.

Now it was time for this year's 500, with Pollard and Salt Walther both trying to qualify on the first day, May 12.

Coast clear

"I had just pulled out," said Walther. "I was checking my mirrors making sure I wasn't in anybody's way and that the coast was clear. I took off in third gear, looked behind me and saw this car sliding. I wasn't sure who it was, but the minute I got in, they told me 'Art's had an accident.' I remember they said it's a bad one."

Shortly thereafter Salt learned Art Pollard had been killed.

"I don't feel I can go out there any more and qualify this car," he told his father, who is president of the world's largest manufacturer of cast-wheels for trucks and who has been entering cars in the 500 the past 18 years.

The elder Walther didn't push his son.

"It's up to you," he said to him. "You do what you want. I know how you feel about Art. We all feel the same way, but you see the rest of the cars running, don't you? If something happens to you, everybody will keep running too."

Salt Walther decided to try to qualify and did, with a speed of 190.739 miles per hour, a half hour after Art Pollard was killed.

"The first lap I backed off to a 189," he says. "I should have been quicker but I slowed down when I came down to where Art hit the wall. The second time, I ignored it."

Among those here for the race is O. J. Simpson, the Buffalo Bills brilliant runner, who was the NFL's stickout player this past season. Someone asked Simpson how much tougher it was competing here in the 500 than in the NFL, and he put the whole thing in perfect perspective.

"In our league," said O. J., "you make a little mistake and there's always another play. You make a little mistake here and it's your last."

San Diego Padres bought by Washington businessmen

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The National League San Diego Padres have been sold to a Washington, D.C. group of businessmen headed by Joseph Danzansky for the highest price in baseball history, owner C. Arnholt Smith revealed Sunday.

He said a letter of intent to sell the club for $12 million, some $2 million more than was paid recently for the American League New York Yankees, had been signed. The move would come at the end of the current season.

Indications the Padres would be sold had been strong since Washington lost the Senators to Texas two years. Attendance has been below the break-even point since the expansion club was formed in 1969. The Padres have finished in the Western Division cellar every year.

The sale appeared imminent late last year but just before Christmas the club announced it would remain in San Diego.

"There is only one Santa Klaus in baseball," minority owner E.J. "Buzzy" Bavasi said at the time. "And his name is C. A. Smith."

Bavasi owns 32 per cent of the Padres while Smith and his daughter, Mrs. Carol Shannon, own the remainder.

"If this is a reality," Bavasi said Sunday, "if the franchise moves to Washington, it's not an indictment of the city. I can't blame the town or the people.

"I blame the National League which forced us to pay $10 million for an expansion franchise. We'd be in good shape if we'd paid the American League expansion price (estimated at $6 million). We have shown that we can break even at an attendance of 700,000."

Attendance this year has been 249,284 for 26 dates. It was expected to dwindle to almost nothing with the seemingly untimely announcement of the sale.

Asked why he would sign a letter of intent with four months remaining, Smith said, "because the opportunity came along now. The people in Washington need time to get their deal together."

The sale does not become final until the league approves the move and the money is received.

"I'd be the happiest man in San Diego if the team were to remain here," Smith said. "But it seems unlikely. How can someone else make it work if we couldn't?"

The Padres have a 20-year lease on San Diego Stadium and it was not determined how that would be handled.

Mayor Pete Wilson was unavailable for comment and his executive assistant, Bob White, said, "I know nothing about it, nothing at all."

The players did not find out about the move until after they suffered a doubleheader loss to the Philadelphia Phillies Sunday.

Wohlhuter breaks 880 record

By RON ANGLE

LOS ANGELES — The Von's Classic track and field meet here Sunday lived up to its advance billing as a sparce crowd of 7,462 saw Rick Wohlhuter set a world record in the 880 yard run of 1:44.6.

Wolhuter's mark was just one of five Coliseum records posted in what must be considered the best meet of the year.

The University of Chicago Track Club ace bettered the 1:44.9 time set by Jim Ryun in 1966.

The running events finally grabbed the spotlight away from the field event performers which have been dominating recent meets.

World record holder Emiel Puttemans (8:13.2) of Belgium eased off in his two mile specialty to win in 8:26.6 after setting a torrid early pace. He went past the mile at 4:08.5 and won by 70 yards.

The mile run saw Marty Liquori return to his form of 1971 but still finish third. The victory went to Ken Popejoy of Michigan State in 3:58.4.

Bowling Green's Dave Wottle, the Olympic 800 champ, struggled past a clump of runners to nearly catch Popejoy, finishing a step back in 3:58.6.

Wottle's kick, which produced a 54.5 last lap, pushed him past Liquori just before the tape. Liquori's time was a tenth back, 3:58.7.

Bob Wheeler of Duke was fourth in 3:59.3.

Wohlhuter's world record was not unexpected. Two weeks ago, he ran 1:44.8 in a relay leg while anchoring his club to a world record of 7:10.4 in the two mile relay.

He was considered a top contender for an Olympic medal at Munich after running a 1:45.0 for second in the U.S. Olympic Trials behind Wottle's world record 800 meters) of 1:44.3.

But in his first heat at the Games, Wohlhuter stumbled and fell, failing to qualify.

Club West's Mark Winzenried set up the record with a blazing first lap of 52 seconds flat. At the 440, it was Winzenried, Danie Malan of South Africa and Wohlhuter.

At 550 yards Malan took the lead but could not break contact with the pack. Wohlhuter then eased around Malan on the curve for a stride lead which he maintained to the tape.

Malan was timed at 1:45.1 for second with Winzenried third in 1:48.0.

The 24-year-old former Notre Dame runner came into the meet after running a 1:48.6 relay split the previous night at the California Relays in Modesto.

"I anticipated this race after the relay split (1:44.8) earlier. The only thing that went through my mind during the race was to stay up with the pace. The others did most of the work, I just stayed in contention," he said afterward.

Other coliseum records came in the high and intermediate hurdles, the women's 880 and the shotput.

Rod Milburn of Southern University continued his almost predictable pattern of victories, erasing the former record by a tenth in 13.3 seconds.

In the 440 yard intermediate hurdles, Wes Williams showed that he intends to be the top American this year with a record 49.8 seconds, shaving the Coliseum standard of Ron Whitney by three tenths.

Williams held off frantic rushes by Jim Bolding (50.0) and Ralph Mann (50.1).

Fourteen - year - old Mary Decker, the diminutive teenage from the Blue Angels Track Club, ran the second fastest 880 ever by an American woman, 2:03.6.

Decker, and Wendy Koenig of Colorado Gold, battled throughout the final lap side by side with Decker pulling away slightly just before the tape. The 17-year-old Koenig was timed in 2:03.8 for second.

Al Feurbach started the meet off with a Coliseum record putt of 70-4¾ for his fourth 70 foot plus toss of the weekend. With a 70-1¾ mark here on his third throw, Feurbach added to his marks of 70-10 and 70-1 Saturday at Modesto.

Steve Williams, embarrassed at the California Relays where he leaned for the tape early and lost to Herb Washington, redeemed himself here winning the 100 meters in 10.3. Washington was runner-up in 10.3.

Williams then overtook USC's Don Quarrie in the 220 to win by a tenth in 20.7. He appeared unextended in both races.

Pomona 30 enjoys San Diego Journey

Pomona Post 30 found its trip to National City of further profit Sunday by winning a pair of games to increase its two-day win total to four.

The Gems started the day off by edging Linda Vista Post 741 7-5, in ten innings. Conde Rael picked up the victory, going seven innings in relief of a sore-armed Greg Ballard.

Post 30 broke a 4-4 tie in the tenth with a three run rally touched off when Will Lewallen and Keith Thomas reached base on errors. Les Christensen singled Lewallen home, and Thomas scored on Troy Baird's ground out. After Jack Devers walked, Cleve Porter singled in the third and final run.

Ballard went three-for-three despite his arm problems with a pair of RBI, and Rael doubled in one run in the ninth.

Post 30 became the home team for the nightcap with Chula Vista, and got a two-hit shutout out of Mark Lambert, 3-0.

The Game scored in the first when Jeff Corkhill reached base on an error, and proceeded home on a single by Ballard.

Pomona was issued seven walks during the game, scoring its last two runs on free passes.

While Post 30 was winning in National City, La Verne Post 330 was losing at home to City of Industry, 9-6.

Mark Willman shook Industry up, though, in the bottom of the third with a grand slam home run to score Steve Bernard, Rich Ortega, and Carl Davis.

Al Acosta doubled in the fourth inning for La Verne and scored on an error. Acosta later scored again in the sixth on Gregg Thompson's double.

Ortega went three-for-five.

La Verne meets the Pomona Kings this afternoon at Ralph Welch Park.

Walnut Macks lose to Glendora, 17-16

When Upland dropped out of local Connie Mack competition last Tuesday, Terry Murphy's Walnut C.M. squad was faced with a vacancy in its schedule for Sunday.

Walnut is wishing it could have had a shot at Upland after getting a look at the replacement.

Glendora, instead, hosted Walnut and wound up outlast- to make it last ten innings, though.

Dave Berry, finishing up for a threadbare pitching staff, was charged with the loss when Glendora scored once in the bottom of the tenth, as Steve Hall singled, and Jim Coslry drove him home with a double.

Marty Shepherd collected four hits for Walnut in seven trips to the plate, for three RBI. Randy Swatwood went three-for-three with two RBI. Bob Veselic hit safely twice in four trips for one RBI.

Bobby Salas also collected two hits in his three times at bat.

Claremont's Connie Mack program is suffering from Claremont High's rise in the CIF playoffs, and the deficiency was showing as Charter Oak dropped Claremont, 13-2 Sunday.

Fortunately for Claremont, the rules state that whenever a team is wanting for players due to a CIF commitment, the games its plays do not count.

Mike Holland hit a two run home run for Charter Oak in the first inning. Holland wound up the afternoon going two-for-five with three RBI.

Scott O'Connell contributed a triple for Charter Oak in the second inning.

Dave Aguilera doubled in the seventh for Claremont.

Mark Robertson went two-for-four in a losing cause.

Trojans take Loyola series

LOS ANGELES UPI) — Southern California, the threetime defending NCAA baseball champion, moves into the District 8 finals against Cal State Los Angeles Friday in the last qualifying for the College World Series.

The Pacific-8 champion Trojans edged Loyola in two quick games during the weekend on Daryl Arenstein's five RBIs and three-run homer Saturday in a 98 contest and Russ McQueen's seven-hitter and Arenstein's first inning sacrifice fly Sunday in a 2-1 game.

USC's successive wins eliminated WCAC titlists Loyola in the best-of-three series.

UC Irvine beats Northridge in 14

IRVINE, Calif. UPI) — Dave Lyons drove in two runs with a bases-loaded single in the 14th inning to give UC-Irvine an 8-6 victory over Cal State-Northridge Sunday to win the NCAA Far West college division regional title.

Gary Wheelock, who went all the way in Irvine's elimination of Puget Sound Saturday, came on in the eighth inning and blanked Cal State on four hits the rest of the way to pick up the victory.

Irvine, 40-12, scored after losing pitcher Ed Miller had retired 13 men in a row.

With one out, Jack Cleveland singled, Terry Stupy doubled for his third hit of the game, and an intentional walk was given to Jeff Malinoff. After a pop-out, Lyons hit a single to right to score Cleveland and Stupy.

Life Cycle clips Cougar in Hollypark feature

INGLEWOOD, Calif. UPI) — Life Cycle, a Florida-bred 4-year-old purchased for $1,400 two years ago, collected $75,000 on the investment Sunday as he raced to a mild surprise victory in the $125,000 Hollywood Invitational turf handicap at Hollywood Park.

Cougar II, thoroughbred racing's newest millionaire with a win in his last start, failed to win the Invitational for the third straight year after winning the race in 1970.

Cougar II was topweighted at 130 pounds and finished third, barely headed off for second by Wing Out.

Life Cycle, making only his second start in the West, finished a little more than a length in front of Wing Out and paid $9.20, $4.80 and $2.60. Wing Out returned $5.80 and $3.20, while Cougar II paid $2.20.

The Invitational was the middle feature of the Memorial weekend racing program at Hollywood Park, which ends today with the $100,000 Californian in which Quack heads a field of six at 1 1-16th miles.

Diamond Bar takes first in Big League

Diamond Bar charged into first place in the Pomona Valley Big League Sunday afternoon by sweeping both ends of a doubleheader with Pomona Northwest-Southwest. D.B. took the opener on its home field, 9-6, and then exploded in the nightcap for a 13-1 victory.

Two other teams recorded twinbill sweeps in the league Sunday.

San Dimas climbed into second place, beating Pomona American 9-2 and 8-3, at Simons Jr. High. Pomona National, meanwhile, evened its season record at .500 with 10-5 and 6-0 wins over Ted Greene at Pomona High.

Diamond Bar's Tracy Cowger, a Ganesha High product, continued to wield a hot bat. Cowger sparked a six run rally in the fifth inning of the first game with Pomona NW-SW that erased a 5-3 deficit with a three run home run that cleared the fence at the 330 mark.

Cowger wound up going to-for-four in the first game and went five-for-seven for the entire afternoon, scoring four times.

Dean Sickels also had an enjoyable day, getting four hits in his seven times at bat.

Fred Perez was two-for-three for NW-SW in the first game, with a double.

San Dimas got its biggest lift from Ray Martinez.

Martinez pitched a five-hit complete game victory in the opener with Pomona American, and struck around for the second game to help Dave Maloof's cause with a two-run triple in the seventh.

Martinez struck out six.

Rick Aris got San Dimas rolling in the first game by blasting a three-run home run in a first inning that eventually gave San Dimas a 6-0 lead. Rich Espinoza went two-for four and doubled during the first inning rally.

In the second game, Norm Butler aided San Dimas by going two-for-four. Maloof struck out for en route to his five hit win.

Pomona National's rise to .500 was pushed considerably by Keith Glover's second game shutout performance, and the first game batting stats of Scotty Peich and Jim Dembowski.

Glover's 6-0 win continued a string which hasn't seen him give up an earned run since donning a Pomona National uniform. He struck out five Sunday.

Peich went three-for-four in the opener and scored twice. Dembowski went two-for-three with one RBI.

In the U.S. Open

Jack eyes no. 14

ATLANTA (UPI) — That record 14th "major" golf title Jack Nicklaus has been pursuing for the past year could be only three weeks away.

That's when Nicklaus plays in the U.S. Open, and the way his game is going at present he'll be a solid favorite to repeat his 1972 victory and break his tie for the most "major" titles with the late Bobby Jones.

Nicklaus has won three U.S. Opens, four Masters, two PGAs, two British Opens and two U.S. Amateurs.

He has also won 39 other U. S. tournaments in 11½ years on the pro golf tour, including the Atlanta Golf Classic Sunday.

"My game has never been better," the 33-year-old Nicklaus said after his 16-under-par 272 beat fellow Ohio State alumnus Tom Weiskopf by two strokes.

"I feel I'm ahead of this time last year," he continued. "My main concern now is that I don't peak too soon. I like to sharpen my game going into a big tournament, not weeks ahead."

Nicklaus, who earned $30,000 Sunday to push his 1973 earnings to more than $176,000 and back to the top of the PGA money list, ahead of absent Bruce Crampton, was really sharp the first three days here.

Rounds of 67-66-66 had him just one stroke higher than the 54-hole low for this year's tour —and a fat six strokes ahead of Weiskopf.

He continued that pace through the first six holes Sunday as he built a 10-stroke lead, but then his fabled touch deserted him.

Weiskopf, who had insisted earlier that Nicklaus "can be beaten," picked up seven strokes in an eight-hole stretch but Nicklaus steadied and held on to pick up his fourth 1973 victory in just 10 starts.

Nicklaus kidded himself about his near collapse. "I made the mistake of reading the newspapers which said I had won this tournament after the first two rounds," he said. "I didn't figure I'd have to fight Tom like this, but Tom makes you fight."

Then, becoming more serious, Nicklaus said, "I started out trying to shoot as low a score as possible. But when I bogeyed three out of four holes, I figured I'd better play to win."

"My only objective was to win the golf tournament," Nicklaus continued. "When I got 10 shots ahead after six holes, I figured it was all over. But, when it got down to two, I became cautious."

Nicklaus is skipping the next tournament, at Charlotte, N.C., but will play at Philadelphia next week.

"I normally don't like to play the week before the Open," he said. "But the playing conditions at Philadelphia are so similar to Oakmont, I believe I can best get my game ready for the Open there."

Weiskopf, hurt by a double bogey at the fourth hole Sunday, finished with a 69 and a 14-under 274 to earn $17,100. Al Geiberger was third at 72-279 and J.C. Snead fourth at 68-280.

Doug Sanders also had a 68 Sunday and tied, at 281, for fifth with Hubert Green. Gary Player, playing in his first U.S. tournament of 1973 after underoing an operation back home in South Africa, was at 286 with Billy Casper.

Crampton, now $8,500 behind Nicklaus, Lee Trevino and Lanny Wadkins, who remain 3-4 on the list, and Arnold Palmer did not play at Atlanta.

It was probably just as well since Nicklaus, tough enough anytime, was too hot to handle this past week —even for Weiskopf who made a good try.

"I really think I played as well as Jack," said Weiskopf. "I just made more mistakes."

K.C. hero brings home run a game

By United Press International

Former Kansas City Manager Bob Lemon says John Mayberry is "one of the most teachable hitters I've ever seen" but American League pitchers wonder how much there's left for the Royals' slugging first baseman to learn.

Mayberry, whose 6-foot, 3-inch, 220-pound physique and fluid batting swing remind old-timers of Johnny Mize, is batting .304 and has driven in a league-leading total of 47 runs in 46 games. No AL slugger has driven in runs at a pace of one-per-game during a full season since 1949 when Ted Williams and Vern Stephens knocked in 159 each for the Boston Red Sox.

Mayberry drove in five runs with two singles and two doubles Sunday in leading the Royals to a 13-3 victory over the Red Sox in the first game of a doubleheader. He went 1-for-2 for a 5-for-6 day at the plate as the Royals bowed, 7-2, in the second game.

The Texas Rangers snapped an eight-game losing streak with a 5-2 victory over the New York Yankees in the only other AL game. Oakland at Detroit, California at Milwaukee, Baltimore at Minnesota and Cleveland at Chicago were rained out.

Mayberry, acquired from the Houston Astros after hitting .182 for them in 1971, became a star last season when he batted .298 with 25 homers and 100 runs batted in for the Royals. The Royals think the 23-year-old native of Detroit may be one of the AL's best hitters for the next 10 years.

"I have never seen a slugger of his age who had such a keen sense of the strike zone," says Lemon. "That and his willingness to learn are the two big reasons why he'll keep improving."

Mayberry had a run-scoring single in the third and two-run doubles in the fifth and sixth innings to pace the Royals in the opener. Ed Kirkpatrick capped a five-run third inning with a three-run homer and Gail Hopkins hit a two-run homer as the Royals pounded out 15 hits and dealt Luis Tiant his fifth loss.

John Curtis pitched a seven-hitter for his second win of the season in the second game. The Red Sox put together two three-run innings —Carl Yastrzemski's two-run single featuring the first and doubles by Rico Petrocelli and John Kennedy highlighting the second —to hand Steve Busby his seventh loss against three wins.

Jim Spencer and Dave Nelson hit two-run doubles in the fourth inning as Sonny Siebert won his second game for the Rangers with the relief help of Joe Gogolewski.

Jenkins holds Reds to three hits

By United Press International

Ferguson and Ferguson could turn into a supercharged battery if they ever got connected with the same unit.

Ferguson Jenkins, a pitcher with the Chicago Cubs, long has been one of baseball's premier pitchers and on Sunday he won his fifth game by allowing Cincinnati only three hits in a 6-0 Cubs victory.

On the other side of the plate there is Joe Ferguson, a Los Angeles catcher who has had lot more difficulty in sticking in the big leagues. After spending most of the last three years in the minors, however, he appears to be putting it together and on Sunday he not only hit a fifth-inning home run that gave the Dodgers a 2-1 triumph over the New York Mets, but he also took over the RBI lead in the National League with 37.

Ferguson, the hitting member of the battery, thinks that a mere five feet has made all the difference for his current success. That's the distance the fences were moved in at Dodger Stadium this year.

"This is an ideal ballpark for me now," said the 26-year-old native Californian.

"I've hit two or three home runs this year that wouldn't have gone out last year. At Dodger Stadium I try to hit the ball in the air now, although that doesn't mean this is a bandbox by any means. But in other parks I hit down on the ball because most of them have Astroturf."

The Giants kept pace by beating the Montreal Expos, 63, and in other games Sunday the St. Louis Cardinals edged the Atlanta Braves, 5-4, the Houston Astros beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6-2, and the Philadelphia Phillies swept a doubleheader from the San Diego Padres, 4-3 and 6-4.

The Cubs, in stretching their East lead to five games over New York, scored three runs in each of the seventh and ninth innings to support the strong pitching of Jenkins and register their fourth consecutive victory. Don Kessinger drove in three of the runs with a single and a triple.

Dave Rader drove in two runs with a single and an inside-the-park homer and Ron Bryant delivered two more runs with a single as San Francisco beat Montreal. Ron Bryant, now 7-3, went the distance for the Giants.

Lou Brock singled home Mike Tyson in the fifth inning with the deciding run in the Cards' triumph over Atlanta. Hank Aaron hit a two-run homer for the Braves in the first inning, the 686th of his career, and also moved into a tie with Babe Ruth for second place on the all-time extra base hit with 1,356. Stan Musial leads with 1,377.

Lee May drove in three runs for Houston with a homer, double and single and Dave Roberts limited the Pirates to five hits to stretch his record to 5-2.

Del Unser homered in the fifth inning to provide Philadelphia with its winning run in the first game and he delivered a three-run double in the fourth inning of the nightcap as the Phils swept San Diego.

Baker wins World 600 in hometown

CHARLOTTE, N.C. UPI) — It makes Buddy Baker nervous to drive before a hometown crowds—it puts the pressure on.

And to have David Pearson's Number 21 Mercury so close all he could see in the mirror was the number gave him a threat he didn't need.

But Baker stayed in front for most of the final 120 laps to win the World 600 Sunday for the second year in a row. Baker averaged 134.890 mph over the 1.5-mile banked oval, winning $25,200 in his first major victory of the season.

Pearson, pushing Baker's Dodge bumper-to-bumper down the straights and into the sweeping corners, pulled out front at the 380-lap mark when both made pit stops for gas and tires. Baker, however, got tires on the right and left while Pearson got tires only on the right and the extra traction enabled the Charlotte native to slowly pull up and pass.

Then "it was a brand new race."

After passing Pearson, who has won five of eight times out this year, "everytime I looked into the mirror there was the Number 21 —sitting dead in the mirror," Baker said.

Baker was forced into the pits while Pearson held the edge in the 243rd lap after spinning out in turn four with a cut right rear tire. His right front was also blown during the spin but the Harry Hyde pit crew had him back out quickly.

Finishing third in a Chevrolet was Cale Yarborough. Behind Yarborough in a Ford was Bobby Isaac followed by Benny Parsons in a Chevrolet.

Early leader Richard Petty finished a disappointing 13th after being forced into the pits to repair his fenders. Petty slapped the wall on the fourth turn shortly after the 400-mile mark and crumpled the right fender of his Dodge.

Baker's victory here, the first of the year for him, came in NASCAR's longest and most grueling contest.

Only half the entries were able to finish.

Baker led 219 laps of the race, which was run under caution flags for 48 laps, while Petty held the front spot for 135 laps to Pearson's 29. Petty grabbed the quick lead, nosing out Baker who won the pole before the race had gone 10 laps.

The six caution flags, however, kept Baker from breaking his own track record set during his victory last year.

S. D. State wins

SAN DIEGO UPI) — Cal State San Diego won its first NCAA volleyball championship Saturday by defeating Cal State Long Beach 11-15, 15-13, 15-8, 15-6 while Ball State of Muncie, Ind. beat Army 15-7, 15-8, for third place.

Cerritos wins state JC title

SAN MATEO — Cerritos College scored twice in the eighth inning Sunday to defeat San Mateo, 3-1, in the best of three series for the state JC baseball title.

Enroute to its third state championship, Cerritos claimed the South Coast Conference title with a 17-3 record, and then swept the Southern California Regional Tournament without a loss. The Falcons finish the year with a 38-4 record.

Chino bands to present concert

CHINO — The 76 musicians of Chino and Don Antonio Lugo high schools' concert bands will perform in the annual spring concert Thursday night at 8 at Ontario High Schoool.

The bands, directed by Kenneth Novak, will play in the Ontario High, Auditorium 901 W. Francis St. There is a $1 donation to help defray the cost of the auditorium rental.

Foothill Chorale to present concert

UPLAND — The Foothill Symphony Chorale, directed by Robert McBain, will present its final concert of the season in the Upland High School auditorium at 8 p.m. Sunday.

The concert will feature the chorale's Chamber Singers and the Redlands Brass Choir. It will install a Rodgers organ for this concert.

The concert will include new sacred anthems of the church and will feature a section of famous love songs. This will include Roger Wagner's "Black is the Color" which was performed at the 1973 inauguration ceremonies in Washington.

Mary Rawcliffe will be soloist.

The Foothill Symphony Chorale is supported in part by the City of Upland and many merchants in the area. Combined they have given hundreds of dollars.

The Chorale's performance of "Elijah" last year brought over 1,000 people. Recently the Chamber Singers presented a performance sponsored by the City of Sierra Madre. It has been broadcast several times over cable television.

McBain is presently doing independent study for his graduate degree under Dr. Howard Swan at Cal State Fullerton. He is also a contracted chorister for the Music Center and the Hollywood Bowl under Roger Wagner.

Because of the City of Upland's support and the many merchants tickets, tickets are available at a family rate of $6. Student, senior citizen and group rates are available. Tickets may be obtained from Dugan's Music, Ed Brown's Music, Ontario Music and Valentine Music.

Water tubes used to prevent floods

FRANKFURT (UPI) — Instead of sandbags, engineers in future will use plastic tubes 100 feet long and filled with water to prevent river flooding.

Engineers of the Degussa and Hoechst firms said the tubes can be used repeatedly, and can be filled in less than 15 minutes at the point they are needed simply by pumping them full of water from the river they are mean to dam. Sandbags would be needed only to seal the joints between the water tubes.

HEADING FOR THE FORUM—The Temptations, popular rhythm-rock-pop singing group, will perform at the Forum in Inglewood at 8 p.m. June 15. The quintet had its first hit record, "The Way You Do the Things You Do," in 1962. Later its "All Directions" and "Masterpiece" were gold records for million copy sales. It received a Grammy Award last year for its "Papa Was a Rollin' Stone."

Life and times of Peter Sellers

Comic movie star vows eternal love (again)

By ROBERT MUSEL
UPI Senior Editor

LONDON (UPI) — When actor Peter Sellers and Britt Eklund were divorced, he blamed it partly on her youth—17 years younger than he was.

Then he married his present wife, Miranda Quarry, who is 22 years his junior.

Now he says he loves Liza Minnelli, who is 27 while he turns 48 in September.

Why the age difference no longer seems to matter to Sellers is one of those things he will not explain.

The morning after Sellers married Miss Eklund in 1964, a cartoonist showed the Swedish beauty looking across the breakfast table at a faceless man.

Sellers' friends passed it around as a comment on the fact he has identified himself with so many different kinds of roles that he is no longer quite sure of his real self.

What he was everybody knows—a great-great grandson of the famous bare knuckle fighter, Daniel Mendoza, and a man who started his show business career as a burlesque comic, parlayed a flair for voices into fame and fortune on radio and became a film star.

Then in 1951 he married Anne Hayes, an Australian actress who bore him two children before she fell in love with an architect remodelling their penthouse. The Sellers were divorced in 1964.

Alone and lonely after the divorce, Sellers was told by a clairvoyant that he would marry a girl with the initials "B.E." He saw Britt Eklund's picture in a magazine and three weeks later they were married.

Britt bore him a daughter and Sellers and his lovely wife became members of the Princess Margaret set.

The expessions "we will not marry," "we will not breakup," "I will never marry again" are standard Sellers comments before, during and after marriage.

After his divorce from Britt in 1968 he began escorting Miranda, who is the stepdaughter of Lord Mancroft. In 1969, he stirred up a storm by admitting he smokes marijuana, but in a controlled way. In 1970, he and Miranda broke up but a few days later turned up at a registry office and were married while the bride held two pekinese dogs, Thomasina and Tabatha, during the ceremony.

His last "I'll never marry again" came only two weeks before the romance with Miss Minnelli became known. She was in London earlier in the year vowing eternal love—and marriage — with young Desi Arnaz, Jr., son of Lucille Ball.

Judy Garland's daughter said it might not have seemed like it, but her romance with Arnaz, six years younger, had been "deteriorating." Sellers said that when he said he would never marry again, he did not mean positively.

"I am going to marry her," Sellers said. "We fell in love when we first saw each other. In the meantime we would just like to get on with being together."

A divorce from Miranda must, of course, precede any marriage to Liza.

"It's just fabulous to be in love with a genius," she said. "He's my pin-up and I've been a fan of his for years. We both believe in humor, life and the good times."

Miss Minnelli also said since four was her lucky number, she did not mind being the fourth Mrs. Sellers.

C of C team finds little hope of keeping valley intact in remapping plan

SACRAMENTO — Pomona Valley advocates of a state reapportionment plan that would preserve the integrity of community boundaries would find few signs of encouragement from a visit to the state Capitol.

Fourteen civic and business leaders from the valley spent a day in Sacramento to study the workings of state government and were shown a reapportionment plan approved by the Assembly 63-12 that would carve Pomona into three districts.

One of the Assembly districts, a new one, would stretch from Bakersfield to Chino and include a small portion of northeast Pomona.

Valley representatives didn't like the plan and said so at separate meetings held with Assemblymen William H. Lancaster, R-49th Dist., of Covina, and Joseph B. Montoya, D-50th Dist., of La Puente.

Lancaster, who would gain in Republican registration from the plan, opposed it, while Montoya strongly defended it. His new district's voter registration would be about 60 per cent Democratic.

District proposal

The proposed 49th District would stretch from part of Whittier to the west, move east through La Habra Heights, Rowland Heights, Hacienda Heights, Diamond Bar and south Pomona, then continue north in a narrow strip along the San Bernardino-Los Angeles County line.

The district would run through north Pomona, Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas, Covina and West Covina.

The inner portions of Pomona would belong to the 50th District.

City Administrator Ora E. Lampman viewed the plan as being gerrymandered to protect incumbents and received a sympathetic ear from Lancaster, who noted that the decision on redistricting ultimately rested with the state Supreme Court.

Both the Assembly and Senate are trying to come up with plans that will satisfy the court.

Lancaster said he did not know what would happen to the Assembly plan. He raised the possibility of the Assembly and Senate settling on a compromise version.

Through a resolution passed in February, the Pomona City Council took the position that reapportionment should be handled by the high court instead of by the state legislature.

"The State Legislature has completely disregarded the interest of the citizens of the state in establishing legislative districts in favor of purely political considerations, thereby making reapportionment not beneficial to the citizens of California," the resolution stated.

Defends plan

But Montoya defended the Assembly plan as creating districts that would pair legislators with constituents of like political views.

He said state gerrymandering was no different than practices carried out by county and city officials, adding that the Assembly plan did more to protect political boundaries than past proposals.

Lancaster briefed the group of visitors on legislation affecting the Pomona Valley area and on other issues.

He spoke optimistically about the governor signing a special bill that would transfer state-owned property at Pacific State Hospital for use by Pomona as a fire station site, spoke about efforts to provide the hospital with air-conditioning and get approval for a new science building at Cal Poly.

Lancaster also briefed the visitors on the condemnation of the stately Capitol building as not meeting earthquake standards and said that the state legislature and not yet decided what to do about this.

The Pomona Valley delegation also met with officials from the California Chamber of Commerce, including George Sawyer, general program manager, and Dave Schmidt, director of the economic development and research department. Schmidt formerly worked for the Pomona chamber.

State chamber officials briefed the visitors on a number of major issues, including the energy crisis and pollution.

Lancaster and Montoya also attended a Pomona chamber luncheon where Mike Goodson, special assistant to Gov. Ronald Reagan, was the principal speaker.

The valley group included Delbert Pfiefer, Harold Barnett, Fred Mack Jr., Bob Lewis, Stephen Morgan, Brent Hunter, Bernie Ousley, Lampman, Phil Shepherd, Bill Jaep, Grenville Whyte, Ted Rust and David Ormiston.

Lancaster complimented the Pomona chamber for its annual Day in Sacramento program to permit residents to become acquainted with the workings of state government.

Lancaster said he hoped a similar program could be worked out for youths.

CAPITOL VISITORS

Student in job program trapped by federal cutback

Until graduating in March, I was a participant in a federally funded program, Project SPAN, which operates at Cal Poly.

To attend this six-month training program, it was necessary to move to the Pomona area from my home in Alameda County.

As part of the training connected with this program, I worked every afternoon at an office of the Los Angeles County Probation Department. For this work (counseling adolescent offenders), I was supposed to receive $120 per month under a work-study program sponsored and administered jointly by Cal Poly and SPAN. During the final 2½ months of this period, I received no pay for my work at the probation department. The SPAN program director explained that delay in collecting my wages was caused by an administrative funding foul-up and that the money would soon be available. On this assurance I continued working.

It is now over two weeks since I have finished the SPAN program and the money has not been paid. I had counted on this salary—an amount of $300—as a means of returning to Oakland. Instead I have been forced to apply for welfare and have unwillingly become a drain upon the county. Can you assist me in collecting my due wages and thus avoid this? —J.B., Pomona.

Dr. James Bell, vice president of Cal Poly for administration and student affairs, answered Action Line's questions about your letter and sent a copy of a memo he received from T. R. Nissen, SPAN project director.

Nissen wrote that your class for the first quarter of training received Educational Opportunity Grant money.

"Due to a termination of EOG money, I requested Washinton to transfer from my stipend account to the work student account," he wrote in part. "The trainees were told that the money would only be given if Washington allowed this financial move. Washington did not allow this move. They only agreed to increasing the stipend which was in lieu of a work study program as of April 2, 1973."

He said you and the rest of the trainees were continually made aware of the program's financial situation. You were given an opportunity to obtain employment to supplement your income but chose to apply for welfare, he added. "Most of our trainees did go out and get some form of work. A loan was set up through the California Department of Corrections to cover those trainees in financial need."

Currently, Nissen said, "our stipends are $625 for the first quarter of training and $750 for the second quarter of training and this increase in stipend was given by Washington to pay for the 15 to 20 hours per week in an internship program."

Regarding the letter from P. L. S. in Pomona as to how parts of the body can be donated after death, there is an organization called The Living Bank.

The Living Bank, is a nationwide, nonprofit organization which has been in operation for about five years. It acts as a clearing house for those wishing to donate their organs after death.

Its address is The Living Bank, P.O. Box 6725, Houston, Tex. 77005. It will send, free of charge, information about the organization, donation forms and a uniform donor card, which is carried on the person at all times. In the event of the donor's death, authorities are notified through the bank's central office. —D. N., Claremont.

We are grateful to you for giving this information to Action Line readers. Another reader telephoned regarding a willed body program at Loma Linda University. We learned, however, that the program at Loma Linda has been closed since 1967 and inquiries about donating parts of the body are referred to The Living Bank.

Guard fires at car lot burglars

ONTARIO — A security guard at Citrus Motors, 835 W. Holt Blvd. fired four shots at two burglars fleeing the car lot in a stolen van Sunday night.

The two burglars were seen by security guard Robert Kallas about 11:03 p.m. after they broke into the car lot office. Kallas told police he and his partner, Robert A. Harris, yelled at the two men to halt. Instead, the two men jumped into a yellow van and drove out of the garage adjoining the office and tried to run down Kallas.

Kallas said he drew his service pistol and fired four shots at the fleeing vehicle. The two guards got into their car and tried to pursue the stolen vehicle but soon lost it.

Police said about 11:30 p.m. a woman called from 729 W. Nevada St. to report that a number of men were trying to hold two other men, suspected of stealing a van truck, outside her home. The woman told police that the suspected stolen van had bullet holes in it.

On arrival at the Nevada Street address police found the van had been abandoned and two men had escaped. Police said that the two men had broken away from neighborhood residents, running different directions.

Police, examining the stolen van, said they found a bullet had punctured the truck's gasoline tank and another bullet had lodged in the locking device on the right rear door. Seventeen new tires and a tool box were found in the back of the van.

Police this morning said they were still trying to locate the two suspected burglars, both described as male Caucasians.

West End deputies report kidnap of two girls, rape

ALTA LOMA — A long-haired man kidnaped two West End girls at knifepoint early Sunday morning and forced them to drive to an isolated area near here where he raped one when the other ran for help.

West End sheriff's deputies said this morning that the two girls, one 16 and the other 17, were parked in the parking lot of a restaurant at Euclid Avenue and G Street in Ontario about 12:38 a.m. when the man approached their car. The man displayed a serrated butcher knife and ordered the girls to drive him to an isolated area near Haven Avenue and Base Line Road, deputies said.

The man attacked the 17-year-old girl but the 16-year-old girl managed to escape and run to a home where she called sheriff's deputies.

Deputies said the man is described as a Caucasian, 5 feet 9 to 5 feet 10, with long blond shoulder length hair parted in the middle. The girls said the man was wearing a button-down short sleeve print shirt and dark corduroy pants. He has a broken nose and was barefooted, deputies said.

The girls said the man used "hippie" talk.

Hasty flight from robbery traps three in wrecked car

LA PUENTE — Three suspects were arrested in their wrecked car Sunday, only a few minutes after a robbery of the 7-11 Market at 16210 Main St. A fourth was seized two hours later at a hospital.

The holdup was shortly after 4:30 a.m. Clerk Danny Mills, 22, was knocked down and kicked by one of four young men who then took cash from the register and a six-pack of beer.

In their haste to get away, the robbers' car went out of control and hit a palm tree nearby at Stimson Avenue and Main Street, sheriff's deputies said. Three of the suspects were seized there by arriving deputies.

At 6:30 a.m., deputies arrested the fourth man at Doctor's Hospital where he was attempting to get aid for injuries believed suffered in the accident. All were booked on suspicion of robbery.

The suspects are Jose Nieto, 21, and his brother, George, 18, both of La Puente, and two juvenile youths. Most of the money taken in the holdup was recovered, deputies said. All four were treated for minor injuries before being jailed.

Pomona briefs

Wentz suggests goals for schools

POMONA — A school can be rated by three criteria—a pleasant atmosphere in which every child feels valued and successful, an interested and enthusiastic faculty, and a responsive program designed to respond to each child's individual needs.

So said Pomona Supt. Robert E. Wentz when he spoke at the dedication services for the opening of a new school in Mishawaka, Ind., last week. Wentz was the former superintendent of the district in which the new school is located.

His suggested criteria, he noted in his address, are those established by Mrs. Charles Silberman, wife of the educator-author of "Crisis in the Classroom." He said he heartily concurs with the three goals.

Educators are on the threshhold of "an exciting new experience" because they are just now "scratching the surface" of the open-space, individualized education concept, he told his former Indiana colleagues.

Opinion

A view from the hilltop

There are towns which have been built in valleys with large hills towering over them. On warm, sunny days such heights are made for contemplation.

As the solitary viewer traces the town and its geographic features, a feeling of great peace can descend.

From this distance, man's habitations and his works seem well-ordered.

The rectangles of the blocks of houses are like pigeonholes ready for the storage of life's meanings.

The rivers and the streets seem to fit the contours of the land and if they do not it would appear simple to make this slight rearrangement or that bit of altering to gain complete symmetry.

On these heights it is hard to reconcile the existence of wars. It is only when you are back in the narrower confines of the city's streets, marching with the masses of humanity, that wars become a reality again.

At times, history seems little but a recital of wars past. There are philosophers who argue, in fact, that war is as "normal" as peace.

Memorial Day, of course, is a day set aside to bow a moment over the war dead of the past. It has grown to encompass all those who made the supreme sacrifice. Our national emblem flies over their graves and they are decorated with blooms. A rifle volley rips out and the lonely voice of a bugle sounds "Taps."

They are remembered, we tell the war dead. And again we renew our promise that they will not have died in vain and that we are doing our puny best to prevent others from sharing their fate.

We look about us and see much of the world in turmoil, despite all the efforts of the past three decades to replace international strife with a just world order. Despite continuing challenges and occasional setbacks, world leadership remains in our hands. But leadership has its price, and we can be sure that, having surmounted present challenges, yet others await us over the horizon.

On that hilltop, conflict seemed remote. Down here, we know it is all too real and immediate. The challenge is continuing, and our response must be strength — of spirit and moral fiber as well as in arms. In this fashion, must we keep faith with ourselves and those Americans we honor.

Deafness leads all handicaps

Defective hearing is the nation's leading handicapping disability. Neither poor vision, heart disease, arthritis or any other impairment affects as many people.

A nationwide effort is now under way to reach those millions who have a hearing loss but who, for a variety of reasons, including procrastination, unawareness, vanity or simply not knowing what to do, have not sought the proper attention that could correct or reduce their disability.

The magnitude of the problem is startling.

According to James P. Ince, executive secretary of the Hearing Aid Industry Conference, some 19 million persons in the United States, including about 3.5 million school-age children, have substantial hearing defects.

More than 90 per cent of these disabling hearing losses could be significantly improved by medicine, surgery or amplification, says Ince.

An estimated 7 to 9 per cent of the U.S. population, mostly over age 60, needs hearing aids. Yet the sad fact is that only about 2.5 million persons today wear them.

Even among the hard of hearing who know of their impairment, many don't think anything can or should be done about it. Many have never been to a physician about their hearing, usually because the disability comes on gradually and without pain.

Persons with hearing problems are urged to consult a medical doctor, preferably an otologist or otolaryngologist. Depending on the type of problem, the doctor will either advise medical treatment or surgery or recommend a reliable hearing aid dealer.

Aid, comfort

One POW was convinced that he should meet a delegation of U.S. peace activists in North Vietnam by being forced to stand on a chair with his broken arm tied to a ceiling beam, and having the chair kicked out from under him repeatedly.

Said another, "Our morale was definitely lowered by Americans visiting North Vietnam. It is my opinion the only people they let in that country were Communists or Communist sympathizers."

Still another was hit repeatedly when he refused to agree to tell a Women's Strike for Peace group that U.S. bombs were being aimed at civilian targets.

A fourth repeated that such visiting delegations "definitely had a demoralizing effect on us."

The fifth reported that while groups were visiting Hanoi "many of us were heavily threatened, some of us were tortured as a result of their statements."

All this from testimony before the House Internal Security Committee.

Familiar names were named. Fonda, Clark, et al. Aid and comfort to the enemy, but precious little to fellow Americans. "Liars" was the word used for them.

The dapper duffer from Salinas

WASHINGTON — Representative Burt Talcott, the dapper duffer from California's salad bowl, was offended by our story that he had wangled prizes from lobbyists for a congressional golf match. "I think I have been maliciously maligned," he wailed.

He told his home town paper, the Salinas Californian, indignantly that he "did not solicit a single gift or prize or award, nor did I ask anyone else to." As for his own winnings, he said, all he could recall bringing home from the golf tourney were three Arnold Palmer golf balls and a Sears-Roebuck cap.

Talcott is a proper Republican who looks upon himself as the conscience of Congress. He is given to lecturing his colleagues on their improprieties. "The greatness of this body is inexorably eroded and degraded," he once scolded, "by violations of decorum . . . and practices offensive to our constituents."

But golf is Talcott's weakness and his denial of gift-gathering may be his Watergate. We invite him to check his own files. He should find an Aug. 10, 1972, memo he wrote to fellow congressmen.

As chairman of the golf tournament, he urged: "If you have constituents who would like to advertise a product by offering an appropriate 'tee prize' or award, please let the committee know soon."

He also encouraged his prize committee to bring pressure upon lobbyists to cough up suitable golfing awards. If he will look through his files carefully, he should find this enthusiastic note from Rep. Wiley Mayne, R-Iowa:

"Following our meeting on Tuesday," wrote Mayne, "I talked with Cartha 'Deke' DeLoach, who is now an executive with Pepsi Cola, owners of Wilson Sporting Goods. He very graciously offered to give us five golf bags and an unspecified number of Wilson golf balls. . . ." At the bottom of the letter, Mayne scrawled: "P.S. Perhaps you may wish to head off other sources of golf bags."

Talcott's correspondence also includes an exchange with Rep. Bill Dickinson, R-Ala., who came up with some gifts. "Dear Bill," wrote the grateful Talcott, "This will acknowledge receipt today from your office of eleven windbreakers from the Russell Company . . . .Please convey our thanks to the manufacturer."

If Talcott's memory still needs prodding, he may find a memo in his files from independent telephone lobbyist Tom Howarth reporting on gift solicitations. The lobbyist happily informed Talcott that prizes had been promised by Aerojet-General, the American Cattleman's Association and North American Rockwell.

Nor was the solon from Salinas altogether frank about his share of the plunder. After we confronted him with the facts, he conceded that he had brought home somewhat more than three golf balls and a Sears-Roebuck cap. His takings also included an expensive lounging chair, fancy shoes, tee cleaners, a flashlight, candy bars and associated other goodies.

Oh yes, those fancy windbreakers, which the Russell Company contributed, were never awarded as prizes. Instead, they were brought quietly back to his office where they were distributed to his staff members.

Nixon-like, Talcott accepted the responsibility but blamed his staff. The staff had passed out the windbreakers, he said, without his authority.

Talcott's statements challenging our accuracy, meanwhile, might be called "inoperative."

Footnote: Talcott claimed that we listened to only one disgruntled employe. This is also untrue. Talcott's office turnover is legendary and even his present staff is riven with discord.

PAUL HARVEY

Windmill yet to be discovered

If you resent historians sticking pins in your heroes, so do I.

Some chap has been selling books recently with what purports to be an expose of what really happened on Paul Revere's ride. The suggestion is that he was drunk and late and most of the men he alerted were away from their own beds visiting girlfriends. It seems a cowardly device when none of those guys is around to defend himself.

But where inventions have been attributed to the wrong parents they are illegitimate and researchers may be misled. Robert Fulton did not, in fact, invent the steamboat. It was not Christopher Columbus who proved the earth to be round. It was not Ben Franklin who discovered electricity and Henry Ford was not the first to practice mass production.

A chap named John Fitch completed several passenger-carrying steamboat runs on the Delaware River 19 years before Fulton.

I re-recite and correct these fictions only to justify my own conclusion that "the windmill has not yet been discovered."

The ancestry of the windmill which pumped the water that nourished the American West can be traced backward from the Holland Dutch to millwrights of the seventh century, perhaps beyond.

Yet, I insist it hasn't really been "discovered" yet.

First the steam engine came along to outproduce the windmill. Then electricity, particularly rural electrification, in the 1930s.

But now that engines pollute and electricity is becoming prohibitively costly, one American company, Heller-Aller, sold 650 windmills last year. But again, the windmill has not yet been discovered.

An imaginative engineer named Peter Harper of England recently received a grant from the United Nations for development of an alternative power source. He envisions giant versions of the old fan-bladed windmill—huge but graceful—capable of using the wind when it's blowing to charge huge storage batteries for use when it's not blowing; thus to power whole industries, whole communities with no pollution.

Will Peter Harper be remembered by historians as the man who "invented" the windmill?

Or will Canadians Raj Rangi and Peter South get the credit? Members of Canada's National Research Council, Rangi and South have access to wind-tunnel research facilities and they have there developed a windmill without a big fan—a high-speed turbine machine which rotates on a vertical axis. Mechanical energy thus produced may be used for irrigation or other water pumping. Or it may be converted into electrical power.

Being vertical, whichever way the wind blows this thing revolves "without turning about." And the blade tip exceeds the wind speed by six times thus their 15-foot diameter turbine prototype can convert a 15-mile wind to 1.2 horsepower or .9 kilowatt.

Out of the world's present need for cleaner, less expensive power, will come ideas for harnessing tides, for harnessing the sun and the wind.

Each is an ancient idea which awaits the somebody with the vision to discover it.

All-Year School

Very soon your hard-earned tax dollars are going to be used to buy a very large pig in a poke. This unseen commodity will be described as the greatest educational innovation in the last 100 years. It will brighten up your children, make full use of the facilities and save you money (in the long run). Beware of the parenthesis!

As a teacher in the Chino District, I became suddenly aware of the All-Year School when it was six months away from implementation. Questions began to rapidly form in my mind as it became very clear that in a year's time the whole district would be involved in All-Year School. How long had the planning (obviously in secret) been going on? Who was involved in the planning? What curriculum changes were made and who made them? What kind of preliminary surveys were taken to determine the need?

Why weren't the needs assessments published for public approval? Why weren't the taxpayers polled to see if they were in favor of a complete change in the educational system they pay for? Whey weren't all of the teachers of the district involved in the planning or even told that planning was in progress? And, most important, why rush into total district involvement with a half-developed program, untrained teachers, undeveloped curriculum for an unknown reason which will cost hundreds of thousands of dollars more (in the first five years).

It doesn't make sense for a school board to cry poverty for many years and curtail instructions by cutting down on textbooks, supplies, bussing, teachers, and capital outlay and then suddenly embark on a very costly educational venture that has a good chance of failing both educationally and financially—all of this without polling the taxpayer who foots the bills. Who will be asked, through tax overrides and bond elections, to bail out our schools if this fails?

Possibly the All-Year School will work and possibly it is a boon to education! If so, it then deserves to be well planned over a period of at least three year. The teachers deserve to be told what the over-all objectives in this system entail and their ideas and skills should be utilized in the planning.

The public should be asked if they want this type of system. As we are about to open our pilot-program schools, most of the people of Chino are not sure "just what an all-year school is," they should because their money is paying for it. —Loren Shryer.

Gossip for today

Thanks to science and research, it now begins to look as though the millennium, that hoped-for period of joy, serenity, prosperity and justice which was foretold in Revelations, is about to arrive. I refer to such great discoveries as penicillin and Dr. Salk's outstanding medical accomplishment which virtually eradicated the dread scorge of poliomyelitis. And now comes an announcement of another great scientific break-through which should make life truly ecstatic for millions of sufferers throughout the world.

A dentist at the University of Southern California states that it is now possible for people to have teeth, which are made of vitreous carbon, implanted in their jawbones. Thus they will be able to do away forever with dentures and upper plate wobble.

INSIDE REPORT

Watergate muck perils Kissinger

By ROWLAND EVANS
AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — When the FBI last week revealed the existence of 17 or more telephone taps to uncover national security leaks, Dr. Henry Kissinger's aides suspected one of those taps was on Kissinger's own phone—reflecting the morbid suspicions between Kissinger's National Security Council (NSC) staff and the Haldeman-Ehrlichman palace guard.

In fact, Kissinger's White House telephone was spared an FBI tap, at least in that particular phase of the running investigations by the FBI and other federal investigators of the NSC staff, ordered by the suspicious Ehrlichman-Haldeman "Berlin wall."

Whether Kissinger's telephone was spared in all other probes of the NSC is still not absolutely certain. In mid-1971 domestic policy chief John Ehrlichman was ordered by President Nixon to take control from the FBI of a complete new probe of leaked military and foreign policy secrets regarded by both Mr. Nixon and Kissinger as dangerous to national security. At that point, Ehrlichman launched a second secret investigation of Kissinger's NSC—without asking Kissinger's approval.

Ehrlichman's second probe, moreover, was completed and filed without Kissinger being informed what, if anything, turned up.

Staff under surveillance

In addition, there are unproved indications that members of Kissinger's staff were under occasional secret surveillance from non-civilians in the Pentagon security apparatus.

In the public mind, these security probes of Kissinger's staff — and perhaps Kissinger himself—have falsely linked Kissinger to the Watergate scandal. In his latest statement issued Tuesday night, President Nixon sought to break this linkage.

One clear reason for this presidential statement: growing speculation that Kissinger, Mr. Nixon's prize exhibit throughout his White House tenure, might simply resign as public opinion unfairly dragged him ever closer to the Watergate disgrace.

The relationship between the Kissinger operation, on the one hand, and the Berlin wall of Ehrlichman and chief of staff H. R. (Bob) Haldeman on the other was always strained, distant and suspicious. As we have reported, Haldeman denied Kissinger aides normal White House perquisites, such as access to the White House mess and transportation.

Beyond that, Kissinger and his staff were regarded as virtual enemies by the crewcut bully boys manning the Haldeman-Ehrlichman offices.

Powerful ties outside

The reasons are obvious. Kissinger was the only top White House aide with powerful ties outside the White House, both to Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York and to Eastern establishment intellectuals. The direct reason for the repeated security probes was Kissinger's deliberate selection of some Kennedy-Johnson holdovers for the NSC staff, including liberal intellectuals who had difficulty getting maximum security clearances long before Mr. Nixon became President.

Added to this was Kissinger's love of the spotlight—and the spotlight's love of him—and the fact that he, not Haldeman or Ehrlichman, shared Time's 1972 man of the year award with Mr. Nixon.

Thus, besides a genuine desire to cork security leaks, Kissinger acquiesced in wire taps on his own staff because he felt highly vulnerable to repeated Ehrlichman-Haldeman slurs that his staff was responsible for the leaks. Neverthless, these security probes grew so onerous in 1971 that intimates say he considered quitting.

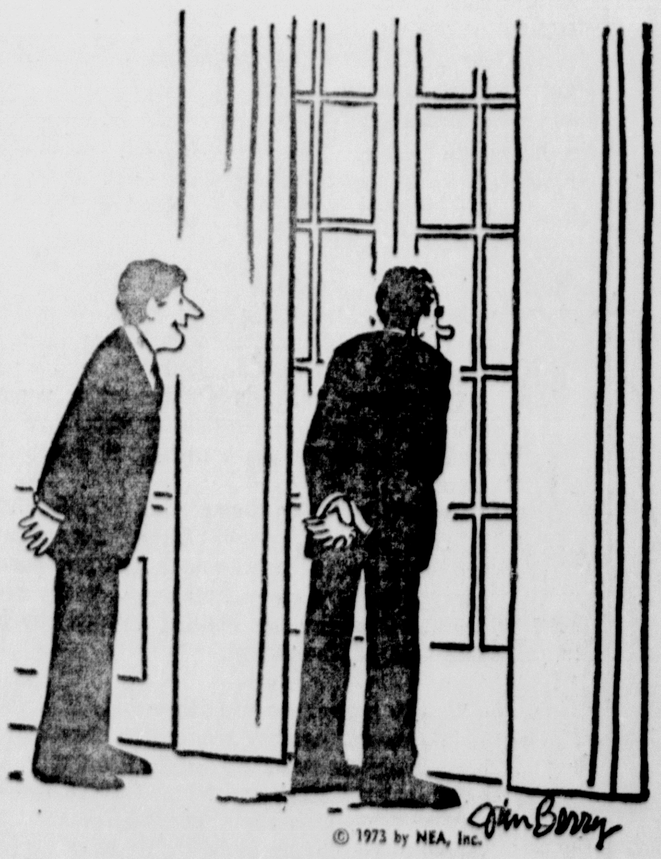
Loses intellectual support

His dilemma now is far greater. Having lost the support of the liberal intellectuals who attack him today with indecent relish, he has no intention of trying to exonerate himself by a public proclamation of innocence. That, say Kissinger intimates, would indicate a sense of guilt he does not feel.

Kissinger could and did defend his suspect liberal aides, particularly Morton Halperin, whose nine-month stint as a top Kissinger aide ended in September 1969. But he may have too much pride to publicly defend himself.

The irony is painful. Kissinger, collaborator with the President in most of what is fruitful and valuable in the Nixon administration, is being smeared with the muck of Watergate, an affair with which he had no connection. If he should now reach the point where he loses his effectiveness, or decides to quit, Watergate will have devoured its first innocent victim.

Berry's world



". . . on the brighter side—this Watergate mess is swell material for a sequel to your 'crises' book!"

Army offers $2,500 as enlistment bonus

MONTCLAIR — The U.S. Army is offering two new enlistment options for service in the regular Army that pay cash bonus is of $2,500 for a four-year enlistment, Recruiting Sgt. Joaquin S. Bernardo reported.

Under the cash bonus enlistment option, young men without previous service may volunteer for artillery, armor or infantry. The offer also applies to former servicemen if they have served less than three years and have been out of service more than three months.

The bonus is payable upon successful completion of basic combat training, advanced individual training and the award of a military occupational specialty which certifies the soldier is qualified to perform in his military job.

Requirements for enlistment under the training and cash enlistment option are identical to those for the other program.

This option, however, seeks to meet Army needs for a variety of technical skills including many in communication, missiles, radar and electronics and nuclear weapons.

Prospective enlistees must meet normal mental, physical and moral standards for enlistment and must be high school graduates. Those still in school may apply before they graduate if school officials certify they will graduate at the end of the school term.

Sgt. Bernardo may be contacted at his office at 10665 S. Mills St. or by phoning 621-4219.

Upland dramatists to stage Chekhov plays

UPLAND — The Upland High School drama department's spring production will be a group of four one-act comedies by Anton Chekhov.

The four plays to be presented are "The Anniversary," "The Marriage Proposal," "The Harmful Effects of Smoking" and "The Boor." The performances will start at 7:30 p.m. each evening, Wednesday through Saturday in the Upland High School Auditorium.

This production marks the end of 2½ years of dormancy for the Upland drama department, according to this year's dirtctor, Hardin Brothers.

"If this production is successful, we will schedule a full season of four major productions next year," he said.

The Chekhov plays are the second production this year of Upland's performance group, which calls itself the Upland Repertory Theatre. However, the first production, a series of modern American one-act plays, was presented to classes only.

"Our group has viewed this year as a time to rebuild a tradition of drama at Upland.

"We believe we are building enough interest in drama here to produce the type and number of plays each year that the student body and community want. Our major problem now is to let people know that once again good drama exists at Upland."

For further information, persons may contact Brothers at 982-1391, ext. 252, during school hours.

Earnings improve for Kaiser Steel Corp.

FONTANA — The Kaiser Steel Corp. has reported first quarter earnings of $2,629,000 on sales of $134,123,000.

This amounts to earnings of 34 cents per common share after provision for payment of preferred dividends.

During the same 1972 quarter, in which a 44-day strike occurred at the Fontana mill, the corporation lost $9,933,000 on sales of $71,811,000 or $1.50 per common share after provision for payment of preferred dividends.

"Improved demand for domestic steel, and a marked pickup in export markets in recent months, together with excellent cost performance throughout the corporation accounted for the first quater earnings improvement," said Jack J. Carlson, president and chief executive officer.

"Shipments to the U.S. market were at an excellent level throughout the quarter and many of our individual product facilities are quoting lead times which run well into the second and third quarters."

Carlson said that imported steel continued to flow into the seven western states at a record rate during the early weeks of the quarter, but it is hoped it will slacken under pressure from the recent devaluation of the dollar and improving demand elsewhere.

New bus service links Upland, S.B.

SAN BERNARDINO — The San Bernardino interim transit bus system has been extended to Upland and Yucaipa.

Three trips will be made daily to both cities, stopping at 11th street and San Bernardino Road in Upland at 8 a.m., noon and 4 p.m., and Yucaipa at 9:45 a.m., 1:45 and 5:45 p.m.

The cost between Upland and San Bernardino will be 85 cents, and Upland and Yucaipa, $1.25. Passengers will be able to make connections with Southern California Rapid Transit District (RTD) buses in Upland for transportation to the Los Angeles area.

The San Bernardino transit system began April 9 between Fontana and Redlands after RTD discontinued its route east of Archibald Avenue. The county Board of Supervisors had denied an RTD request for subsidy from the county's revenue on gasoline sales taxes.

The new service is an expansion of the San Bernardino Municipal Transit System, which provides hourly service to Fontana, Rialto, San Bernardino, Loma Linda and Redlands.

The first bus leaves San Bernardino at 5:30 a.m., with the last bus returning at 7:30 p.m.

The county is funding the program from its gasoline sales tax revenues, assisted by cities being served.

During a 90 day trial system, studies are being conducted and various alternatives are being considered for establishment of a permanent service.

It is not the best car of its kind in the world.
It is the only car of its kind in the world.
$16,594*

NOW ISSUING from the Mercedes-Benz works is the 450SLC Coupe, a remarkable car even by Mercedes-Benz standards.

It is not a shrunken luxury car. It is not a stretched sports car. It is a four-passenger "personal" car designed for the serious driver.

Too big and comfortable to be a sports car, too agile and responsive not to be—the 450SLC is tuned to the perfection of a Stradivarius.
—Autoweek Magazine

Pleasures like the smell of real leather and the click of push buttons abound, of course. But they are mere icing on the cake. This car's prime appeal is to the man who loves fine machines and the art of driving.

3,765 precisely balanced pounds

The 450SLC weighs almost 2 tons. How can it be spirited through the mountains like a sports car?

"The 450SLC's secret is a simple one," states Autoweek, "but the result of endless hours of labor." In brief, relentlessly thorough engineering.

You ride on a fully independent suspension, aided by front and rear anti-sway bars and gas-filled shock absorbers.

Yet impressive as they are, these raw technical facts cannot entirely explain the genius of the 450SLC. That Autoweek writer looks deeper for the answer.

Driving this car, he claims, "gives you the feeling that the engineers tried every possible combination of 100 spring rates, 100 anti-roll bars and 1000 bump and rebound valve settings in the shock absorbers—then rebuilt the car and tried them all again, 100 times with different engine mounts."

A reassuring feeling indeed.

4.5 litre V-8

The 450SLC draws its power from an overhead-camshaft V-8 engine of 4.5 litres displacement. This ranks as one of the largest engines yet fitted to a production Mercedes-Benz.

You control a 3-speed automatic transmission built to shift as fast as a manual gearbox, but smoother. Leave the padded, floor-mounted lever in Drive position and forget shifting entirely—or click through the gears, manual style. The choice is yours.

Caliper-type disc brake at every wheel

The engineers felt the disc/drum brake arrangement used on most "personal" cars unworthy of the 450SLC. You stop with a system of 4-wheel disc brakes linked to a power assist.

Note that the front discs are ventilated for cooling.

Built into each wheel is a ring of turbo blades, designed to scoop a steady stream of air into the brake discs as the car speeds along.

Snakes through traffic

Your 450SLC will thrive in tight urban traffic as it does on the open road; it's an agile car. You ride on a generous 111-inch wheelbase but whip through a full turning circle in 37.9 feet. (Turning circle of the Cadillac Eldorado: 46.8 feet.)

V-8 engine is electronically fuel-injected

Rear seats are roomy—and that is real leather

An eminent motoring commentator reacted this way to the 450SLC's driving environment.

"I have had the opportunity to examine and sit in the Apollo 12 and 14 space capsules. They give me the same feeling."

You will find the instrument panel well padded, logically planned, and devoid of gimmicks.

The seats may make you wonder why all cars can't be this comfortable. One invisible plus: hand-tied coil springs. One visible plus: hand-fitted leather upholstery.

Even the built-in air-conditioning system is extraordinary. Hidden ducts run into the interiors of the doors, to cool or heat them as you wish.

You can make this car secure with one turn of the key in the driver's-side door. This simple movement activates a vacuum-operated system that silently locks both doors, the trunk lid and the gas port. To unlock, turn the key again.

Hidden virtue: capacious luggage space

Logical cockpit design: function, not gimmicks

Other standard amenities include electric windows, tinted glass, power steering, and an AM/FM stereo receiver.

Be sure to explore the rear seat area of the 450SLC. If you have been exasperated before by so-called "4-seaters" that were not, you will be reassured; there is space there for adults

Function over ornament

Run a finger along the windshield pillar trim: you will feel a vane of stainless steel. Like a mini-gutter, it is there to deflect rain, slush and mud that would normally stream over your side windows in foul-weather driving.

Those ribbed taillight lenses come from the wind tunnel, not the styling studio. Their curious corrugated surface is intended to repel the buildup of mud and slush—keeping the taillights visible to the traffic behind.

Flip open the glove box and you will find a removable flashlight, charged by the car's own electrical system. Handy for map reading, etc.

Your 450SLC is delivered with such a full complement of equipment that the options list is brief and simple. An electric sliding sunroof, forged-alloy wheels and limited-slip differential are three of the few extra-cost items offered.

Arrange for a test drive

The 450SLC Coupe is patiently assembled and finished in the manner you would expect of a $16,000 Mercedes-Benz. Its workmanship alone makes it a joy to own.

But demand is already strong, and supply not unlimited. You would be wise to order at an early date to ensure that you get exactly the equipment and the color you prefer.

Call your authorized Mercedes-Benz dealer, whose name and address appear below. He can arrange a thorough test drive and answer all further questions. A final suggestion: be sure and ask about European delivery of your 450SLC. You stand to save by picking the car up at the Mercedes-Benz factory in Stuttgart, West Germany.

What's your reason for not buying a home NOW?

TROUBLED OVER HIGH INTEREST RATES

It is true interest rates have risen, but they do seem to have stabilized in the past several months. And while the rates may seem high, they are not climbing as rapidly as are labor and material costs. An increase or a decrease of ½ percent in interest rates only amounts to 30c per month per $1000 on a 25 year loan. Is it really wise to deny yourself the security, pleasure and pride of home ownership on the vague hope of interest rates going down, thus saving you only $3 or $4 a month? The value of your home will increase at a much faster rate than can be gained by any lowering of interest rates. NOW is a good time to buy!

WONDER WHERE TO BEGIN LOOKING?

Worry no more . . . most folks have found that the best place to shop for that new or lived-in home is in the Classified Real Estate columns of the Progress-Bulletin. It's here (and only here) that each day you'll find the very latest offerings of homes 'for sale' . . . advertised by the area's leading real estate firms and builders. Check the want ads today—and every day—to find the home that satisfies all your needs.

MEMORIAL DAY

We Pay Tribute To Those Who Gave Their Lives . . .

Today we pause to remember . . . with gratitude and respect . . . the men throughout this nation's history who answered the call to arms and lost their lives in freedom and dignity. Today we count our blessings, we also consider their cost. Nobody ever said it better than Abraham Lincoln: ". . . from these honored dead we take increased devotion . . . to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion." Today let's pledge ourselves to a just and lasting peace.
